WEST KEENLY INTERESTED IN 1928 ELECTION

Businessmen Talk as Much About Candidates as if Vote Came Tomorrow

ILLINOIS FAVORS DAWES
State Strong for Coolidge but Doubts if He Can Accept Nomination

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Chicago, 1927, By Post Pub. Co.
Copyright — National politics is the breakfast-dinner-and-supper food of the businessmen of the middle west. They are talking of 1928 as if it were tomorrow. Every bit of information that may possibly show which way the wind blows is eagerly absorbed. When the business man from New York comes here, he is immediately asked what New York state is going to do—do the businessmen want Coolidge or Hughes or Hoover and how about Al Smith?

This region of course is friendly to both former Governor Lowden and Vice President Dawes but it is apparent that Dawes has all the reserve strength needed to inherit whatever Mr. Lowden may acquire. Mr. Dawes is really the man-illinois expects to figure in the final lap of the Republican race.

There is a curious feeling here about President Coolidge. Regret that he decided not to be a candidate is expressed by business leaders who hope some way may be found to draft him. Indeed, if tomorrow Mr. Coolidge were to remove the uncertainty by indicating that he would accept a call from his party, uneasiness would in large part disappear. The businessmen do not like uncertainty and they think Mr. Coolidge can remove that element in the situation.

FEAR THIRD TERM
Yet the talk of drafting the president is by no means as evident as it is in the eastern states. Good friends of Mr. Coolidge, men who would work tooth and nail for his election, are expressing the fear that the third term issue would be used by a candidate such as Governor Smith very effectively if Mr. Coolidge changed his mind and accepted a nomination. The idea that the I-do-not-choose-to-run statement might be considered as insincere is not, of course, one that adherents of the president entertain for a moment but they see in it the possibility of a real political issue.

For this reason there are Coolidge men here who think that if the convention did nominate the president for another term it would be compelled to decline. Notwithstanding such sentiment, political maneuvering is an interesting story of a gathering of five county chairmen in New York state who were asked to put down on a slip of paper the name of the man who could carry New York and who would be in their judgment be the best vote-getter. They were asked not to consult each other. Every single ballot contained the name President Coolidge. On second choice, the name of Charles Evans Hughes was written on each ballot and the third choice was unanimously for Vice President Dawes.

SMITH TAKEN FOR GRANTED
It seems to be taken for granted out here that Al Smith will be nominated by the Democrats after very few ballots. The New York governor is popular in Illinois and it is noticeable that not a few businessmen look upon him as a "safe and sane" though this impression is to a large extent offset by the political people who say that Governor Smith leans too closely toward the Senator Norris school of government ownership of water power.

The expectation is that Governor Smith will make a strong plea for western support by showing himself ready to take the discussion of the bill as well as other items in the program of the insurgent Republican group. Senator Norris of Nebraska, has already stated publicly that neither religion nor prohibition were as important in politics as whether a man is progressive or conservative and he showed plainly his friendliness to Governor Smith. The Nebraska senator was bold enough to support William B. Wilson, a Democrat, for the senate in the Pennsylvania election last year and actually went to the Keystone state to make speeches for the Democratic nominee. All of this has led to the discussion of possible defections in the west from the Republican standards. Although the election is more than a year off, it is already apparent that the fight for the western states may decide the election, somewhat after the fashion of 1916.

DUKE OF NORFOLK FAILS TO PASS OXFORD TEST

London—(AP)—The young duke of Norfolk, premier duke and hereditary earl marshal of England, has failed to pass the qualifying entrance examination for entrance to Oxford university.

The duke, who is 19, has never been to school, having been instructed by a private tutor since early boyhood.

16 KILLED IN AUTO TRAGEDY IN INDIANA

Interurban Hits Truck Trailer Carrying Revelers to Barn Dance

Indianapolis, Ind.—(AP)—Sixteen persons, five of them women, were killed Friday night when the automobile trailer, in which they were riding to a pre-Halloween barn dance, was smashed to pieces by a Muncie-to-Indianapolis interurban car at the edge of the city. Five others were so seriously hurt they may die.

The trailer, drawn by a truck, carried the drill team of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of Enchanted Realm and relatives. There were only five passengers aboard the interurban and all were unhurt. The motor-man and conductor of the interurban car, however, were injured.

Henry St. Rt. driver of the motor truck, and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Pauley, who were riding with him, escaped, the truck having cleared the tracks when the crash came. Stewart said he neither saw nor heard the approach of the electric car. Fourteen of those in the trailer were killed outright. Two others died of their wounds.

BODIES CARRIED BY CAR
Songs on the lips of the revelers changed to shrieks of horror as the speeding truck car bore down on the trailer smashing and hurling bodies in all directions. Five persons were caught in the crushed-in vest-bule of the interurban car, and their bodies carried several blocks. Only a few who had started on the party just a few minutes before escaped death or injury.

Three sons-in-law, a daughter and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Pauley were killed. Another daughter is not expected to live, while a third daughter is in the hospital with a fair chance for recovery.

W. W. Merrill, motorman of the interurban, said he sounded his whistle as he approached the crossing. His statement was substantiated by Eli Titus, conductor.

DIDN'T HEAR INTERURBAN
Stewart, driver of the motor truck, said the first indication he had that anything was wrong was when his machine leaped forward as the trailer was cut from it.

Automobile lights played on the dead and dying as an effort was made to establish order out of chaos. Five dead and injured, and other relatives banded and wives and other relatives dead and injured, seeking their loved ones.

Members of the drill team as they piled into the truck half an hour before, took their musical instruments with them and it was to the tune of an accordion that the crash came as a tragic finale. Police took the driver of the motor truck to headquarters for questioning.

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

Edinburgh Scotland—(AP)—Constance Talmadge was granted a divorce Saturday by the court of session in her undefended action against Captain Alastair William Mackintosh.

Constance Talmadge, one of the three Talmadge sisters famous in the motion picture world, was married to Captain Alastair William Mackintosh, former officer in the Scotch Highlanders, and gave birth to a daughter, in California in February, 1926. Three years previously Miss Talmadge had obtained a divorce from her first husband, John T. Pileggi, a Greek tobacco merchant, with whom she eloped in December, 1920.

APPLETON MAN FINED AS PARKING LAW VIOLATOR

R. M. McGowan, 908 E. Eldorado, was fined $1 and costs amounting to $4.50 by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday afternoon when he pleaded guilty to a charge of violating a city parking ordinance. McGowan was arrested by Fred Arnold, motorcycle officer, for parking his automobile in the prohibited zone in front of the post office on Oct. 3.

PROPHET

DR. JOHN R. STRATTON

DR. STRATTON SAYS HE'S GOD'S PROPHET

Satan Is Real Person, Fundamentalist Pastor Says at Hearing

New York—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. John Roach Stratton, fundamentalist pastor of Calvary Baptist church, believes he is "a prophet of God." His belief was disclosed when he was under cross-examination by Leonard Snitkin in court at the hearing of Charles Smith, president of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, on charges preferred by the clergyman, who complained when Smith sent him copies of the magazine Sex and Extremes setting forth the views of atheists.

"You probably believe that Satan is a real person?" Mr. Snitkin asked. "I certainly do," Dr. Stratton replied. "I know he is a definite entity."

"Have you ever seen him in Calvary church?"

"Well, I have seen evidences of him there."

"Really, seriously, Dr. Stratton, do you believe yourself a prophet of God?"

"I do."

Dr. Stratton said as "A decent man" he would have looked away from a picture of Diana as contained in the magazine. The case was continued.

AGAIN PETITION SUPREME COURT IN STOLEN CASE

Madison—(AP)—Madison lawyers, who were refused the privilege of asking lenience in the state supreme court for former Superior Court Judge O. A. Stoen at the time his disbarment proceedings, Saturday filed a petition as citizens of Wisconsin, asking the high bench to reconsider its refusal to hear the original petition. John B. Sanborn, Madison, entered the petition, asking for reconsideration of the original petition. It was left with the court clerk, the supreme court to rule later on its acceptance.

PASTOR EXPRESSES HIS FAITH IN YOUNG PEOPLE

Racine—(AP)—"I believe in the young people of today," said the Rev. Howard Agnew Johnston, Milwaukee, at the opening session of the Christian evangelist convention here Friday evening.

"They did not make the conditions under which they are living—they found them."

"In citizenship our hope for a better world is again in the young people. To stand staunchly for a sane, less notion, to forward the cause for the abolition of war and to the right of franchise will inevitably make for that higher citizenship," he said.

The convention will continue through Sunday, on which day there will be several addresses and installation of the officers to be elected late Saturday.

BARONESS KILLS SELF WHILE VISITING ROME

Rome, Italy—(AP)—A beautiful Russian woman who committed suicide by poison here Friday night with the request in a note that many photographs of the noted tenor, Benjamin Gigli in her room be buried with her, was Baroness Alexandra Markovitch.

The baroness was a Russian by birth, but had long lived in Berlin and had been visiting Rome and other Italian cities for the past few weeks. A sum of 8,000 gold marks were left by the baroness for use for orphans by the city of Naples.

REGINALD DENNY AND WIFE HAVE SEPARATED

Los Angeles—(AP)—The Examiner Saturday says that Reginald Denny, film star and his wife, Irene Blazman, musical comedy actress, have separated. Mrs. Denny having moved from the family residence in Hollywood. At the theatre where she is appearing Mrs. Denny declined to discuss the separation.

PAIR FIRST TO FINISH FLIGHT OF 2,150 MILES

Average Speed 113 Miles an Hour—Aviators Are Cheered as Heroes

Pernambuco—(AP)—Two daring French aviators, Dieudonne Costes and Lieut. Joseph Le Brix, have conquered the South Atlantic in one hop, a feat at least many times but never before accomplished.

Winging across the ocean from St. Louis, Senegal, they brought their Breguet Military biplane, Nungesser-Coli, down on the flying field near Port Natal, on the tip of the Brazilian peninsula at 11:40 Friday night to receive the ovations of a great crowd and the official congratulations of Brazilian officials.

The start from St. Louis was made at 8:23 Thursday morning, Senegal time. Flying over Dakar, they headed out across the Atlantic at 7:40. The distance from Dakar to Port Natal is about 2,150 miles which, with the three hour time difference gives an elapsed time from the African to the South American coast of 19 hours and an average speed of about 113 miles an hour.

From the time of their departure from the African coast until their landing, there was no report of their having been sighted by any vessels and their approach to the Brazilian coast was heralded only when signals from their wireless were picked up by ships north of Fernando de Noronha island.

Costes and Le Brix now have behind them the most hazardous of the four laps in their flight from Paris to Buenos Aires which is intended to blaze the trail for a Franco-South American Air mail.

RUTH JAUNTY AS EVER
Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores—(AP)—Vivacious as ever, and minus neither her poise nor her lipstick, Ruth Elder stepped ashore here Saturday morning safe with her co-pilot, George W. Haldeman, from their daring venture over the Atlantic in the monoplane, American girl. It was a far cry from her starting point near New York, but the pretty American aviatrix looked to the great crowd that had come to greet her with a fitting smile.

Having gripped the imaginations of the Parisians by her courageous attempt and her dramatic rescue at sea, the fair flier's name Saturday was on everybody's lips and on the first pages of all the newspapers. Preparations have been made to give her a fitting welcome.

It appears, however, that she will be unable to make her entry into the capital before the end of next week.

GERMAN READY FOR U. S.
Horta, Island of Fayal Azores—(AP)—The German aviators of the Junkers plane D-120, which arrived here Friday from Lisbon, announced Saturday that they intended to leave for Newfoundland, with New York as their ultimate destination, as soon as they could make their plane ready.

DAWN AGAIN DELAYED
Night Orchard, Me.—(AP)—A sudden night change in trans-Atlantic weather forced a fresh postponement Saturday morning of the scheduled hop off of Mrs. Frances Wilson Grayson and her two companions in their giant amphibian Dawn, for Copenhagen.

Hilton said that one statement attributed to the book by Gorman is not in it, and that others criticized were not the sentiments of Muzzey, but were qualified as the private and personal views of King George III of England. He pointed out the book was not introduced into the schools by Superintendent McAndrew, but has been a text since 1912. He gave figures from other states, showing that out of 438 schools canvassed in Wisconsin the history was used in 224, and in 238 out of 388 schools in California. It is also in use in 29 schools in New York City, Hilton stated.

Professor William E. Dodd of the University of Chicago history department, described the charges as "absurd."

Muzzey's text is absolutely impartial," he asserted.

Publisher and Professor Enter Chicago School Row

Chicago—(AP)—A professor of history and a publisher of text books have aligned themselves behind William Muzzey, the Chicago superintendent of schools, who is fighting charges of fostering pro-British propaganda by using an American history text.

Henry H. Hilton, member of the firm of Ginn and company, publishers of Dr. David Muzzey's history, the principal text attacked—characterized as "silly" the action of the board of education which now has McAndrew on trial on several charges growing out of the "anti-American" issue.

As for John J. Gorman, who made charges against the book at the McAndrew hearing Thursday, Mr. Hilton said: "He is either unable to read ordinary English or else twists the meanings of his phrases throughout the book to suit his own purposes."

Dutch Captain Tells How His Ship Rescued Fliers

Horta, Island of Fayal, Azores—(AP)—The story of the rescue of Ruth Elder and George W. Haldeman, as told by Captain Goos of the steamship Barendrecht to a correspondent of the Associated Press Saturday was as follows:

"It was 7:45 a. m. on Thursday when we sighted the American girl. She came rapidly up to us and flying over the ship threw down a message which fell on our deck. The message read: 'How far are we from land, and which way?' Ruth Elder. After checking our position we painted an answer on deck: 'True S 40, West 360 miles from Terceira, Azores.'

"This was understood by the aviators and after the American girl had circled over the Barendrecht it began to descend and then landed alongside our ship.

"The crew of the Barendrecht rushed to their rescue in one of the ship's boats which went alongside the machine. By means of ropes the two aviators managed to get into the boat which then returned to the Barendrecht and were safely taken aboard. In accordance with their request, arrangements were made to hoist the airplane aboard the steamer, but suddenly two explosions occurred just under the surface of the water and in a moment the whole machine was afire and we were obliged to cut all ropes and give up hope of saving her.

"We then changed our course and made for Horta in order to land the aviators there. Both seemed pretty well, despite the trying ordeal."

Captain Goos said that both Miss Elder and Captain Haldeman had expressed deep gratitude to himself and to his crew for rescuing them.

POSTPONE INQUEST INTO COLLAPSE OF MILL AT KIMBERLY

Engineers Aren't Ready to Take Stand on Monday, District Attorney Says

The coroner's inquest into the collapse of the heater room at the Kimberly mill of the Kimberly-Clark company which claimed the lives of nine men, will not be resumed Monday morning as was first planned because engineers representing the state industrial committee are not in a position to testify on that date. Indications are that the hearing will be resumed Wednesday, according to District Attorney John A. Lamsdorf, engineers believing that by that time workmen will have removed all the debris and the actual condition of the foundation noted.

Inquiry into the cause of the accident was ordered by the district attorney at the request of persons interested in ascertaining the cause of the collapse. Members of the jury are Joseph Langenberg, George Artz, Edward Poole, Emil Zeidler, Albert Rehn and A. V. Koch. Dr. H. E. Ellis, Outagamie co. coroner is in charge of the hearing.

The first session of the jury was held last Monday at which time the members were sworn in and permitted to view the bodies of two of the dead men. The bodies were taken to the scene of the accident and watched rescue crews remove debris and the body of one of the victims.

Engineers who constructed the building, industrial commission experts, workmen and mill officials are expected to testify at the hearing during the week.

RIVER SUBWAY PLANS ARE SUBMITTED TO U. S.

Washington—(AP)—The application of the Detroit-Ohio subway for approval of plans for a subway under the Detroit river between Detroit and Windsor, Canada, has been received at the war department. The project is the joint proposal of the subway company on the American side and of a similar Canadian company.

NO, RUTH DOESN'T RATE HIGH AMONG GERMANS

Berlin—(AP)—Ruth Elder's exploit, however plucky, finds but grudging favor in a portion of the German Press. Thus Zwickl, the Blatt has an article casting its doubts of worth upon this type American super-girl who imagines all the world powers of nature are hers to command.

A. J. HALL NEW HEAD OF BADGER SECTION OF U. S. WATERWORKS

Madison—(AP)—A. J. Hall, superintendent of the Appleton water works, was elected chairman of the Wisconsin section of the American Waterworks association during the closing business session here Friday. H. W. Jackson, Antigo, was elected vice chairman, and H. A. Greeley, Janesville, was elected director.

An inspection of the Michigan-Wisconsin football game Saturday closed the waterworks association convention.

C.—(AP)—The dean of the diplomatic corps, Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador, and Lady Isabella Howard will contribute to Washington society the first big ball of the season Tuesday night when they entertain several hundred guests in honor of Admiral Sir Walter Cowan and his staff of the visiting British warships Calcutta and Cairo. It will be held at the embassy on Connecticut-ave.

Secretary Wilbur will be host to the naval officers at dinner Monday night and just preceding the ball on Tuesday night, Captain Arthur Stopped the British naval attaché, will give them a dinner.

ALBANIAN MINISTER ASSASSIN'S VICTIM

Young Countryman Commits Murder to Prevent 'Betrayal' of Nation

Prague, Czechoslovakia—(AP)—After gulping three glasses of cognac, Agi-vah Bey, a young Albanian, suddenly approached Tsenay Bey, Albanian minister to Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia in a cafe on the Wencesplatz Friday night and fired two shots into his back. The minister died on the way to the hospital.

His dead accomplice Bey calmly handed the revolver to a waiter, surrendered to a policeman and was taken away. To the police commissary he said he had killed Tsenay Bey because he believed the minister intended to betray Albania to Jugo-Slavia.

Repeated questioning by the police failed to shake his assertion as to the motive for his crime. News of the assassination spread rapidly and caused a sensation.

Tsenay Bey, already minister to Jugo-Slavia, had been only recently named minister to Czechoslovakia as well. A brother-in-law of Ahmed Zogu, the Albanian president, he helped him depose former Premier an Noli and was at one time his commander-in-chief and minister of interior and foreign affairs. He was only 32 years old.

NAGLER APPOINTMENT HIT BY MADISON WALTONITES

Madison—(AP)—The Madison chapter of the Isaak Walton league voiced its regret at the "obvious and deliberate violation of the law in spiriting away its trials of waterfowl to the conservation director in a resolution passed Friday night.

"No pretext can be made by the appointee or by the commissioners that he has any special training or skill in conservation work," the chapter asserted. "We regret deeply the present conservation situation in Wisconsin but we have faith in the ultimate realization of the law in spite of its being apparently blocked for the present."

DRY AGENTS WATCH FOR BOOZE AT BADGER GAME

Madison—(AP)—Eyes of a large force of state and federal prohibition agents and local police centered Saturday on the thousands converging here for the Wisconsin-Michigan football game.

Six men, two of them university students, were arrested Friday night in pre-game celebrations on charges of drunkenness or disorderly conduct. Four paid fines of $10 and costs Saturday morning and the cases of the two others were dismissed.

Conservation was assigned to the game and state and federal prohibition departments were represented by an unknown number of agents.

Eight men who said they were from Milwaukee and Chicago, who sought to profit from the game by peddling other evidence of school affiliations were rounded up by Madison police. They were told to get out of town by Chief Trostle, who refused to grant them peddling licenses.

LONDON BISHOP JOINS HOLE-IN-ONE SOCIETY

Tallahassee, Fla.—(AP)—Ruth Bryan Owen of Miami, will enter the race for congress from the Fourth district, according to advice received here. Mrs. Owen, a daughter of the late W. J. Bryan, ran in 1925 for the Democratic nomination campaign against Congressman W. J. Sears.

VESSEL SINKS IN 10 MINUTES; FEAR 7 KILLED

French Steamer Hits Norwegian Ship at Full Speed in New York Harbor

MOST OF CREW RESCUED

Liner Not Damaged in Collision—No Time to Launch Freighter's Boats

New York—(AP)—Steaming to sea with a full load of passengers, her high above the great liner, the French steamer Bessie, anchored near the Statue of Liberty, early Saturday. Seven members of the freighter's crew of 31 were probably lost as the vessel rolled over and sank within ten minutes.

The Paris was not damaged and proceeded on her way after standing by and saving some of the crew. Nearby tugs and ferryboats rushed to the scene and lowered lifeboats. Twenty-four of the crew, including Captain Ludwig Hassell, his wife and four-year-old son, were picked up. Hours after the disaster the checkup of the crew indicated that seven probably had been drowned.

Those aboard the freighter clambered to the superstructure when it was found that all lifeboats had been thrown from their davits and time prohibited use of life belts.

NO WARNING GIVEN
No warning of the crash came to the sleeping persons aboard the 2,550-ton freighter, 300 feet long as the liner, 735 feet long and of 2,680 tons, loomed out of the night and crashed the Bessie against the liner.

Within a few minutes the superstructure of the freighter was dotted with frantic passengers and seamen as the vessel listed and rolled. Many jumped into the harbor and called to gathering rescue craft.

The hunt for survivors continued throughout the night, long after the silent waters of the main channel, the busiest steamship lane in the world, had completely submerged the freighter.

Most of the survivors were treated at St. Vincent's hospital on Staten Island and at the Battery.

SPECULATE ON CAUSE
Three possible causes of the collision were advanced by witnesses: A strong northerly wind, which swept across the upper bay, an ebb tide which at the point where the collision occurred, came with considerable strength and the sunken hulk, lying a short distance away, of a freighter which went down in the channel last fall about a half mile from the Statue of Liberty.

Observers were of the opinion that all three of these causes might have had a contributory share in the crash.

CHICAGO LIQUOR WAR NOW INCLUDES WOMEN

Chicago—(AP)—Women are now being made the target of rival liquor gangs, the county highway police declared Saturday in announcing they had solved the starting Wednesday of Mrs. Catherine Jones, 32, of Chicago Heights.

Mrs. Jones, mother of a three-year-old child, was shot to death before the eyes of her baby when she answered a knock at her door. The police Saturday said she had been friendly with Frank Fasseini, an alcohol distiller, who was "taken for a ride" and killed this week.

The police said that Mrs. Jones, through her friendship with the distiller, had obtained information which had resulted in several raids in Chicago Heights.

ATTORNEY GENERAL IS RECOVERING FROM INJURY

Madison—(AP)—Attorney general John W. Reynolds who was injured in an automobile accident here Friday was in an improved condition at the hospital Saturday. He was not severely injured, it was said at the hospital. Mr. Reynolds parked his car in front of the Loraine hotel and was walking across the street when struck by a car driven by a woman, whose name was not learned.

ARREST WEYAUWEGA MAN AS "HIT AND RUN" AUTO DRIVER

Harvey Riska Admits He Drove Car Which Did Not Stop After Hitting Women

Harvey Riska, 24, Weyauwega, was arrested Friday night by Appleton police after he admitted he drove the automobile which struck two women at the corner of Appleton-st and W. College-ave last Tuesday afternoon and then sped away. Riska was arraigned before Judge Edgar A. Werner in municipal court Saturday morning and was bound over to Tuesday, Oct. 25 when he will be given a preliminary hearing. He is charged with failure to stop after injuring a person. He was released when his father furnished $300 bonds.

Local police obtained a clew to Riska through a passerby who took the number of the machine and reported it at the police station when it was learned that the driver had escaped. Riska told police that he drove to the Elitthe theatre after the accident and then drove to the police station but was afraid to go in. He said he was excited and hardly knew what he was doing.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Riska was driving his machine west on College-ave when he struck the two women. Mrs. Joseph Manard and Mrs. Cora Williams, 411 W. Seventh-st. They were crossing College-ave on the west crosswalk on Appleton-st. Mrs. Manard was confined to St. Elizabeth hospital for several days with result of severe bruises and contusions about her shoulders and legs. Mrs. Williams was only slightly hurt and was released from the hospital after her injuries were dressed.

After Riska struck the two women a large number of spectators gathered and he slipped away in the excitement. The police had no clew to his identity until the next day when a passerby reported that he had taken the number. A search had been started for Riska in all nearby cities.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Generally fair tonight and Sunday, preceded by unsettled this afternoon in northeast; slightly colder tonight; probably frost; cooler Sunday in extreme southeast and rising temperature in northwest portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is high over the eastern and southern states and over the Great Plains, with fair weather. A low pressure area is moving eastward along the international border, causing a rise in temperature over the upper Mississippi valley and Lake region. It is producing little rain, however, the showers so far being light and confined to the Lake Superior region. The trough of this "low" will pass this section today and be followed by the higher pressure now over the plains states, with generally fair weather and about normal temperatures here over the weekend.

CATS COLOR BLIND

Lincoln, Neb.—It's a very rare and colorless world for cats. Prof. J. M. Grege of Nebraska Wesleyan University, who has been experimenting with the color sensitivity of night-prowling animals, says that cats lack all color perception. Even dogs are almost color blind.

COUNTY MOTORCYCLE OFFICER CONVINCED HE IS NO WRESTLER

Walter Farrell, county motorcycle officer, has been convinced that he is no wrestler. The reason for this conviction is Norbert Hiller, Shiocton. And the argument falls in a much better light when it is a match held at the Five Corners hall Thursday night before a large crowd. Hiller proved, beyond a doubt, that he was the better man and Farrell is reported as having said that "as a wrestler I'm all wet."

The trouble started some time ago when Hiller claimed he could throw any man his own weight. Now Farrell is about 20 pounds lighter than Hiller but he was jealous of his prowess as a wrestler and he challenged Hiller and the affair at Five Corners was arranged. Hiller threw Farrell the first time in 12 minutes and the second time in a minute and a half.

MULTIPLY AIR SPEED BY SIX SINCE 1913

Winning French Airplane Reached 44.7 Miles an Hour in First Race

Calshot Air Station, England.—(AP)—The advance in air speed since 1913 when the Schneider cup race was first held, seems incredible when it is recalled that the winning French airplane only reached a speed of 44.7 miles an hour.

England captured the trophy in 1914 with a speed of 55.3 miles an hour, while the next year, in 1915 at Bournemouth, England, resulted in no award. In 1920 Italy won with 102.5 miles, and it repeated the victory in 1921 with a speed of 117.4 miles.

Great Britain recaptured the trophy in 1922 with a speed of 146.5 miles, but lost it again in 1923 to the United States when Lieutenant D. Rittenhouse made 177.33 miles an hour at Cowes, England, in his Curtiss D12 biplane. In 1925, when the next race was held at Baltimore, Lieutenant J. H. Doolittle retained the trophy for the United States with a speed of 232.57 miles an hour in his Curtiss racer.

Italy won back the award in 1926 when Major Mario de Bernardi made 245.49 miles an hour in his Macchi Fiat at Hampton Roads, Virginia.

The Schneider Maritime Aviation Cup was presented in 1922 to the Aero Club of France by M. Jacques Schneider, a French sportsman and aviator, with a view to developing high speed seaplanes. It is a magnificent trophy of gold, silver and bronze, valued at about $5,000.

The country winning the cup is required to schedule and hold the race on the following year. This Schneider Cup course is a triangular course of 188.56 nautical miles.

SCOTSMEN ARE ANNOYED BY KILTS ON TOURISTS

Inverness, Scotland.—(AP)—Scotsmen are determined to discourage American and English tourists who immediately put on kilts when they come north of the Tweed and commit the unforgivable error wearing them too high, thereby exposing too much of their knees.

The problem is before a committee of the Kilt society, composed of representatives of the various clans. During a meeting of this august body it was brought out that many of the clan representatives themselves wear their kilts too high. A committee of inquiry will, if necessary, revise the rules for wearing of kilts.

HUMANE SOCIETY SEEKS TO END DOG CROPPING

Albany, N. Y.—(AP)—The American Humane association has begun another effort to do away with cropping of dogs.

Richard C. Craven, editor of the National Humane Review, has formally asked the American Kennel club to rule that cropped dogs born after a specified date be barred from shows held under Kennel club rules.

Such a rule was adopted by the English Kennel club 30 years ago, he said. Barred from prize shows, cropped dogs would have little value except as pets and the practice would die out.

"Cropping," said Mr. Craven, "is faking. It is cruel, unsportsmanlike and a practice that belongs to a by-gone age."

SPIRITUALISTS GATHER TO HEAR OF VALENTINO

Juan-Les-Pins, France.—(AP)—Rudolph Valentino is "happy and contented" in the spirit world, according to spiritualists of the Riviera. Who gather weekly at the chateau of Richard Hudnut to receive Valentino's messages.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hudnut, foster father and mother of Valentino's divorced wife, are ardent seekers after spiritualistic information.

WARD STILL AIDS WAIF

Although she sells fruit to pay her rent, and often has little funds, Mrs. Charlotte Amelia Cook, of Kingston, the first child to be adopted by the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, of England, still is adopting waifs. She has never forgotten that the society saved her, when a little girl, from a jealous step-mother who had cruelly burned her with a red-hot poker. Although she has often been told that her next meal was coming from the streets and taking waifs from the streets and adopting them, at one time she was caring for seven babies at once. She refuses all payment for her services to the tots, explaining that she did it as a labor of love to repay the debt she owed the society.

Miss Irene Bidwell won first prize of $10 in the contest conducted by the Fair Drygoods Company on "Why I Wear Fair Store Stockings". Other prizewinners were Mrs. Harry Wheaton, Kaukauna, Mrs. William Van Wyk, Appleton, Mrs. John Morgan, Appleton, Miss Lillian Smith, Kaukauna, Mrs. Irma Gayhardt, Appleton, Mrs. R. M. Harriman. The judges were Mrs. L. J. Marshall, president of Appleton Women's club; Herb Heilig, director of Appleton Vocational school and H. L. Davis, business manager of Appleton Post-Crescent.

OLD BERLIN RESTAURANT FORCED TO CLOSE DOORS

Berlin.—(AP)—Borchardt's, Berlin's celebrated caterer, has gone into bankruptcy. After 70 years of fame as the restaurant for epicures and as caterer to every German court, the establishment, with its fancy grocery, has fallen a victim to general impoverishment.

Since a new clientele among the newly rich was not forthcoming, because of the increasing demand since the war for terpsichorean and musical pleasures, this mecca for so many noted gourmets has at last been forced to close its doors. Kangaroo tails, Indian swallows' nests, sharks' fins, live trout from the Russian Neva, the regular stock-in-trade of Borchardt's will be things of the past.

The former crown prince and a number of former ruling princes, as well as many distinguished foreign visitors were always to be found at Borchardt's. One of the best customers before the war was Czar Nicholas II of Russia. Another customer was the Turkish sultan, King Edward VII of England never failed to eat at Borchardt's when sojourning in Berlin.

"BANTAMS" ARE BARRED AS BRITISH POSTMEN

London.—(AP)—If Napoleon came to earth today he would be ineligible as a letter carrier in England. He would not be tall enough.

Regulations require that postmen here be at least five feet, four inches tall, and on this the postmaster general refused to budge.

The question of "bantams in the postal service" came up in the House of Commons. Duff Cooper, husband of Lady Diana Manners and Conservative member for Oldham, thought it very odd indeed that a man of Napoleon's height could not be a postman. Sir Mitchell Thompson, postmaster general, refuses to waive the regulations that permanent postmen must be of the specified height.

It was brought out also that for the same reason Wellington could not have served as letter carrier, and that neither Caesar, Nelson, Roberts, Evelyn, Wood nor French would have been able to qualify for a postman's job.

BERLIN SWINDLERS ARE USING CALLING CARDS

Berlin.—(AP)—Stealing calling cards from house doors has become a favorite trick of German swindlers. Cards with high sounding titles are especially sought.

In Germany persons are often introduced merely by the fact that the introducer gives the person to be introduced his visiting cards. A clever swindler, who obtains possession of the visiting card of Baron X and knows that Baron X is a good friend of Count Y, can negotiate a "touch" quite effectively by using Baron X's card as a card of introduction to Count Y.

Since calling cards tacked to the wall next to a bell-button or affixed in lieu of name plates are often sold, the swindler also tries to steal calling cards by pretending to call on a man with strong social connections. While the servant announces his name, the swindler helps himself to the calling cards in the tray of the ante-room.

WOMEN BUY MOST SNUFF ON MARKET IN ENGLAND

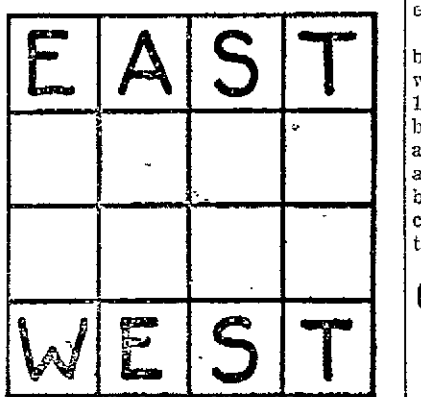

London.—(AP)—Sixty-five per cent of the snuff sold in England is purchased by women.

Although the habit of snuff-taking has considerably declined, women snuff-takers are to be found in every grade of society. There are said to be thousands in the Lancashire cotton mills. Cotton workers find snuff a valuable means of clearing the air passages of fluff.

Snuff is manufactured here by a complex process. Waste and scrap of tobacco are largely used and are moistened with a solution of common salt and left in heaps to ferment. The solution is flavored with liquor, tonka beans and other ingredients. The process of drying, grinding and a second fermentation follow.

LETTER GOLF

THEY NEVER MEET
East is east and all that, but it only takes three strokes to change EAST to WEST. Maybe you can better the solution printed on page 9.

THE RULES

- 1.—The idea of letter golf is to change one word to another and do it in par, a given number of strokes. Thus to change COW TO HEN, in three strokes, COV, HOW, HEW, HEN.
- 2.—You can change only one letter at a time.
- 3.—You must have a complete word of common usage, for each step. Slang words and abbreviations don't count.
- 4.—The order of letters cannot be changed.

HEARS FOOTSTEPS IN ROOM OF DEAD PAINTER

London.—(AP)—All of Chelsea, London's Bohemian quarter, is trying to help Alfred E. Orr, artist, solve the sound of footsteps and the mysterious turning of doorknobs in the studio where John Singer Sargent, American painter, died two years ago.

Orr, a close friend of Sargent, now occupies the studio which used to be that of the American master. He is neither a spiritualist nor a skeptic, he says, and he can neither affirm nor deny belief that Sargent has returned to haunt the studio where he rose to fame.

Footsteps which resemble Sargent's heavy tread are frequently heard, Orr says, and one night he awoke to see the knob of his bedroom door turned all the way over and back again, but when Orr and his butler searched the house no evidence of the visitor could be found. The bedroom is the one in which Sargent died.

BLUECOAT PUPILS STILL WEARING OLD COSTUME

London.—(AP)—Pupils of the old "Bluecoat School" not only wear the old time garb of the seventeenth century, which consists of a long blue coat and yellow stockings, but also, winter and summer, go without a head covering.

The original school, founded in 1709, still stands in Caxton-st, Westminster. A British commission on Historical monuments has recently singled it out as "a specially worthy of preservation."

The most noticeable feature of the exterior of this old building is a carved figure of a "Bluecoat Boy," which stands in a semi-circular niche above the main entrance. Below the niche is inscribed "This Bluecoat school was built in 1709." At the back of the building is an exterior wall painting of another "Bluecoat Boy." The lad's dress is a faithful copy of the costume of the citizens of London at the period when the school was built. The ordinary attire of apprentices and serving men was then a long blue coat and breeches, with which yellow stockings were generally worn.

FALCONRY NEAR END AS SPORT OF ENGLISH

London.—(AP)—Falconry, that old and honorable sport, which in the middle ages disputed for first place with hunting and jousting, is fast disappearing.

The Old Hawking club, the last to keep alive the ancient sport, has just gone out of existence. Falconry is still practiced by some persons in private. They obtain their fawns, however, in Holland. Occasionally a rider is to be seen following the flight of the falcon on horseback.

MOTHER DEFENDS CUB

Memomene, Mich.—After running down a bear cub which ran in front of his car, Leonard Baldwin stopped the machine and got out to capture the injured animal. He was met by a charge from the infuriated mother bear and his car best scratches showing where she missed him with a swipe of her paw as he slammed the door in her face. She kept the cub.

ADOPT SCHEDULE FOR OPENING SCHOOL DOORS

Parents of children attending Appleton grade schools have been requested to cooperate with school authorities by keeping the children at home until school buildings are opened in the morning and at noon.

The doors of the various school buildings will be opened during nice weather at 8:20 in the morning and at 1:20 in the afternoon; during rainy and bad weather at 8:10 in the morning and 1:10 in the afternoon. Janitors of all the grade school buildings have been notified as to the schedule, according to Ben J. Rohan, superintendent of schools.

OLD DRESS SUITS ARE PUZZLE TO AMERICANS

London.—(AP)—American visitors who have been attending London social functions have expressed much surprise at seeing some men's dinner suits which seem to them to have come from a musical comedy show.

What would you say to a light blue jacket, or a white jacket, with light blue breeches and lapels? Yet these are quite orthodox here, because they stand for scholastic or university athletic honors.

BERLIN HIGH SCHOOL IS ORGANIZING BANDS

Berlin.—(AP)—The Bismarck high school of Berlin claims the honor of the first orchestra in Germany made up entirely of students. While in general music is fostered in Germany as in few countries of the world, the United States for nearly ten years, the service for the blind in the Library of Congress already has enough titles to fill 61 pages of a catalogue and a number of other large libraries have similar services.

That has been made possible largely by the work of volunteer transcribers, about 800 of whom, most of them women, have been enlisted for the work throughout the United States by the American Red Cross. Most of the books are made by hand, at the rate of four to ten pages an hour, and a page of Braille is equivalent to about half a page of ordinary type.

CHICAGO SCHOOLS ADD COURSE IN AVIATION

Chicago.—(AP)—High school students of Chicago are to learn in the classroom the principles for flying.

The subject will be incorporated in a general mathematics course, and J. Lewis Coath, president of the board of education, has invited aviation and radio experts to assist in a preliminary study which will enable adaptation of such training to public school use.

The study will be the first of its sort in the United States, Coath believes, and will be eagerly sought because of the renewed interest in aviation.

ACTRESS IS WOUNDED WHILE WEARING GREEN

London.—(AP)—Actress and actress are murmuring here because Norah Blaney, actress with "The Vagabond King," has bought a green frock and a pair of shoes to match. There is a theatrical superstition that we should never wear green.

"Green is my lucky color, and Friday's my lucky day," Miss Blaney said, laughing away the advice of her friends.

But it was on Friday evening, while wearing the green doublet and hose as Huguette, that she received a dagger wound during the play, which nearly severed one of her fingers.

MAYOR WALKER IS BERLIN'S "JIMMY"

"Just an Ordinary Human Being" Attitude Delights German People

Berlin.—(AP)—There is no doubt that James J. Walker, mayor of New York, has become Berlin's own "Jimmy."

Perhaps it was his joyous confession that he was "just an ordinary human being" that went straight to the hearts of the people of the German capital. There was no solemn pomposity, no chilly official stand-offishness about this debonair chief magistrate of the great American metropolis, he's this was what pleased Berliners most.

Mayor Walker has seen Berlin, and he is full of admiration for it, according to an interview attributed to him in the Acht Uhr Abendblatt.

Mr. Walker's investigations of local conditions even extended to witnessing a general rehearsal of a vaudeville show. The idea came to him suddenly and was acted upon immediately. The janitor at the theater door had his doubts and sent a call boy in with the message: "There's a party here who says he's the mayor of New York, and he wants to come in."

Proof of identity was soon forthcoming, and Mr. Walker delighted the players with his bonhomie and merry sallies.

On the question asked him by another German interviewer, what chance a German art exposition would have in New York, the mayor was all enthusiasm, saying, he wholly approved of the idea and was sure it would be a great success. Americans, he said, are ever more becoming appreciative of true art and sound drama.

A serious minded German woman asked him how young America was being educated nowadays.

"Practically speaking, just as they please," was the mayor's reply. "Our teaching is all on the practical side. Mainly, our youngsters educate themselves. Joy of life is the best teacher. I was once asked, 'the mayor went on, 'how it was that American bred so many able citizens, and my answer to that was, 'Because we don't educate them in the strict sense of the word.' Success comes to those who are always awake, always ready to seize an opportunity, to those who have a sense of humor and are willing to try out everything and despise nothing."

VOLUNTEERS WORK ON LIBRARY FOR BLIND

900 Transcribers at Work to Prepare Books for Sightless Persons

Washington.—(AP)—Although Braille transcribing has been the standard form of writing for the blind in the United States for nearly ten years, the service for the blind in the Library of Congress already has enough titles to fill 61 pages of a catalogue and a number of other large libraries have similar services.

That has been made possible largely by the work of volunteer transcribers, about 800 of whom, most of them women, have been enlisted for the work throughout the United States by the American Red Cross. Most of the books are made by hand, at the rate of four to ten pages an hour, and a page of Braille is equivalent to about half a page of ordinary type.

Printing of Braille is an expensive process and books thus produced by the American Printing House for the Blind at Louisville, which receives assistance from the government, are necessarily confined largely to school texts. A Braille writer, something like a typewriter, is available for use by the hand workers, however, if they prefer that to the "slate" on which the characters are punched by hand.

Braille writing is a system employing a maximum of six dots, arranged in 104 combinations representing different letters and groups of letters. They are punched into specially prepared paper, presenting a series of raised symbols which may be read with the fingers.

Until recently each copy of a book not produced from brass plates had to be made by hand, but a process originated in France is being tried, whereby the paper after being punched can be baked up and hardened sufficiently to form a plate from which duplicates may be made.

CHILD NESTLES IN ARMS OF FATHER HELD ON ASSAULT CHARGE

The fact that Bert Lamb, 33, Kortoville, is accused of cutting his wife's throat and is held on a charge of assault with intent to murder, makes no difference to at least one of his seven small children. His daughter, scarcely three years old, accompanied her mother to Lamb's preliminary hearing in municipal court Friday morning and when Bert was taken into the court room from the county jail where he has been held since the affair, the little girl cried out:

"Oh, mummy, there's daddy, isn't it?"

SPANISH WOMEN HEAD THREE 'CURE' STATIONS

Madrid.—(AP)—A notable triumph for women is recorded in the list just published of the medical directors of watering-places under the supervision of the government. For the first time since it was established the department of health of Spain has nominated three women doctors to head three of three important "cure" stations.

Doctor Elisa Serrano is to manage the bathing establishment of the Porvenir, Miranda; Doctor Loreto Tapia that of La Margarita of Leoches; and Doctor Soledad Ruiz Capillas that of Arochavaleta in the province of Guipuzcoa.

Hitherto Europe in general has hesitated to place its medical "cure" in the hands of women, but Spain has decided to recognize that therein lies a wide field for women doctors.

Spain is remarkably well supplied with mineral springs, of which more than 1,500 have been captured for medicinal purposes.

NEW BRIDGE COSTS JOB OF OLD MAIL CARRIER

Stump Point, N. C.—(AP)—The island of Stump Point is about to lose its last veteran mail carrier.

For many years Capt. Pugh, now 82, has used a small boat to cross ten leagues of open sea and to deliver mail daily from the Carolina mainland. He will soon retire. A concrete highway is being built across the marshes and when it is finished the boat trip will be necessary no longer.

Stump Point has but 300 inhabitants, it has three boats. It never has had a divorce suit, it has more hairs of furs than any community of similar size in the state, and it has an unwritten law against the use of cigarettes.

BLAME CATERPILLARS FOR INFECTED SKIN

Berlin.—(AP)—Contact with caterpillars is said by the Prussian board of health to be the cause of numerous cases of skin disease among Berlin children. While not all caterpillars have this effect nor all children are equally susceptible, the board cautions parents against letting their children touch caterpillars of any description.

Medical experts say the skin eruption is caused by the hooked end of caterpillar hairs imbedded in the skin. The accompanying fever is caused by the worm's pungent excretion.

PRESIDENT BRINGS FISH TO FRONT PAGE

Columns of Newspaper Space Devoted to Tales of Cal's Fishing Ability

Washington.—(AP)—Even the poor fish has his day.

Since President Coolidge has given him the status of a Presidential Hobby, he has risen from second place on the menu to the head of columns in newspapers and has been enabled to show the nation and a number of statesmen just what can be done with the worm that turns.

As a result, fishing may yet turn the quiet po. of the land into political whirlpools. Already statesmen and politicians who have an eye on the White House or hope to contribute generously to the noise on the band wagon have greased their rods and reels to contest the fame of the president as an angler.

Vice President Dawes has planned two fishing trips. They are by no means the first he has planned, before and after taking office. Many a fish has been raised from obscurity on the vice presidential reel. He expects to try his luck this year in New Mexico, after which he will cast his lot with the public men assembling near the presidential waters in the streams of Nebraska, just over the line from South Dakota.

Senator Borah, having taken notice of the president's famous trout catch with a worm, has gone to big home waters in Idaho to demonstrate that a chairman of the senate foreign relations committee can do in the way of fishing without a worm.

Not to be outdone by the republicans, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, who claims to have fished in more waters than any man in national politics, has arranged numerous fishing excursions, determined to prove that he not only can lead the democrats in angling for advantage in legislative fields, but can lead statesmen, all and sundry, in angling for trout in promising waters.

Other senatorial de o's of the sport include Moses of New Hampshire, Harrison of Mississippi, Steck of Iowa, Caraway of Arkansas and Shipstead of Minnesota.

PROBLEM OF CURBING COLORADO RIVER IS MANY CENTURIES OLD

Seven States Involved in Project for Development of River

Denver —(AP)—When Captain Herando de Alarcon fared forth from the Gulf of California in 1540 to seek the seven fabled cities of Cibola he failed of his purpose, but he did discover El Rio Colorado—the Red River of America—the untamed and uncurbed Colorado river.

From the time of his discovery the river, winding its devious course from Grand Lake, Colo., southwest through Utah and the Grand Canyon of Arizona, has been the enemy of man.

In recent years its problem has become a national one, with the states it touches unable to agree upon a project for its control and with repeated efforts in congress to pass the Swing-Johnson bill providing for development of the stream.

Lately the governors of Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Utah, and representatives of the executives of California, Nevada and Arizona, gathered at Denver in a vain effort to smooth difficulties between Arizona and California over allocation of water rights set aside for those two states and Nevada in plans projected for control of the river. Apparently the states are as far as ever from agreement, and the problem will be one for congress to try again to solve.

1,750 MILES LONG
From an elevation of 14,000 feet at its source—Grand Lake, the largest body of water in Colorado—the river descends rapidly until in northern Arizona it enters a series of canyons which grow deeper and lead to the famous Grand Canyon, where the water is from 5,000 to 6,000 feet below the surface of the surrounding plateau. From its source to its mouth in the Gulf of California it travels 1,750 miles, and its drainage area is 244,000 square miles.

A compact was signed in 1922 between seven states possessing a share of the Colorado river basin, looking to control and use of the stream. In the agreement Secretary Herbert Hoover of the department of commerce was instrumental, deeming development of the river an important item in a national water program.

ONCE HAD COMPACT
The compact apportioned water from the Colorado for irrigation among the groups of states comprising the upper and lower basins, but made no effort to divide the water between individual states.

It never has become effective. Differences between California and Arizona over the water apportionment flood menace and projects for a storage reservoir in the Imperial Valley of California, have been factors in thwarting consummation of the agreement.

The dam and reservoir project became a political issue in the affected states, and finally the question of hydro-electric power was injected.

The recent conference followed an offer of mediation by Governors Derr of Utah, Dillon of New Mexico, Adams of Colorado and Emerson of Wyoming. For ten days the executives and their envoys discussed solutions only to discard them. Power, with its ramifications of royalties, taxes and distributions, has become an issue which keeps the states far apart and the development of the river remains an issue for congress to dispose of.

TO APPEAL TO PUBLIC THROUGH FILM MEDIUM

Berlin —(AP)—Determined to regain lands, buildings and mines worth $37,000,000 which he alleges have been stolen from his family, Ernst von Fredersdorff, descendant of Frederick the Great's trusted confidant, Michael Gabriel von Fredersdorff, has resorted to the unusual expedient of advertising for a leading lady for a film drama that he intends to put on the market.

Von Fredersdorff claims that a sweetheart of Frederick the Great, Marie Elizabeth Daun, poisoned the elder Fredersdorff, alleged himself to be his wife and heiress, and falsified church and public records. She is to be the "villain" of his film drama.

Fredersdorff has spent years in searching church records and other documents. His most recent discovery is that his forbear died twice—or, in other words, that he was entered as deceased in the records of two churches far apart.

All his research has not yet, however, brought him favorable action by the courts. He has therefore decided to appeal directly to the public through the motion pictures.

His advertisement in the daily press reads in part:

"Wanted—lady, about 5 1/2 feet high, dark eyes, somewhat plump, as heroine of a novel and film which will exploit the historical documents revealing the fraud committed on M. B. von Fredersdorff, privy chancellor and treasurer to Frederick the Great."

MOTOR SMASHES GROW ON FRENCH HIGHWAYS

Paris —(AP)—Automobile accidents in France are increasing in almost the same proportion as the number of cars. In August 70 persons were killed and 206 were injured.

The press has begun a campaign to encourage prudence on the part of drivers. The automobilists themselves are less inclined to blame the mount in accident list on carelessness and love of speed than upon the new rules of the road. Under the old regulations the car on the main road had the right of way over vehicles on secondary routes. The new law gives priority of passage to the car coming from the right.

When the new regulations were made it was thought they would result in slower driving on the main roads, some of which are smooth and straight as arrows for miles upon miles. There has been no diminishing of speed on the main roads and there has been a marked increase on the secondary roads.

A new bank is opened for business every weekday in England. More than 200 have been opened this year, and the annual average for the last ten years is about 270.

JOBLESS YOUNG MAN IS HELPED BY RAINS

Berlin—Max Schulz, a jobless young man of the Berlin borough of Tempelhof, hopes every day for cloudbursts or at least heavy rains. They mean jangling cash for him.

Schulz has hit upon the idea of appearing at strategic street corners, armed with horse blankets, whenever a sudden cloudburst or unexpected rain storm surprises his fellow citizens. As they seek refuge under an overhanging roof or entrance to a building, Max Schulz politely steps up and asks, "Would you like to have me see you home? If you will wrap yourself into this blanket the rain won't touch you."

Gratefully the pedestrian accepts, and awards his helper with a substantial tip. "In the course of a normal shower I earn about five marks per hour," Schulz claims. "But when there is a real cloudburst, I make 10-15 marks. People are so happy to reach home with their clothes dry that they pay me handsomely."

Schulz borrows the horse blankets from different livery stables.

PASTOR FILLS 13 JOBS DURING MONTH

"Laboring Parson" Wanted Experience of "Sweat of My Brow" Sermon

New Monmouth, N. J. —(AP)—The world was brought to fighting par excellence, but to the Rev. H. Bruce Simpson goes the appellation of "laboring parson."

So that he might speak with authority when he came to deliver a sermon on "The Sweat of My Brow," Rev. Mr. Simpson spent his vacation month this summer in manual toil.

The first intimation of his decision to his congregation at the First Baptist church of New Monmouth was an advertisement in the church paper.

"Wanted! Wanted! Wanted! A new job for every day. The pastor is spending his vacation working. Will spend a month getting a sermon for Labor day. No choice of work, just so it is hard. No wages requested. Don't talk church matters."

His "ad" was successful and his own parishioners gave him plenty to do. He was deckhand, fisherman, jobster, farmhand, clam digger, truck driver, mason, fireman, iceman, coal heaver, furniture mover, carpenter and real estate agent.

In two weeks he had become brown and hardened to toil. He gained several pounds in weight and said that he "felt fine."

Mr. Simpson recommends his idea to brother ministers—not only because it improved him physically and spiritually, but also because "it brought the pastor closer to the heart of his congregation."

Mr. Simpson, who is a graduate of the University of Virginia and of Princeton Theological seminary in 1926, is a football enthusiast—both on the gridiron and in the grandstand. He coaches the teams turned out by the Middletown township high school.

IRISH FALSTAFF SAVES FREE STATE

Dublin, Irish Free State —(AP)—Only a few days ago John Jinks was only mayor of Sligo, a man of great girth and greater laughter. Today he is Ireland's man of the hour, the Falstaff of the Emerald Isle. Songs are sung to commemorate his existence. His name has given birth to the word "jinking." And all not because of what he did, but because of what he didn't do.

The present Free-State government of Ireland, with President Cosgrave at its head, stood on the threshold of defeat. Business hesitated and grew afraid. Perhaps Ireland would be swept into another caliginism.

The combined opposition moved a vote of no confidence in the government. If the vote passed, the government would resign. At 2 o'clock in the afternoon Mr. Jinks had voted with the opposition to submit the vote of censure. The opposition counted on Mr. Jinks.

But when the great moment came Mr. Jinks had gone. After listening to the preliminary speeches preceding the vote he quietly took his hat and left the Dail. Seventy-two votes were cast for the government and only 72 votes were cast for the opposition. The speaker cast the deciding vote in favor of the government. The Free State was saved.

At once the search for Mr. Jinks began. The opposition said the government had kidnapped him. A squadron of reporters raced to Mr. Jinks' hotel and there they found him. His action had been the deciding factor in the vote.

"I was not convinced that change of government on the lines proposed would be for the good of the country," he said. "and therefore I left the house just before the division was taken. I did not know that my vote would have decided the issue, but if I had I should have acted exactly as I did."

NO CRIME IN CALLING POLICEMAN "COMMUNIST"

Paris —(AP)—"Communist" used as a term of approbation, has no sting in the eyes of French courts.

A Carcassonne policeman arrested two men who could think of nothing worse to say to him. He said he had read Minister of the Interior Sarraute's speech saying, "Communism is that our enemy" and naturally thought a cabinet minister ought to know what he was talking about.

In court the men's attorney said the ministers received a communist ambassador from Moscow, and that many deputies, officials and public school teachers were communists.

"Is then, a policeman, more particular than these?" the lawyer asked.

Ferdinand Of Bulgaria, Graying Around Temples, Made And Unmade His Fortunes

BY MILTON BRONNER

Coburg, Germany—The most popular man in this little German capital town of the former principality of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha is an exiled king—the former Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria.

This is one of the strangest things in the history of latterday Germany, where ex-kings and princes are none too esteemed as the country increasingly weighs the evils that the royal-wont brought upon it.

The explanation is that "Ferdie the Fox" stands in a class all by himself. No other ruler in modern Europe both made and unmade himself the way Ferdinand did.

A SELF-MADE CZAR
Bulgaria had been an autonomous province under Turkish suzerainty when Ferdinand became its ruling prince. He was elected to this post by the Sobranje, the national parliament of the Bulgars. He won the election over the bitter opposition of Russia.

In 1908, fired by ambition to be something more than a mere prince, "Ferdie" proclaimed Bulgaria's complete independence and conferred on himself the new title of czar.

Next he brought the hitherto irreconcilable Balkan nations—Bulgaria, Serbia, Greece, Montenegro—together into a Balkan League, with him at the Turk and Greek for more territory as their common bonds of sympathy.

A LOT OF WARRING
The League made war on Turkey in 1912 and badly whipped that power, the Bulgarian army being in the van. Then the Balkan allies fell out over the spoils, and in a second war in 1913 Bulgaria fought her friends of the year before.

Rumalia stepped in against the Bulgars, and Ferdinand had to make a losing peace. But if he was crestfallen, it was not for long.

He set about reorganizing his army along German lines. He made of Sofia the most modern Balkan capital—also along German lines.

French blood and German blood within his own veins had fought, and the German had won.

LOSING HIS THRONE
When the World War started, Ferdinand weighed its possibilities for more than a year. Then in October, 1915, he entered it on the side of the Central Powers.

His army overran Serbia. Old grudges against Russia were liquidated.

But the "Fox" again had made a mistake. In 1918 he was forced to abdicate and flee to Coburg, the home of his forebears.

Still, he was not called "Fox" for nothing. He became an "ex," but not a poverty-stricken one. He sent truckloads of meat, flour, and all kinds of provisions to Coburg ahead of him. He supplied himself plentifully with cash.

A PLEASANT LAIR
The people of Coburg took a quick liking to him. He mingled with them freely on the streets, and in their homes.

Also, there was the case of their splendid theater, where classic drama and opera were maintained. The theater always had been subsidized by the reigning prince. With no prince, the subsidy ceased.

Ferdinand volunteered the needed funds. Coburg still has its drama and opera. And the ex-czar became a popular hero.

The "Fox" now graying and aging has found a pleasant lair. No one hunts him, and no one hates him. In that respect he contrasts strongly with some other "exes" on whom the hand of royal misfortune has fallen.

Unlike most of them, too, he is content in his new realm of popularity, happy in the regard and affection of the citizens of Coburg, and desiring nothing more.

NICKEL BUYS SHINE ON MEXICAN BORDER

Villa Acuna, Mexico —(AP)—Prices along the Mexican border have kept pace with prices elsewhere except in the matter of a shoe shine. A first class polish still can be obtained in this little village, across the Rio Grande from Del Rio, Texas, for five cents.

When tourists wonder at the price for shiners, the Mexican shoe shiners shrug their shoulders and glance up the hill from the international bridge where 16 barrooms line the little pueblo.

"Supply and demand, senior," one says. "Few who come here are interested in shoe shiners."

FLOOD REFUGEES HELP REBUILD ROADS, LEVEES

Baton Rouge, La. —(AP)—Flood victims of the Mississippi flood in Louisiana, returned to homes where farm work is plentiful but not immediately productive of food or money, have been given employment wherever possible in rebuilding damaged highways and levees.

Approximately a half million dollars has been spent by the highway department already in restoring main roads, while additional large sums have been spent on parish traffic arteries. All the main highways again have been opened, though temporary bridges have been erected over many washouts.

PUNCTURE MAKES INN FAVORITE OF BANKERS

Saint Paul, France —(AP)—Two years ago the keeper of the Golden Dove inn despaired because none came to try his Provincial kitchen or taste his rare wines.

Then one day the motor car of Benjamin Strong, governor of the United States federal reserve bank, punctured a tire in front of the hostelry. The gates to wealth were opened. Strong returned to dine each night for several weeks, bringing first Montague Norman, governor of the Bank of England, and then Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury for the United States.

Now many noted bankers dine there, signing in a special book, and the inn has taken on an imposing air. But prices remain at the same low level as when Benjamin Strong first stopped there by force of circumstances to dine.

Backing the losers in the world war cost him his throne.

But as an "ex" he is happy and popular

FOUR CHINESE BODIES CLAIM SUN'S MANTLE

Each Claims to Be True Interpreter of Dr. Sun-Yat-sen's "Three Principles"

Shanghai —(AP)—At least four distinct groups in China now claim to be the true followers of the "three principles" of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, and while each of these groups claims to be interpreting these principles in the manner intended by Dr. Sun, three of them are in total opposition to each other, while the fourth swings in the balance.

First there is the present government at Wuhan (Wuchang and Hankow), 600 miles up the Yangtze river, composed of what might be popularly known as the right wing of the Kuomintang, the members of which now control the party for the great part, the left wing having quit practically in its entirety and the communists having been ousted. The leaders of this group once were considered radicals, but now have become so moderate that they are denouncing the former moderates as radicals. An important figure in this government is Sun Fo, Minister of Communications and the son of the late Dr. Sun Yat-sen, founder of the Kuomintang.

The second group is comprised of the Nanjing government, which is headed by General Chiang Kai-shek, who was close to Dr. Sun Yat-sen, when a Northern expedition was first projected and who commanded the armies of the expedition until the split in March. He has his own interpretation of the "three principles" upon which he bases his denunciation of the Wuhan government.

The Communists comprise the third group, and have apparently interpreted Dr. Sun as being a Communist.

Finally the left wing of the Kuomintang, a radical group but hardly in the Communist category, which includes among its members Mrs. Sun Yat-sen, places another interpretation on the "three principles." It would rather make some other plan than abolish the idea of private capital altogether.

All these four groups, without exception, declare they are following precisely the path which Dr. Sun would have them follow, and that the others have been false to the trust which the founder of the Kuomintang has placed in the Party. All carry the same flag and the same insignia, yet they declare bitter war upon each other at the same time that all oppose North China—Chang Tso-lin and his cohorts.

CHARGE COOKING ISN'T WHAT IT USED TO BE

Berlin —(AP)—Girls nowadays think of nothing but aying men instead of fitting themselves to be home-makers, was the reply of Frau Hedwig Heyl, Germany's foremost authority on domestic education and food preparation, when asked why German cooking has deteriorated.

Frau Heyl, who is 77, is fond of telling how her interest in cooking was awakened when as a seven-year-old girl she watched the cook's sally on the first transatlantic liner of the North German Lloyd, of which her father, Eduard Cruseman, was one of the founders. Since then, she has founded and conducted schools of cookery and domestic hygiene and written many educational books that are standard works.

Frau Heyl has kept up to date in the theories and discoveries of food science, and her books on cooking still carry undisputed authority.

CHINESE SELL PEARLS BY "SILENT" METHODS

Paris —(AP)—Chinese pearl peddlers are the talk of Paris, because they seem to avoid talk themselves.

People become interested in the small, quiet merchants who stand silently out of the way of sidewalk traffic with many strings of pearls on their arms.

One of the peddlers, scanning the crowds for customers, as soon as they notice a slight hesitation they smile, and the smile seems to bring the prospective buyer to them.

A hundred of these sidewalk sellers have formed a colony in Paris. They come from the province of Chikien, attracted by the tales brought back by the thousands of coolies who worked here and at the front during the war.

NEW EXCUSE TRAVELS IN SECOND CLASS CAR

Paris —(AP)—People who ride second class in European trains, but feel that they must always explain why, have a new excuse. They are afraid of being murdered.

In the last several months there have been several homicides in French railway trains—and all in first class compartments. These are seldom so crowded as the others, which gives the killer a better chance to slip away unseen.

Not long ago a reporter in whose mind the details of the latest such murder were quite fresh found himself on a night-express, all alone. A stranger, unshaven, badly dressed and without luggage came in and took a place. The reporter not only abandoned all thought of going to sleep, but decided to share his worries with the conductor. The conductor quietly made an investigation and then told the young man he could doze in peace. The stranger was a detective from the "Surete Generale," the French Scotland Yard.

PARIS —(AP)—If women want to wear shingled hair, they shall be made to pay for it: it is the decision of the municipality of Wartenburg in East Prussia.

A tax of 12 marks per year has been imposed on every shingled girl. Girls up to 15 years of age are exempt, but married women who have sacrificed their locks have to pay double tax.

Other townships are preparing to follow suit in taxing this new source of revenue. At Schoenau, the tax is 20 marks per year up to 20 years of age, and 30 marks after.

MADRID PINS MEDAL ON STREET SWEEPER

Pay Tribute to Man Who Worked 64 Years of His Life for City

Madrid, Spain —(AP)—Jose Lopez Espasandin has been awarded a medal of labor by the city of Madrid—an emblem just like one which General Primo de Rivera, Spanish dictator, wears.

Jose is 81, and for 64 years he has been a street sweeper on Madrid's pavements. The decoration is in tribute to his homely philosophy—the conviction that he has found happiness in life because he likes his work and because he earns enough to satisfy his meager needs.

At 17 Espasandin had the same ambitions that other boys cherish the world over. He started out to find fame. But he never got farther than the streets of Madrid, and the highest honor life has brought to him save only that of decoration with a medal, has been his selection by the city council to head the gang of city cleaners which labors in the vicinity of the Central Market.

Jose was born in the village of San Andres, and when he reached 17 his father thought it time for him to go out into the world to seek his fortune. With the paternal blessing and $7 he and a younger brother set out on foot for the city of Madrid.

Instead of finding streets paved with silver the boys found their funds dwindling, and the city was headless of boys seeking fame. Jose worked as a blacklayer's helper, and quit that task in 1883 to sweep the streets at 33 cents.

The years have brought him some increases in his meager pay, but more notably they have brought him contentment. His employment is constant, and before him is a constant panorama of life. He remembers, as if it were yesterday, the excitement in 1886 at the outbreak of the war, the how a city functionary he was commended to clear the streets of barricades and to erase the signs of slaughter.

GERMAN TOWN TAXES SHORT-HAIRED WOMEN

Berlin —(AP)—If women want to wear shingled hair, they shall be made to pay for it: it is the decision of the municipality of Wartenburg in East Prussia.

A tax of 12 marks per year has been imposed on every shingled girl. Girls up to 15 years of age are exempt, but married women who have sacrificed their locks have to pay double tax.

Other townships are preparing to follow suit in taxing this new source of revenue. At Schoenau, the tax is 20 marks per year up to 20 years of age, and 30 marks after.

PARIS —(AP)—Public holidays are no fun for the dogs of Paris.

Hundreds of them are soaped and scrubbed and soaked in the Seine every time a holiday comes around. On ordinary work days the sight of a dog swimming in the river, voluntarily or otherwise, is rare. But each holiday many Parisians devote some of their leisure to making their dogs more presentable.

Professional scrubbers take up positions on the river banks early on holiday mornings. Their charges vary with the size, dirtiness and disposition of the dogs.

WET WEATHER INJURES WINE CROP IN FRANCE

Paris —(AP)—Lovers of a good bottle, which includes all Frenchmen, are in despair.

The wet summer has everywhere favored the development of vine rust and mildew to an extent rarely seen, notwithstanding copious sprayings.

This season's grapes have an excellent appearance but unless there is a long spell of fine weather, growers declare very few will reach maturity. The 1927 vintage will be of fair quality but scarce and dear, and only the wealthy will be able to buy it.

MINNEAPOLIS —(AP)—Making a belated cleanup behind the wasteful, old time woodmen, modern lumbermen are recovering logs from Minnesota lakes and converting them into lumber at nice profits.

The lumberman of old cut and slashed his way through virgin forests, knowing none of the handicaps of present-day methods which require utilization of virtually everything but the bark.

In rushing logs through Minnesota's lakes and streams to the mills he permitted millions of logs representing entire rafts sometimes, to remain in the lake. The logs, crowded to the bottom, were preserved by the cold waters of the spring-flood lakes.

Now, lumbermen declare, the water-soaked logs, many of them choice 18 and 20 foot cuts—a length exceedingly scarce—make superior wood because that cut from preserved logs does not warp like green timber does.

Pulling the logs from the lake beds with huge cranes, one firm last year cut 3,500,000 feet of lumber from one lake. Others reported similar results.

Removal of the half submerged logs is a boon to canoeists and motor boat drivers.

MUSICAL BANDITS FLEE UNDER COVER OF JAZZ

London —(AP)—Musical bandits who gained a measure of fame with a single street performance are being widely sought for a return engagement.

Smashing in the door of a music store in Liverpool road, burglars loaded themselves with drums of assorted sizes, one trombone and a music cabinet. Then they executed a retreat under unusual cover.

SPORTS NEWS OF NEENAH AND MENASHA SOCIETY

ATHLETIC FIELD IS DEDICATED WITH ELABORATE SERVICE

Sturgeon Bay and Neenah Teams Furnish Entertainment on New Gridiron

Neenah—Citizens' Athletic field was opened Saturday afternoon with a football game between Neenah high school and Sturgeon Bay high school. Between halves of the game, the field was dedicated with short talks by Dr. T. J. Seiler and Dr. George N. Pratt, members of the Kiwanis club. In the absence of C. F. Hedges, superintendent of schools, and J. L. Kimberly, president of the board of education, J. F. Ballantine, principal of the school and citizen, accepted the field. A band of 20 musicians headed a parade of students and citizens from Kimberly high school, through the downtown district to the field.

The game, the first played on the new field, started at 2 o'clock. Neenah won by a score of 14 to 0. The game was played at full time at quarterback, fullback, end, tackle, guard, center, line, back, and punter. The game was a close one, but Neenah's defense was too strong for Sturgeon Bay. The game was a very interesting one and the crowd was very large.

On Friday afternoon a pep meeting was held at Kimberly high school at which short talks and class stunts were given. In the evening the students gathered at Washington school from which they marched through the business districts and ended up at Columbus park where a huge bonfire was kindled.

The new field at the corner of Elm and Division streets is one of the finest in the state. It is just south of the proposed new senior high school. It contains a fine size football field, a quarter mile track and a clubhouse. The football field is surrounded with a cable to keep spectators from getting on the field during a game. A large flag, has been erected by the Kiwanis. The field is surrounded by an ornamental wire fence. Early next spring a baseball diamond will be laid out for school and city teams and later a grandstand and bleachers will be installed.

NEENAH SOCIETY

Neenah—Pythian Sisters held a meeting Friday evening at Castle hall after which a social was held to which Knights were invited. Cooty and bingo were played. Prizes were won at Cooty by Louis Rausch and Mrs. Cleo Cannon and at bingo by Mrs. Lansen, Otto Steffenhagen, Lewis Cannon, Carl Anderson, Mrs. E. M. Wood and Mrs. B. Adams. The committee on entertainment will have a surprise for the next meeting.

St. Patrick court, W. C. O. F., is planning a Halloween party for Tuesday evening, Oct. 18 at the school hall. Mrs. James Anderson has been appointed chairman of the entertainment committee in charge of this party.

The second of the series of card and dancing parties given by Equitable Fraternal union will be held Wednesday evening. Cards will be played from 8 to 10 o'clock after which dancing will complete the evening. The committee appointed to take charge of the party is Mr. and Mrs. John Simonich, Mr. and Mrs. James Fritzen, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Arsemann, Mr. and Mrs. Norton Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Meyer.

The Y. No. card club met Friday evening at the Caudle Glow Tea room at Appleton where a dinner was served after which the evening was spent in playing bridge. Prizes were won by Miss Elfreda Blohm, Miss Elsie Schultz and Mrs. Arthur Redlin.

The family of Charles Jape will hold a reunion Sunday at his home on Elm-st. in honor of his ninetieth birthday anniversary. Mr. Jape has been a resident of Neenah since 1872 when he came from Germany. Ten children and nineteen grandchildren will be present at the dinner at noon.

Lucille Luebbert will lead a discussion of "In what community enterprises may our society share?" Sunday evening at the 6:30 Presbyterian Young People's society meeting.

RUBIN CASE AGAIN BEFORE HIGH COURT

Arguments Heard on Writ of Error in "Ambulance Chasing" Sentence

Madison—(P)—The state supreme court Saturday heard arguments of attorneys for a writ of error under which William Rubin, Milwaukee, attorney, might be released from a sentence of 90 days in jail for contempt of court.

The case results from the investigation by attorneys and Milwaukee courts into charges that several Milwaukee attorneys were "chasing ambulances" or being over-zealous in soliciting accident damage cases, and spurning their fees with others who assisted in this alleged practice.

The proceedings were started by attorneys before three judges in Milwaukee. Attorney Rubin being among those charged with soliciting cases from suspects in two murder cases. Mr. Rubin started action against those who brought the charges, alleging fraud before the courts in the presentation of evidence and asking adverse examination of the complaining attorneys. He refused to testify before the inquisitorial proceedings in resultant court proceedings, and was sentenced for contempt because of this failure.

Proceedings were then brought under another judge. His sentence stood and the state supreme court sustained this judgment a few months ago.

Saturday's argument was pro and con on a writ to declare the proceedings under which Rubin was sentenced in error, so that he might be released from jail sentence. One argument for the writ was that there was judicial error in three judges sitting on the case. Most of the arguments were of a technical nature, pertaining to court procedure and the duties of judges and attorneys.

CHARGE NEVADA STATE OFFICERS WITH THEFT

Carson City, Nev.—(P)—Trial of two men who for 12 years were prominent officials of Nevada has engaged the interest of the state as have few court cases of recent years.

The defendants are George Cole, former state controller, and Ed Walter, former treasurer. They were arrested on warrants sworn out by Governor F. B. Balzar, and indicted on seven counts charging embezzlement of $345,322.16. Governor Balzar, upon issuing State Treasurer Malloy from office last May, alleged Malloy and Cole were in a combination with H. C. Clapp, cashier of a Carson City bank, to embezzle the state's funds. Clapp pleaded guilty and received a prison sentence. Because of the shortage of state funds county treasurers were urged to send in tax collection money quickly, highway improvement was dropped for the time, strict economy was ordered and funds from gasoline sales taxes, incorporation paper fees and other sundry sources of income were used to meet current expenses.

STAGE SLIGHT LEADS TO WEDDING BELLS

London—(P)—"Lovest First Sight" might be the title of the romance of Ivor Vintor and Dora Bentley, two of the principals in the play at the Hippodrome theater here, who have just become engaged.

Vintor and Miss Bentley met in 1925 when they were playing in opposition to each other. Vintor sent a first night congratulatory telegram to every member of the rival show but Miss Bentley, whom he did not know. When he realized his omission he wished to apologize and sought an interview with the slighted actress, which brought about their friendship.

WATERPOWER USERS HAD UNUSUAL FLOW OF WATER THIS YEAR

Power Has Been Better Than 20 Year Average in Spite of Dry Summer

Power users on the Fox river have had unusually good water power this year in spite of a very dry summer, according to T. W. Orison, of Orishin and Orishin, engineers for a number of power users in the valley. Water power this last year has been much better than the average of the last 20 years, Mr. Orison said.

"The use of water at the outlet of Lake Winnebago, the head of the Fox, is directed by the Neenah and Menasha Power Co. at Neenah," Mr. Orison said. "The rules governing the water must be handled so that the level of the lake does not get below the crest of the Menasha dam during the season of navigation, pursuant to the Marshall (chief U. S. Engineer) order of 1892, which has been enforced since 1896; also, an annual permit, is given by the federal engineer at Milwaukee to draw the lake down 18 inches or more, in the winter season, with the proviso that the lake is at the Menasha crest when navigation opens in the spring; also, by annual agreement with the representatives of the riparians, now operative for four years, that the high stage of the lake shall not be more than 15 inches above the crest of the dam."

"The last two governing rules work to the advantage of all concerned, particularly to the riparians around the lake, those bordering the Wolf and upper Fox, and those bordering Lake Butte Des Morts between Appleton and Neenah, for the reason that, with the allowance of 33 inches (18 inches down and 15 inches up), the stage in the lake, amounting to about twenty billions cubic feet, is so large that the high water is largely taken up in the reservoir and the flood discharge not so great as it would be otherwise."

GRANDMOTHERS

By Glenway Westcott

BY GLENWAY WESTCOTT
Review by Eleanor Wing

A book of daguerotypes—rows and rows of them, some loose in the family album and others stuck in the flour and water paste—that is what GRANDMOTHERS is, the prize novel of Harpers for 1927. You read it, finish it and then begin to wonder about it, trying to guess why it was the prize novel of the year. The answer is slow in coming and yet when it does come, it is certainly convincing. There are few books of portrait sketches so admirably conceived and artistically executed as this one which Glenway Westcott has painted. Westcott is only a young writer too, whose other book, THE APPLE OF THE EYE, is not too well known.

You really think you are about to see portraits when you open the book. The frontispiece quotation hardly gives enough warning.

"You do not see me as I once was. Children, get out the photographs."

My Grandmother."

But after all the pictures are to be seen by reading carefully the printed pages of Allyn Toyer's attempt to immortalize and perhaps to explain the generations of struggles, temperaments and passions which finally produced him. Allyn is trying to understand why even in Austria, the mood and bitterness of his old Wisconsin home pursue him.

There is drama in that old home in Wisconsin where life is always bitter and fruitless. And among Allyn's ancestors, of their marriages and love affairs, there had been born a composite character, the soul of the race that was not actually a race. The boy, the adolescent and the man are governed and teased by the past, more especially by the stories left untold than by those narrated.

GRANDMOTHERS is a great piece of work. Similar to it in style is THE MARRIAGE BED which was published recently also. But the manner of treatment is decidedly unusual and difficult at first to enjoy. But not for long. Soon, if you are an intelligent and thoughtful reader, you will form the connecting links between the short unit chapters yourself. You will wonder, as Allyn wondered, as you read a character sketch, whether in your own album there are traits left to you by your pioneer ancestors, or whether they died with them. Perhaps you will speculate as to the close you have of your forefathers, and whether your sons and daughters will inherit their good and bad qualities and use them to fight their more modern struggles.

A book like GRANDMOTHERS is important. First, because Harpers picked it as the finest book of the year. Long experience of judging has made their opinion valuable. Second, because the book is universal in its theme. And last, because it really belongs on your shelf of present day classics, to remind you of your own pioneer descent, and to educate you in the very fine art of saying beautifully and concisely just why it is that you are what you are. You won't believe for very long that you were self made—certainly you helped to make your life a success or failure. But your ancestors, your training, your opportunities, your personality were all given you—not at your christening as in the fairy stories, but at many christenings—at the births of all of your pioneer ancestors.

Here Is New Book That Digs Surface

Amid much history and biography there comes a thoroughly original book, "An Unmarried Father," by Floyd Dell, published by Doran. It is more than interesting; it is a penetrating study and revelation of the paternal instinct.

The story concerns a young lawyer, about to be married, who learns in a roundabout way that he already is a father. The mother of his child, a woman bound to have an artistic career, has no wish to marry him or force his parenthood upon him. In a perfectly calm and detached manner she is about to hand the child over to an institution which gives out babies for adoption in good families.

She had no desire for the child. She believes it will be better off with someone else.

Given this opportunity to escape from his moral responsibilities with every assurance that the incident could be closed and forgotten, the young father suddenly becomes rebellious and decides to acknowledge his child. Dell sketches a picture of what happens, or would happen, if men paid the penalty for social transgressions.

Another novel that does considerably more than scratch the surface of life is "Over the Bontside," by Mathilde Elker. Doubleday Page, a hard and worldly tale by a woman who knows her neighbors.

The main character, whose name is Eltin, hard-headed but easy to look at, develops her brain often at the expense of her emotions. She learns that the best way to express anger is not by throwing dishes, but by putting on best clothes and smiling—and waiting. She realizes that slender ankles, advantageously revealed, are more eloquent than witty repartees.

If she does not achieve great happiness or high spirituality, she does learn what she can get in a material way, and how to make what she gets seem glamorous to others. She drives a hard bargain with life.

A new slant on the California gold rush and on glamorous California and Mexico life in the fifties is revealed in "The Wolf Cub" (Bobbs Merrill), by Maurice Soulie, the Frenchman.

The picture of Gaston de Raousset-Boulbon, the adventurer, as a child is delightful, and prepares one for the knight errant who later built up Sonora, Mexico's northwestern state, and tried to put a Frenchman on the throne. It is an engaging tale of adventure and achievement, with a foundation of fact and much fictional decoration. The book has been honored by the French Academy.

Admirers of Katherine Mansfield should not miss "Journal of Katherine Mansfield" (Knopf), edited and introduced by John Middleton Murry. It is an intimate, beautiful account of her life from 1910 until her death in 1923.

Here is a typical excerpt: "I want so to live that I work with my hands and my feeling and my brain. I want a garden, a small house, grass, animals, books, pictures, music. And out of this, the expression of this, I want to be writing (though I may write about cabmen. That's no matter)."

"But warm, eager, living life—to be rooted in life—to learn, to desire to know, to feel, to think, to act. That is what I want. And nothing less. That is what I must try for."

Samuel Ornitz feels no superstitious fear of the number thirteen. It was only on the thirteenth edition of his book, HAUNCH, PAUNCH AND JOWL, which was originally published anonymously, that his name appeared as the author and the book immediately proceeded to go into its fourteenth and fifteenth editions.

Readers will remember the stir of curiosity and the profound sensation created by the appearance of HAUNCH, PAUNCH AND JOWL. His new book, A YANKEE PASSION, will be even of a more sensational nature, and there will be as much pulp-pounding over it as over Ornitz's first book.

The heroine of THE SILENT QUEEN, the English novel by Seymour Leslie, which will appear on the Boni & Liveright list this Fall, is the most unusual heroine in all literature. Skin as white as porcelain, silent, swift and beautiful, this queen of her kind dominates the book with her remarkable personality. Only when you read this book can the identity of this person be revealed; the idea is so novel that it would be sacrilege to disclose it.

Spiritual conference on Thursday, the Ladies Aid will meet on Wednesday of next week with Mrs. John Kippenhan.

SEEK ORGANIZATION TO PROTECT STATE YOUTH

Milwaukee—(AP)—Increased organization among young people as training for leadership and preventive measure to save youth from the pitfalls of modern life will be urged at the seventh annual convention of the Milwaukee Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women, Oct. 19-20.

The necessity of such an organization, according to Miss Katherine R. Williams, Milwaukee, president of the Milwaukee council, is further emphasized by the movement among young people themselves toward definite groups and aims. Since there is the "young peoples movement," adult movement should be launched in an effort to guide the way, Miss Williams said.

Vacation schools, conducted all over the state but concentrated in rural communities where boys and girls do not have the opportunity to attend parochial schools, will receive added support in the council meetings, she asserted. The various other phases of work among youths of the state, including summer camps for girls and Boy Scout troops, also will receive consideration.

Fastest and Finest OF FOURS

A Brilliant New Line of Cars

America discovered the value of this brilliant new car with a swiftness only rivaled by the car itself. Everything about it appeals to the mood of the hour.

Its amazing pick-up—from 0 to 25 miles thru gears in less than 7 seconds! Its effortless mastery of distance at a mile a minute! Its trim, streamline beauty—finished in the smartest colors.

The way it grips the road at sharp turns—cushions passengers over rough roads—travels in "high" up steep grades!

Its economy at the curb—17½ feet of parking space suffice! Its economy on the road—25 miles per gallon at 25 miles per hour!

Never have Dodge Brothers sold a sedan so low in price—so high in value—so thoroughly in tune with the taste and spirit of the time.

PRIDE WINS AND WE LOSE
Grandma and Grandpa Hancy came to court in Cleveland the other day, praying a divorce. After forty-four years of married life, years in which they had seen their own offspring bring into the world a third generation, things had gone fearfully wrong with Grandma and Grandpa Hancy and they wanted to walk the rest of the trail apart.

Grandfather Hancy had not provided for her adequately, and he used rough language and nagged her. Grandma complained. Grandpa countered with the charge that Grandma refused to get his meals, that she went out nights without saying where she was going and that she once threatened him with a butcher knife.

Now they are going on separate paths. Grandfather Hancy has taken his savings, a deed to the lot upon which he built the little home they worked so hard to earn, and his favorite rocker. That's all he wants. He'll walk alone now toward life's back gate and out into the darkness without "Ma" Hancy at his side.

Grandpa Hancy will keep the home and live there. In the long cold winter nights she can sit peacefully alone with her dreams in the cozy little room. Peacefully? Well, there'll be no cranky old man to bother her.

Grandpa Hancy's pride has been satisfied. So has Grandma's. After fighting it off for 44 years, they finally have given in. They have surrendered to the little god of self that has whispered to them so often during those years, the little god they resisted so valiantly, only at the last to lose.

We had more faith in them than to believe that this could happen. We had more faith in life than ever to think that 44 years of companionship could be broken by so mean a little thing as pride. Must our faith be shattered in this rude way?

Memories. Oh, the memories that Grandfather Hancy is going to have as he sits in that old rocker, toasting his shins before the fire! The wedding day when Grandma Hancy was all white and radiant and lovely, their hours of planning, the first baby and his first tooth. Little good points about Grandma are going to crop up suddenly, things that he overlooked, little deeds of mercy of hers that showed her heart was big and warm after all. Grandfather Hancy says he's happy. Far be it from us to tell him that he isn't. We can only wish that he never become just as happy as he is going to be after about two months of this single blessedness.

Grandma Hancy says she is better off, too. There'll be no one to annoy her in that cozy little living room. That cross old man won't be asking a lot of fool questions. Of course she'll miss such little things as locating misplaced hats and shoes, hearing him move about in the kitchen or bedroom as she sits there dozing and dreaming, and his eager interest in this or that fool thing, whatever it was.

She'll have memories, too, as she goes about her little home. How Grandpa joked with her about those pictures she had taken. The little gleam of love caught from a corner of his eye that day when he was sitting along and looking at the faded prints that were taken 44 years ago. On the porch in the summer evenings she can sit and look out upon the street, without wondering if that isn't Grandpa coming down the street.

Certainly she can escape this wondering about that dim figure in the street! She has a divorce! Grandpa isn't coming any more. She wouldn't even think of such a thing!

Maybe.

ASKING THE ETERNAL QUESTION
A British traveler says that recently, when in the dominion of South Africa, a very old and very black Kafir chief asked him:
"What's that fell'n go'ment, an' why he take my money?"
The old chap unwittingly asked the eternal question. Since man first began to set up forms of government, man has been asking that same thing.

We have all been sure that nothing is certain in this world but death and taxes. The taxgatherer we have continually with us. All our political squabbles, all our political parties, all our political battles are more or less based upon taxes.
The "ins" want to continue to levy the taxes and spend them. The "outs" want to get in to do the same thing.
And half the time the plain citizen wants to know what is done with all the money. And often he gets no very good answer.

PROTECT YOUR CHILDREN
More than 7,000 children under 15 years of age are killed annually on the streets and highways of this country. Twenty-eight and one-half per cent of all highway accident fatalities last year were children. In addition to the 7,000 fatalities, approximately 175,000 children were seriously injured last year as a result of failure to practice courtesy and caution on the highways.

The principal cause of child mortality on the public highways is playing in the street and crossing intersections carelessly and in violation of traffic laws. The killing of innocent children in this manner can be curbed only by striking at the causes of the accidents. Every father and mother in the United States should discourage careless and thoughtless conduct on the part of children, and insist upon safety education in the public school. The constant instruction of children in the hazards of the highway, particularly those of playing in the street, crossing in violation of traffic rules and hooking rides, will eliminate the larger number of child casualties.

Twice as many children are killed between the ages of six and ten as during any other similar period of life. It is the duty of school teachers and parents to make the child responsible, and by constant safety education an inherent responsibility may be instilled in the child which will remain throughout life. Give the child a fair chance in life. Don't subject him to the possibility of becoming a cripple, or of having his life completely snuffed out because of your failure to teach him the principles of safety.

IS FAMILY LIFE DOOMED?
OH, CERTAINLY!

An eastern theatrical critic deduces from the decreasing number of plays in which American family life furnishes the background, and from the alarmingly increasing number of plays in which anything but family life is prominent, that family life is doomed. Indeed, in another generation a family will be about as common as a horse and buggy.

In ancient Rome voices were raised in the forum to give birth to the same sad news. Family life in fact has been declining ever since some whiskered philosopher, remarking about how Cain killed Abel, foresaw the end of family relations in a very short time. In every land there comes a time when properly sung obsequies must be held for the dear old family. It has died so often.

The family outlived Roman grandeur and Roman disaster. It has come through the ages from the first as a human institution that shall prevail. We are just sanguine enough to believe that there will be a few families left clinging stubbornly together after the current theatrical season has taken its place in history, famous or infamous.

We feel that there always will be women who like to knit. That there will be men whose socks need attention long after the first airplane has circled Mars. We feel not the slightest doubt. Perhaps family life will die when the last man and last woman look one another in the eye and say: "You won't do." But even then we can't be sure.

OLD MASTERS

The norms are meeker than they were. The puts are getting heavier. The larry's check is plumper. The rose is out of town. The maple wears a gayer scarf. The field a scarlet gown. Last I should be old-fashioned. I'll put a trunk on.
—Emily Dickinson: Autumn.

Perhaps the reason why more politicians don't throw their hats into the ring is that they like to talk through them.

A young man played the saxophone for 18 hours to set a record. The very man to send to Mexico to keep the peace!

Don't never will make a bridge player. She later to return a diamond.

All the world's a stage, and the men and women are players. A million guineas is a little target for a shot.

The very Coolidge got a new pair of shoes. "I've had the shoes of those who are willing to advise the administration what to do, and that four billion surplus."

HYGIENE BEFORE COURTESY
Mrs. E. W. asks where she may obtain a contrivance to discourage thumb sucking, and also wishes to know how to manage a boy 11 years old who thoroughly dislikes getting slicked up a bit but just clean—dislikes it to the point of creating a scene with tears and temper. The boy is very bright in school and in perfect physical condition. In short a real boy, but in this one thing he is a problem. Mrs. E. W. adds that in the management of her seven children—three girls and four boys—she has found many helpful things in my articles for several years past.

I am sending Mrs. E. W. the address of a manufacturer of a device to discourage thumb sucking. I am going to try to tell how to manage the boy, and in order to do so I say right here that hygiene comes before courtesy or manners. I advise Mrs. E. W. to base her campaign on the paramount issue of the boy's life, which is of course health. We had better not stir up the moralists just now, but it is safe to mention at this critical juncture the universal endorsement of the primacy of health by educators.

Mother should establish the standard of cleanliness at the table and firmly uphold it. If any lady or gentleman fails to muster a tolerable degree of cleanliness at dinner time, let him or her be sent to a suitable place of seclusion and his or her head doled out separately. A few solitary meals will generally convince a boy that it pays to be clean. At the same time the boy should be taught that a gentleman invariably stands and helps a lady to her chair before he seats himself at table. Racking my brains I can find no very convincing hygienic reason for this little act of courtesy, so we'll just throw it in without any extra charge if the critics will pardon the presumption.

A fellow who eats without first having washed his hands carefully, takes a chance of getting some disease from contamination of his hands and his food. This doesn't cover washing one's face for the occasion, at least not beyond the ears, unless one is going to have watermelon or something, but heck, while a fellow's at it, why not brighten the map up a bit and give the hair a couple of licks just to please mother? If mother is pleased, at meal time, her digestion is sure to be better, and that makes her good nature and excellent expert advice to wait permission to do something. Here we are invading the field of the psychologist. Whoa and back up. If hygiene is correct the manners are sure to be.

It is just as unhealthful and dangerous to eat from dirty dishes as it is to eat with unwashed hands.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Touring Afoot
My chum and I are planning a hiking tour of our part of the country. Which is the best way to dress; what use for outdoor sleeping; what to carry in the way of extra clothing, first aid equipment, etc., and how to carry the pack and how to care for the feet. Any advice or suggestions from you on these points would be appreciated. (D. D. H.)

Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address for a complete description of a pocket first aid kit. You will find excellent expert advice about all the points in a little book called "Touring Afoot" by Dr. C. P. Fordyce, published by the MacMillan company.

That Damp Notion
Some one inquired about sleeping in a room over a cellar and you said it was perfectly healthful. How about sleeping in a room without any cellar at all under it, just an addition built out over the undisturbed ground? Several persons have told me it will surely hasten my death or give me rheumatism some day. I have slept in this room nearly as long as 19 years and seem to be none the worse for it. (T. McE.)

Answer—So have I, and I've never had a twinge of rheumatism. Advise the harpies to leave an auditorium. Anywhere you can sleep comfortably is a hygienic place to sleep, even in the damp cellar or on the damp ground. If the sleeping accommodations are not conducive to repose, better try a change. This is the best health advice I can offer on the subject.

LOOKING BACKWARD

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Saturday, Oct. 13, 1902

A marriage license was issued to Richard Reiffe and Gertha Sager, both of Appleton.

A daughter was born the previous day to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Rose.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Tenney celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 549 Alton-st., that day.

Knights of Columbus had chartered a special train to go to Madison the following day when they were to attend the institution of a new council. Teams from Appleton, Green Bay, Milwaukee, Oshkosh and Beloit were to assist the installing officers.

The question debated at the meeting of the Forum the previous night was: "Resolved, That the time has come when the policy of protection should be abandoned by the United States." The affirmative team consisted of Tom Monahan, Jean Johnston and James Monaghan and the negative team was composed of Lulu Erb, Max Elias and Frances Ballard.

Among the Appleton people who were in Oshkosh the previous day were the Misses Annette Buchanan, Helen Patterson, Hattie Jennie and Lucile Zorn and A. E. Hoffmann, Peter and Harold Zorn.

Dr. Samuel Hantz had come to Chicago where he witnessed the installation of President James of Northwestern university.

TEN YEARS AGO
Saturday, Oct. 13, 1917

The German Reichstag had passed its first domestic law of the war for forcing the resignation of the Minister of Marine von Capelle. Von Capelle attempted to place responsibility for naval matters upon other members of the Reichstag and his own resignation from office was the result.

Some indication of the political crisis in Germany was hinted at the retirement of Chancellor Michaelis from his office in a German newspaper.

Word had been received in Appleton that morning that a daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Humann, formerly of Appleton, who were then living in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Germany's army had won a victory over the Russian army in the following day.

FARM BANKRUPTCIES
Washington, D. C. — The money lender is not so hard on the financially embarrassed farmer as some forensic political addresses from agricultural regions would seem to indicate, yet quite a large number of husbandmen do forfeit their properties for debt. The Department of Agriculture, through its Bureau of Agricultural Economics has just compiled figures which show what the experience has been.

It appears that the money lenders have been harder on tenants than they have on the actual owners of farms. This may, perhaps, be accounted for by the fact that the owner of a farm is likely to have been a longer resident of his community and a personal friend of the banker who holds his mortgage or, perhaps, by a feeling on the part of the banker that the owner is likely to prove a more responsible man and able to work himself out of his difficulties.

The survey covered a period of two years and three months and may therefore be regarded as presenting a fairly accurate reflection of the situation. The entire United States was covered. Certain sections were segregated as well for more local surveys. One which covered fifteen middle western States, the very heart of the richest agricultural region in the United States, revealed that 2.33 per cent of the farmers there lost their farms through the bankruptcy courts. These were farmers who owned their land. Of the tenant farmers who merely rented from absentee landlords, 6.75 per cent were dispossessed through the courts. Of the owner-farmers 4.28 lost their farms and not through bankruptcy proceedings but by calling in the mortgage and turning the property over in lieu of payment of the debt without any legal proceedings. Of the tenant-farmers, 7.75 per cent took this simpler course.

Sam Walter Foss, the Boston poet very popular twenty-five years ago has a string of verses about a farmer who, struggling against crop failures and hard times, followed the plan of calling in the mortgage and simply giving up the farm. The farmer went to town and started making soap in a few years he came back a millionaire and bought up the old farm at an increased price out of mere sentiment.

ONE FIFTH LOST THEIR PROPERTIES
The total of owners losing their farms through both bankruptcy and yielding up the property is 8.11 per cent while the total for the tenants is 14.53 per cent. The total of 22.64 per cent shows that more than one-fifth of the farmers in these fifteen States lost their properties.

However, there is another class; that of farmers who, through the leniency of their creditors, were permitted to retain their farms. The total of owner-farmers permitted to do so amounted to 14.40 per cent and of the tenants to 20.54 per cent, or a total of 34.94 per cent for both. Thus, more farmers of both classes who were faced with inability to meet their obligations were permitted to have another try at it than those who were dispossessed or gave up the effort.

While the war brought great prosperity to the farming industry the bankruptcies have been greater since than they were before the conflict. Some observers attribute this to the fact that, after many lean years, the farmers used their high profits to indulge in luxuries that their resources had not earlier permitted them to buy. They overbought.

Some, thinking the war would last for two or three years longer, bought large additional acreages for which they were mortgaged. Nearly all bought automobiles and the latest farm machinery, put in house conveniences, etc. This buying was done very largely on the installment plan. The same phenomenon has been observed in the wake of other wars. The result was that the collapse of prices, following the post-rumors period, found many obligated for land and for goods.

During the ten-year period from 1904 to 1913 the average number of farm bankruptcies for the United States was 1.14 for every 1000 farms. During the three-year period ending with June, 1926 this had jumped to 1.22 per thousand farms.

BETTER OFF THAN MERCHANTS
However, the farmer has been better off than the merchant. The comparative figure for what are classified as business failures is ten in every 1000.

Paris—The stuff from which American musical comedies are made can be found on sunny Sunday afternoons at the Longchamps race track.

The very stands are settings a la Ziegfeld, Shubert, Buck, White or what have you, dripping with green vines and rimmed from roof to greenward with flower boxes.

And, in the betting ring, you see all those gay old boys with gray bowlers, checked pants, high rounded collars, striped spats, purple spats, checkered spats; derbies of every shape and color. Van Dyked, ruffled, frizzled, frayed and furbelowed.

Gay old fellows, with a cute little mannequin parked on the pebbled promenade. As the gay dogs do their betting, the mannequin does her strolling. The shops of the Rue de la Paix or the upper Champs Elysees send them forth in all that is ultraviolet, to preen like peacocks before the crowds of fashionable folk, with one eye particularly fixed on the fickle American dollar.

The American dollar is out in all its glory. All that the New York shops have to offer—out of Paris—is pitted against all that Paris has to offer which has not yet been sent to New York.

Perhaps the men watch the races. The women are betting on the winning styles. They study each other as the bettors study the form charts.

All about the scouts for the various shops spy about with pad and pencil jotting down notes which, on the morrow, will result in an idea and mayhap, the rage of Manhattan.

It was in just this manner, I am told, that the historic "split skirt" came into being.

A Paris designer, wishing to create a sensation that would attract the attention of the American photographers and reporters at the track, sent out a parade of girls dressed in the tightest of dresses.

As they hobbled along, displaying this ridiculous model, to of them stumbled and tore their skirts at the side, thus displaying shapely calves. Quick as a flash a fashion scout, looking on, got a bright idea. Rushing back to her shop she recommended the "split skirt." Within a week the "splits" had appeared at the race track and within a couple of months they were known from California to Manchuria. . . . . as all of you will remember.

Returning to the gay old dogs, many of whom remind you of the Venetian operators or the old Sam Bernard roles . . . this is their paradise. They have the market cornered on the girls with the "oo, la, la" eyes. They have the bankrolls, they have the price of champagne, they have the gay escorts, and the years of experience, and so, in best musical comedy fashion, you will see them parading about with the best groomed, youngest and most attractive of the cuties.

The Question Box

Information on almost any subject can be secured by sending questions to the Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Fredric J. Haskin, director, Washington, D. C. The bureau does not answer questions pertaining to medicine nor does it express opinions on the merits of stocks and bonds. Send a 2-cent stamp or a stamped and self-addressed envelope with your question.

Q. I have heard that the same number of posts were required to set a fence over a mountain as would be required to set a fence straight through it. Is this correct? R. W.

A. It takes fewer pickets to the mile for a fence on a hill where the pickets are placed the same distance apart as on the level as the pickets on the hill not placed at right angles to the ground, therefore, the ground distance between the pickets forms the hypotenuse of a triangle whose side is equal to the ground distance on the level.

Q. What is the value of the annual production of eggs and poultry in the United States? A. S. T.

A. The estimated value of the eggs produced in this country during 1926 was $620,000,000. That of poultry was $561,000,000. Iowa led in the production of chickens and eggs.

PRACTICE, REASON AND AUTOMATISM—THESE ARE MENTAL FACTORS OF PAR GOLF
BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Dr. Theodore B. Hyslop, the well-known British neurologist, lists practice, automatism, and reason as the three mental factors necessary to produce par golf.

Automatism is reached only by practice. When automatism becomes perfect, reason can assert itself without interference.

The perfect golfer as a mental and physical complex in which the complicated mechanism should run perfectly, freely, smoothly and automatically while the mind should be free to exercise its higher functions of control and guidance.

EXERCISE HURTS GAME
Fatigue of mind or of body is not conducive to good golf. Mental stability varies according to the physical condition of the person concerned.

When we are very tired we become irritable and slightly unbalanced. When the golf professional is very tired during match play he "blows up" on "his" golfer.

The tendency of the nerve cells to contract a pull from fatigue is great, and it is possible for the golfer to reach a point where he has been noted as a great player, the interval called "blow up" or "blow out" tends to become shorter and shorter as the match goes on.

SMOKE'S LEARN'S LESSON
Bobby Jones wrote recently that he used to walk rapidly up to the green after approaching and putt at once. Nowadays he delays after his arrival on the green, studying the line of the putt, but also recovering his breath, because he is a rapid walker.

Dr. Hyslop recommends a condition of cheerful optimism as less harmful than one of extreme timidity. Unfortunately there are many golfers who let their mental states become clearly apparent to other members of their foursome.

The wise player will not permit the pessimism of his partner or of his opponents to destroy his own confidence. "A good sportsman," says the British authority, "will never be found guilty of assuming a mental attitude calculated to influence the mental states of his partner."

THE GOLDEN MEAN
Of course, optimism may be so exuberant as to produce an actual egomania or as the golfer would phrase it, a "plus four" attitude. On the other hand pessimism or self-deprecation may extend to actual melancholia, with a devil-may-care attitude that results in wild swinging.

Each of the circumstances that arises should be taken as it comes. Such a philosophic attitude is good advice for mental hygiene in general.

"To have one's equilibrium disturbed by events of the past, circumstances of the present, or possibilities of the future is a tacit acknowledgment of weak-mindedness which hinders all for the effectiveness of immediate action."

BEGIN HERE TODAY
VERA CAMERON plain business girl, allows herself to be transformed into a beauty by JERRY MACKLYN, her boss, advertising manager for Peach Bloom Cosmetics Co. Jerry falls in love with Vera, also known as Vee-Vee, and his love persists even after he learns she consents to the transformation only because the man she falls in love with, SCHUYLER SMYTHE, ignores her.

Vera spends her vacation at Lake Minnetonka because Smythe is there. He and other guests, mistake her for VIVIAN CRANDALL, ex-princess, who after a Paris divorce is in hiding. Vera knows Smythe is in love with the girl he thinks she is and she finds further insistence upon her identity difficult.

Learning of the supposed Vivian's whereabouts, the Crandalls' detectives arrive late one night. Smythe and Vera flee in a stolen car. Smythe begs her to marry him at once, but when she tells him the truth about her identity, he is furious.

Vera is kidnapped from the car by two masked men and taken by airplane to a shack in the hills where the PRINCE IVAN awaits them.

In New York Jerry, acting on a mysterious phone call, finds Vivian Crandall hiding in the Bronx.

Agreeing to help find Vera, she guides Jerry to the shack which she remembers the prince was interested in. They arrive as Vera is fleeing, after repulsing the advances of the prince. She tells them how she was left alone with Ivan after one kidnaper was killed in an airplane crash and the other departed in fear.

Vivian bribes the prince to go back to Paris. She and Vera become instant friends and Vivian proposes that Vera play the Princess Vivian a little longer, giving Vivian a chance to finish her three months' probation period, necessary to convince PAUL ALISON, a poor man she loves, she can live on a modest income.

Vera agrees and armed with a letter from Vivian to her parents goes to the Crandalls. After a stormy interview they agree to Vivian's written request and tell reporters their daughter has returned home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Vee-Vee felt that her life as "Vivian Crandall" had definitely begun when she was served with the daintiest of breakfasts in the daintiest of beds at nine o'clock on Saturday morning. It was incredible that just one week before, at that hour she had been hurrying to work at the Peach Bloom Cosmetics company's offices, worrying over the fact that she had to make some last minute purchases before she could leave that night on her wonderful vacation. Just one week!

"Life," said Vee-Vee Cameron to herself, as she sniffed the crisp golden-yellow rose that had lain beside her iced honey-dew melon, "is very terrible and very wonderful."

At ten o'clock Mrs. Crandall sent for her, receiving her in her own boudoir. Because her own maid was still hovering about the dressing table, Mrs. Crandall folded her daughter protectively into her arms and kissed her with every show of devotion. But when the maid had been dismissed, Vivian's mother abruptly dropped her fond and indulgent attitude. Her voice became crisp and cool, as if she were speaking to a paid secretary.

"Mr. Crandall and I believe that it will be best to go directly to our Long Island estate on Manhasset Bay," she said briskly. "You will of course be in rather strict retirement for the summer, a fact which is easily explainable on the ground that you are on the verge of a nervous breakdown due to your unfortunate experiences—the divorce and the kidnapping. I am sorry to say that it will be impossible for us to entertain any of our most intimate friends, or, if we do, for you to be at all in evidence. You understand, of course?"

"Certainly," Vee-Vee said stiffly. "I ing today, so I shan't have time to come in to see you all before I go. I'm sorry. Is Mr. Macklyn there now?"

"Yes, he's in. Just a minute," Rosemary replied, a note of gladness in her voice which did not escape Vee-Vee's jealous ears.

When Jerry's voice came booming over the wire, color flooded Vee-Vee's face and her voice was low and rich as she spoke to him.

"I wanted you to know that everything is all right, Jerry. I'm going out of town today to begin work on my new job," she explained cautiously, for fear the switchboard operator was listening in. "I'll write you—at your apartment—today. And will you tell our mutual friend that I believe I am going to like the job very much?"

"That's fine!" Jerry's voice rang in her ears. "But we'll be mighty sorry to lose you here, Miss Cameron."

"Jerry," she begged, "will you tell Aunt Flora where I am going—and why? And tell her that she will hear from me tomorrow."

Vee-Vee hung up the receiver, her heart curiously hungry for an intimate word—one of Jerry's fondly uttered "darlings." Of course he could say nothing, with Rosemary listening. Her keen little ears pricked eagerly—and how darned glad Rosemary was that she—Vee-Vee—was not coming back! She thought it left a clear field did she? It was positively disgusting the way Rosemary had flung herself at Jerry's head.

"The house is besieged by reporters," Mrs. Crandall informed her, breaking in on her reverie. "I think we'd better flee to the country as quickly as possible."

At luncheon, served with pomp and state in the dining room, two footmen and the butler in attendance, Rufus Worrell Crandall was almost genial, though the light of battle still glittered in his eyes.

"If New York newspaper reporters turned their persistence, ingenuity and nerve to business they would become the millionaires for whom they now make life miserable," he commented cryptically, and that was his only reference to the morning-long tournament of wits against money and influence.

Vee-Vee learned from conversation between her "parents" that the housekeeper, half a dozen maids, two footmen, the chef and two under cooks had left before noon for the Manhasset Bay estate of the Crandalls, and that the big house would at least be habitable when the family reached it late that afternoon. Other servants were being sent on from employment bureaus and the remaining servants in the Park Avenue house would journey to Long Island as soon as the town house could be put in order for closing. Soames, the butler, would of course be in the country house by the time dinner was served.

When she returned to her room she found that her maid had already packed her clothes and was ready for the trip to Long Island. And at three o'clock she was seated in a long, luxurious, foreign-made limousine, become Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Worrell Crandall, newspaper photographers lined up on either side of the doorway of the Park Avenue house, succeeded in snapping the Crandalls, father, mother and "daughter," as they stepped out to enter the limousine drawn up to the curb.

When, two and a half hours later, they reached the summer home, Vee-Vee felt that the gates of the Crandall estate were the gates of a prison and that not even by good behavior could there be one consolation, however. There would be "visitors' day" as in every prison.

Aunt Flora and Jerry would come. They should receive her special delivery letters that night; they might even be able to come the next day—Sunday. Dear Jerry! How he would beam and chuckle at the success of Vivian's plan. How boyishly impressed he would be with this lovely country place. Dear Jerry! But her very first caller was not Jerry Macklyn. Her first "visitors' day" brought the last person in the world she wanted to see, the person she had hoped never to see again. But

"Vee-Vee!" she ejaculated, and there was a note of disappointment under her excitement. "Where in the world are you? I'm sorry we had only a minute the other morning. When are you coming back?"

"I'm not coming back, Rosemary," Vee-Vee answered, with a sidelong glance at Mrs. Crandall, who was pretending, like the lady she was, not to listen. "I'm resigning my place at Peach Bloom. My new position takes me out of town, Rosemary. I'm leav-

SLIGHT INCREASE IS SHOWN IN LOCKS USE

Figures Show Traffic on Fox River Above Normal in September

Traffic in September through the locks on the Fox river was a few tons over normal, according to information from the United States engineer's office here. There were 105 lockages at Appleton and 16,500 tons of freight passed through. The normal amount is between 14,000 and 15,000 tons monthly.

De Pere had the largest number of lockages and therefore of the largest tonnage and the largest number of passengers. Two hundred three lockages were reported and tonnage amounting to 32,856. Sixty-three passengers were included on vessels passing the lock there. At Kaukauna at lock number five there were 240 lockages of 34,211 tons while at Little Chute the number decreased to 172 lockages with 29,335 tons carried.

Lockages and total freight handled falls considerably at Appleton while the fact that the upper Fox river is being used very little is forcibly impressed by the figures. At Menasha the lockages numbered but 46 with loads totaling 2,308 tons while passengers numbered 14. On the upper river only 175 tons of freight passed through the Berlin lock in 45 lockages. Sixty-six passengers went through the lock, however.

—she might have known that he would not be forced out of the picture so easily. The Schuyler Smythes of this world are not sensitive—else they would not be Schuyler Smythes. (To Be Continued)

An interview that Vee-Vee has been dragging takes place in the next chapter.

FIRE EXTINGUISHERS TESTED IN SCHOOLS

Fire extinguishers in all public school buildings have been checked over this week to be sure they are ready for use if fire occurs, according to Ben J. Toban, superintendent of schools. Fire Prevention week has been observed in the examination of such equipment.

As Appleton public schools emphasize fire drills and inspection of fire extinguishers throughout the year, no special concentrated effort has been placed upon the observance of Fire Prevention week.

Fire drills are given at intervals during the year so that the pupils may learn the correct procedure. The objective of the fire drill is to instill a calm attitude in the child. To make sure is to make the pupil serene in case of emergency; to make haste arouses a "panicky" feeling. The frequent drills thus are given that the pupil can march steadily, surely and rapidly, the rate being gauged to a pace appropriate to the pupil.

Most of the grade school buildings can be emptied in one minute.

TOURISTS SPOILING ARTISTS' PARADISE

Residents of Latin Quarter Protest American Traveler's Haste

Paris—(P)—Students of art and life who are regulars at the Cafe du Dome, the center of self-conscious Bohemianism in Paris, protest that tourists are spoiling their paradise. So famous has the seat of super-intelligence become since Sinclair Lewis favored it with his disapproval that rubber-neck buses now draw up nightly in front of the Dome, dump their passengers out for 15 minutes of concentrated Latin Quarter atmosphere, load up again and drive off.

The Domites have no objection to being stared at. They take to it like municipal bears. For the edification of the masses they wear the costumes of Alpine climbers, street sweepers, bull fighters, Greek athletes or whatever the costume dealer happens to be selling cheap. Bizarre hats are their specialty. Tourists agree that the Domites offer the biggest once-in-a-lifetime worth on the See-Paris-By-Night circuit.

But what the regular Domites are kicking about is the precedent set by the tourists. They approach the cafe briskly, settle down like a swarm of locusts, order coffee, drink it while it is still hot, pay for it and dash off before their chairs are warm. The Dome custom is to sit all evening over one cup of coffee and to saunter off, leaving somebody else to pay for it.

As the American Legion visitation nears its height the Dome's nightly turn-over on its terrace is several times what it is when the regulars are in complete possession. Economists of the Dome realize that this condition would, in time, force them to other cafes and alien environments.

Stylish Dignity For Snowy Locks May Be Achieved
By Cut And Color; Black And White Ideal Combination

BY HENRI BENDEL
For NEA Service

NEW YORK—Last, but not least in our series of costume-different types comes the white-haired woman. Whom the winter snows have touched, perhaps, a bit prematurely.

Bright colors are her privilege and ultra-stylish modes become her. But she must never seem to try to die too girlishly. A delightful dignity should set her in a class apart and all the flaming hues and unique cuts will only enhance her charm.

Make-up is an important element in a white-haired woman's life, but, since that is another field from dressing, let me only warn her that too definite an artificial coloring tends to harden her expression, while just the right touch of lip-stick and rouge make her truly beautiful.

STUNNINGLY BECOMING HUES

Reds are stunning on the white-haired woman as are all the pinks, fuchsias, purples and deep-tone wine shades that make this winter a de-light to the couturier. Green can she wear, too, and sapphire blue is a de-light on her. Browns are a mistake and beige should always be discarded. A soft gray in lace or chiffon, or a silver cloth dress sometimes makes a white-haired woman just too beautiful for words. And I remember fashioning a white gown for a youngish white-haired woman that she said later, brought her more compliments than she ever received before.

CUT IMPORTANT AS COLOR

The cut of clothes for this type of woman is as important as the color. Unusual drapes, necklines, odd touches and exaggerated modes of this type or that are apt to make her distinctive looking. But she must never wear the flapper type of bouffant gowns, too short skirts, or the Kate Greenaway cut of bodice. They are all incongruous on a woman with white hair, even though she be in her early 20's.

I like black and white on a white-haired woman, too. Often a rich costume of this type gives her a regal elegance that color might not. I show today a day-time semi-formal Worth gown in black chiffon velvet with bolero jacket and unevenly tiered skirt, the tiers running horizontally giving a light effect across the hips.

The dainty blouse under the bolero has a word of mention for its lady-like quietness. It is white, satin, finely pleated into a simply-bound round neck. Pearl buttons march up the side-front, plainly closed, and in similar manner up the tight cuff. The bolero ties across the front, giving somewhat the impression of a Tuxedo vest.

CROWN GRACEFULLY SHIRRED

With this is a black velvet mushroom hat that has triple shirring to give grace to the front of the crown and a little brim that is almost triangular in shape, with a tiny roll to it.

The coat I show is a rich kasha vella in becoming garnet hue with very narrow insets of matching crepe appearing as stitching around the bottom and down the back and sides of the coat, adding an extremely chic note and giving the coat the feeling of great luxury.

Nothing is more becoming to the white-haired woman than the right fur. So this coat has a stole of natural baby lamb in soft silver tone, encircling the throat and falling to the hem over the shoulder as well as edging the front opening to the hem.

SILVER-KASHA LINED

Deep bell-shaped cuffs of the rich fur slope nearly to the elbow and the lining of the coat is of silver kasha.

The evening gown is a sapphire blue chiffon, beaded all over, as is the manner this winter, with matching gleaming beads. It has the popular front fullness which is so characteristic of Chanel, who fashioned this gown.

The sophisticated note of this gown is the deep U back which has long ties which fall to the uneven hemline. The gown swatches the hip-line snugly and two ties in the front hang below the dipping front hemline. With it she wears broad-based slippers that emphasize the rich color of the gown.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

Although Faith had planned, in those long, sleepless hours of the night, to slip out of Joy's bed before her little sister had awakened, she had not counted on the fact that at camp Joy had been accustomed to rise at half past six. And in spite of her dismay at being caught, Faith could not be wholly sorry, for there was a flash of incredulous delight in the child's eyes when they flew open upon her adored big sister.

"You stayed all night with me, didn't you, Faith?" she cried, giggling Faith ecstatically. "You thought I'd be lonesome without my mama, didn't you, Faith? Oh, I do love you so much."

"Yes, darling, but go back to sleep now for an hour," Faith whispered. "It's awfully early. We mustn't wake up the others."

At half past seven promptly she heard Bob enter the bathroom; then above the rush of water into the tub she heard him whistling cheerfully, the tune he always whistled while shaving—"I wander today o'er the hills Maggie"—and again anger and bitterness swept over her in a hot tide. He could not be so happy; he could whistle as if nothing whatever had happened! When at last she heard their bedroom door slam and she knew he had gone to get the morning paper from the front porch, she darted into the room and secured the pretty printed percale house dress that she had decided to wear. Not that she wanted to look pretty for him! But, back in Joy's room, into which she had determined to move her clothes as soon as Bob had left the house, she took extra pains with her hair and her face, even going so far as to use a little rouge to hide the pallor which a night's sleeplessness had laid heavily upon her cheeks.

She did not see Bob until he entered the dining room, where she was calmly presiding over the breakfast table, serving Joy and Cherry, on time for once, with blueberries and cream.

"Morning, everybody!" Bob called out cheerfully, not lifting his eyes from the paper he held in his hands. "I see that another brace of fliers is taking off for France today. Pretty soon they'll have to have air traffic cops over the ocean, to keep the trans-Atlantic fliers from bumping into each other."

"Bob, you oughta seen me this morning!" Joy bubbled. "When I woke up and found Faith in bed with me, I nearly jumped outa my skin, I was so tickled. Will you let her stay all night with me lotsa times, Bob?"

When the child had begun to speak Faith had tried desperately to attract her attention and give her a signal of silence, but she had not succeeded.

Cherry's golden eyes, as sunny as if she had not left the living room the night before in a fury because of George Pruitt's too-evident preference for Faith, flew wide with astonishment, darted, gleamingly, from Bob's face to Faith's.

"How awfully sweet of you, Faith!" she sang out in her high, musical voice, rippled with malicious amusement. "I don't suppose by any chance that that model couple, the Robert Hathaways, have quarreled? Did Bob arrive at the psychological moment last night when the doughty George was bidding you a fond good-bye, darling? I thought those things only happened in the movies."

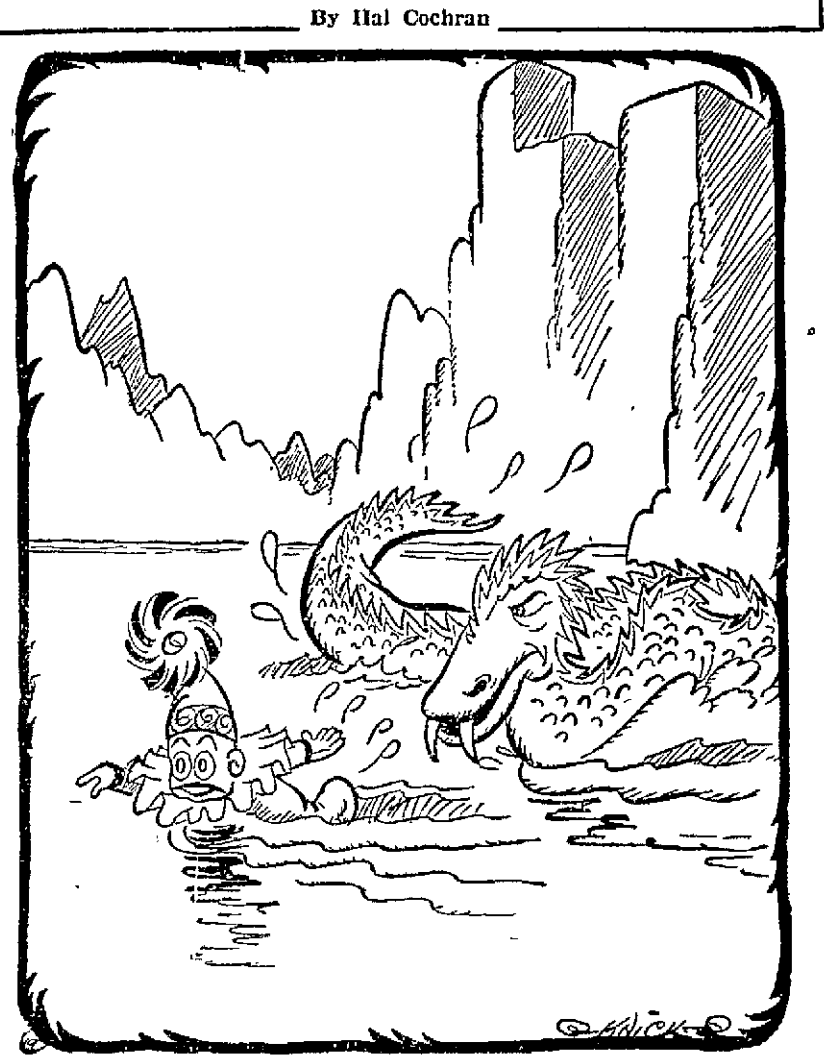

Faith, chocking with anger, flashed her great brown eyes upon Bob, but his face was bent persistently over his newspaper.

"Quarreled, Cherry?" he drawled. "Sorry to disappoint you, but there has been no quarrel and—there won't be."

But Faith knew that the last words were meant for her, not for Cherry.

NEXT: Bob learns the truth.

THE TINYMITES

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Tines thought the eagle dash to give wee Clowny such a splash. But Clowny didn't seem to mind. The lake was far from cold. He swam with quite apparent ease and yelled, "It's only to my knees. I'm really not a bit afraid, 'cause I'm brave and bold."

Then Scouty shouted, "Sakes alive, here is our chance to take a dive. The water sure looks tempting and I'm for it goodness knows." The other Tines yelled "Hurrah!" and from the shore they ran away to find a place where they could take off portions of their clothes.

Wee Clowny, in the meantime kept on swimming, though he barely crept. He looked up to the shore and wondered where the bunch had gone. Thought he, "My legs are getting sore. I fear I'll never reach the shore. I wish that I were very big and had a lot of brawn."

Just then the rest came running out, and with a mighty whoop and shout, they splashed forth in the water. What a treat the whole crowd had! "Come on, there Clowny," some one cried. "Swim on until you reach our side." And Clowny yelled, "Say if I can, I surely will be glad."

Then Carpy laughed to beat the band. "Why swim so hard when you can stand?" Poor Clowny had forgotten that the water wasn't deep. So, up he stood and cried aloud, "I'll soon be with that happy crowd and when again I'm safe and sound, right with them I will keep."

A splash nearby gave him a scare. Of course he wondered what was there. And when he looked around he was as scared as he could be. The other Tines ran ashore. Poor Clowny was alone once more, and towards him came an ugly thing—a serpent of the sea.

(The Water King comes to Clowny's rescue in the next story.)

WHITE RICE

When boiling rice, add a bit of lemon juice to the water. It will both whiten the rice and keep the grains from sticking to each other.

BREAD PUDDING

If you will add some macaroon flour or a few broken macaroons to the bread scraps, your bread pudding will be 100 per cent more tasty.

PIQUANT TOUCH

Big, blue plums, and ripe tomatoes make a piquant salad when they have cheese grated over them and a Mayonnaise dressing served.

EMERGENCY IRONING BOARD

When traveling, a hotel dresser drawer, turned upside down and padded with bath towels, makes a capital ironing board.

TRAVELING AID

When packing beauty bottles or medicine for traveling, wrap a bit of adhesive tape around outside of stopper to prevent leakage.

MAPLE SYRUP

Sliced fruit makes a more appetizing dessert if a dash of maple syrup is added. Maple sugar is a substitute.

TRAVELING CONVENIENCE

When traveling, it pays to carry a picture hook as well as a folding hanger. The hook will catch in the rack overhead and hold your coat.

PEAR SALAD

Slice pears crosswise for salads and cut out the core carefully. Fill that hole with cream cheese, pimento, cherries or other delicacy.

WOMEN LOSE PASSPORTS MORE OFTEN THAN MEN

Paris — (AP)—Women are more careless with their passports than men. Every day during the tourist season several Americans enter the consulate at Paris with a worried air and the news that their passports have disappeared. Four out of five are women.

Most of them are unable to explain how the precious paper happened to get out of their possession. With proper identification, they all receive new passports. But the women European tourists lose not only the passport but also several centimes, the extra fees made a big dent in the pocketbook, or that part of the budget originally set aside for shopping excursions, and the purchase of presents for the kin back home.

Give Program At Colonial Tea for D.A.R.

Autumn leaves and fall garden flowers were used to decorate the home of Mrs. R. J. Watts, 732 E. John-st., for the colonial tea given from 3 to 6 o'clock Friday afternoon for members of Appleton chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution and guests. The rooms were lighted by candles. Sixty members and 25 guests from Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna and eligible persons in Appleton were present.

A short musical program was given after which tea was served. Those who poured were Mrs. H. F. Cooke of Kaukauna, Mrs. O. P. Fairfield, Mrs. N. P. Mills and Mrs. G. A. Ritchie.

The program consisted of a selection sung by G. Nixon accompanied by Mrs. R. J. Watts; a vocal solo by Miss Johnson, accompanied by Miss Jean Lackey of Lawrence Conservatory of Music; a violin duet by Miss Lanouette and Miss Erd of the conservatory accompanied by Miss Margaret Mason and a vocal selection by Miss Louise Gardner, accompanied by Miss Irene Tschopp. At the close of the program Mrs. W. R. Chelloner, past regent of the local chapter, was presented with a past regent's bar.

Little Miss Faith Frampton, in colonial costume, was doctender. The social committee, dressed as colonial women with powdered wigs, presided in the dining room. Members of the committee were Mrs. George C. Nixon, Mrs. L. P. Wolf, Mrs. John B. Lett, Mrs. Arthur Ritzer of Neenah, Mrs. El. Pierce and Mrs. J. A. Engel. Other members of the chapter who wore costumes were Miss Edith Ames, Mrs. George Ashman, Mrs. W. Ray Chelloner, Mrs. Cooke, Mrs. W. M. Eschner, Mrs. O. P. Fairfield, Mrs. Lacey Horton, Mrs. Alice Jones, Mrs. Becker, Mrs. G. A. Ritchie, and Mrs. Smalz.

The reception committee consisted of the officers of the chapter including Mrs. George Ashman, Mrs. Earl Baker, Mrs. George Werner, Mrs. W. S. Mason, Miss Edith Ames, Mrs. L. M. Howser, Mrs. W. H. Eschner, Mrs. W. H. Meeker, Mrs. Alice Jones, Mrs. W. M. Shapiro, Mrs. Ray Chelloner, Mrs. E. C. Wheeler and Mrs. J. R. Frampton.

CALL MEETING TO ORGANIZE CLUB CHORUS

A women's chorus at Appleton Womans club will be organized at a special meeting at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon at the clubhouse. Invitations have been extended to members of the music department of the club and women of Appleton Womans club who would like to join the chorus to attend the meeting Monday afternoon. Mrs. E. E. Dunn will direct the chorus.

SEVENTY-FIVE AT VOCATIONAL STUDENTS DANCE

About 75 persons were present at the dance for Vocational school pupils which was given Friday evening at the Playhouse of Appleton Womans club. Patrons were Mr. and Mrs. Herb Heilig, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Chelloner, Mrs. Christine Dorr, and Miss Pansy Tash. Miss Ellinor Strickland, dramatic director of Appleton Womans club, and Miss Agnes Vanneman, recreational director, were in charge of the dance.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Sociality of the Blessed Virgin Mary of St. Mary church will meet for its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 Monday evening in Columbia hall. Important business will be discussed.

The Kuranay class of First Baptist church met Friday evening at the church. Routine business was discussed. Mrs. George Payant is in charge of the group.

LODGE NEWS

A regular meeting of Equitable Fraternal union was held Friday night in 611 Myer hall. Routine business was discussed.

A regular meeting of Konicmic lodge of Odd Fellows will be held at 8 o'clock Monday in Odd Fellow hall. Regular business will be discussed.

LARGE CROWD AT MASONIC STAG PARTY

Two hundred members of Waverly lodge, No. 51, Free and Accepted Masons, attended the first "stag" dinner and social of the season Friday evening at the Masonic temple. Dinner was served at 6:30 by members of Fidelity chapter, Order of Eastern Star. The program which followed, was in charge of the social committee of which Carl McKee is chairman. Other members of the committee are L. J. Marshall, George Packard, Clement Ketchum, H. L. Post, Max Elias, Frank Schwandt, Carl Sherry, W. C. Jacobson, Mrs. Ernest Morse and Miss Mable Wolters.

George Nixon opened the program with selections on his musical saw. The Methodist church quartet composed of Mr. Nixon, Mr. McKee, Mrs. Clinton McCready and Miss Dora E. Cline sang several selections, accompanied at the piano by Russell Hayton. E. C. Moore of the Lawrence college conservatory of music, completed the program with flute solos.

A smelter of social followed the program. Prizes at bridge were won by Harry Licht, R. J. White and A. F. Kleitzi. Prizes at schafkopf were won by John Gerhauser, Arnold Schultz and John Gillespie. Plans were made for a dinner dance on Friday, Nov. 21, the opening dance of the season, which will be a general get-together for Masons and their wives. Neither the stag or the dance are part of the regular winter series of dancing parties which will start later in the year.

CHURCH WOMEN MAKE PLANS TO SERVE DINNER

Captains of the various clubs of the Christian Mothers society of St. Theresa Catholic church held a joint meeting Thursday evening at the parish hall to discuss plans for the dinner to be served in connection with the dedication of the church on Nov. 6.

How To Play Bridge

By Milton C. Work

The pointer for today is: AT NO TRUMP, DECLARER HOLDING ACE-JACK-KING LEAD, FREQUENTLY FINDS IT ADVANTAGEOUS TO PLAY SMALL ON THE FIRST TRICK.

South is playing a No Trump contract; there has been no other bid.

THE QUESTION

What four cards should be played to the first trick?

THE ANSWER

West opens his longest suit and having three honors, two of which are touching, leads the top of touching honors: from King-Queen-Jack or King-Queen-Ten the King is the sound opening.

By playing small, Declarer places himself in a most advantageous position because he could sooner have West lead than from his own hand. If West continue Clubs, two tricks in that suit are assured for the Declarer and he has it stopped on the third round. If West lead either a Heart or a Diamond, it will be up to tenaces in the Closed Hand; and either of these selections would be exactly what Declarer would most earnestly desire. If West lead a Spade, it may work very well for Declarer and cannot be as harmful as it would be for him to lead that suit should he win the first Club.

If Declarer should win the first trick and try either the Spade or Heart finesse, East should win and return Clubs through South's Jack-x, saving the game. Declarer's sound play usually is to duck a King lead up to Closed Hand's Ace-Jack-x.

In the days of the Whist celebrities of past generations were in the heyday of their fame and Dickens was picturing Mr. Pickwick in many perplexities at the Whist table, this play became known as the "Bath Coup" because it was said to have been made for the first time at Bath. But while at Whist with no exposed Dummy the play was more or less of a gamble, at Bridge it is more or less of a cinch.

LECTURER WILL TELL HOW TO TREAT DEFECTS

The proper care and treatment of crippled children at an early age in order to avoid grave defects, later will be one of the topics discussed by E. R. Kelsey, one of the founders of the International Society for Crippled Children, in a lecture Tuesday evening at the Knights of Pythias hall under the auspices of Appleton Womans club.

The correction of a defect, such as club feet or congenital dislocation of the hip, in the young child increases his chance to develop a normal physical condition as he matures. These are some of the topics of which Mr. Kelsey will speak concerning the rehabilitation of the crippled child.

Water Board Meets

There will be a semi-monthly meeting of the water commission at 7:15 Monday afternoon in the water department offices in the city hall. Routine business matters will be transacted and bills will be allowed.

FATHER DEAD 20 YEARS SO HE DREW PENSION

Paris—(P)—Jean-Baptiste Tourenne, 60, has for 20 years been drawing the pension of his dead father. When government railroad officials learned that one of their retired employees, pensioned 35 years ago, would celebrate his hundred birthday this year, they began to arrange a public ceremony in his honor. In the course of arrangements officials found that Tourenne had collected his father's pension for so long that a new generation of cashiers took it for granted the man they paid was the pensioner himself. Tourenne, therefore, kept on getting paid and lived without working. A judge sentenced him to a year in jail.

"Old Timers" Happy To Renew Old Acquaintances

Approximately 75 "old timers" of Outagamie-co. settlers who have been residents of the county for at least 50 years, gathered at Hotel Northern Thursday afternoon to exchange tales of the good old days and many a "Ke-member 'way back when" floated across the room. The old timers were so happy to renew the days of their youth that the reunion may become an annual affair.

The program opened with a dinner at noon. The assembly call for the dinner was played by George Birmingham of Hortonville, who showed considerable skill as an old time drummer boy. George Lausman, Appleton, followed with several whistling selections, accompanied by a victrola. Mr. Lausman whistled from Frisco to Cape Cod, Kukuk Waltz, and Silver Threads Among the Gold. General assembly call was played by Mr. Birmingham at 1:15 and O. W. Schaefer gave the address of welcome.

Mr. Birmingham played a fine solo and Gustave J. Keller narrated anecdotes of the life of settlers of Outagamie-co. in the early days. Dr. A. W. Kanouse was the next speaker, claiming that the settlers of today are not pioneers and that only a few real pioneers remain. Other talks on experiences of "old timers" in the county were given by Henry Schuettler, Mrs. Henry Diener, Mrs. Dennis Stowe and Mrs. Louis Jacquet of Hortonville.

All of the speakers told of the days when wolves and Indians were numerous, when the county was a wilderness and the roads mere aisles of mud.

SHAWANO EASY FOR SCRAPPY KAUKAUNA FOOTBALL ELEVEN

McAndrew's Team Rips Through Northern Squad for 26 to 0 Victory

Kaukauna — Coach McAndrew's "Galloping Ghosts" galloped through the Shawano High school football eleven for a 26 to 0 win at the Shawano-ko. seat on Friday afternoon. When the final whistle blew Coach McAndrew had practically his entire second team in the game and still Orange and Black smashed the Shawano line for big gains. This win left Kaukauna's slate clear in the Northeastern Wisconsin interscholastic conference and the Kaws kept pace with the other conference leaders at the same time. Kaukauna's line tore large holes in the Red and Black right side of the line in much the same fashion as the line ripped up Menasha a week ago. A big improvement was shown in the speed of the backfield which was on the job to take advantage of the holes made by the fighting line lead by Captain Willis Miller. Those who did exceptionally well were Captain Miller who blocked a Shawano punt, Harvey who fell on a punt in back of Shawano's goal post for the first touchdown, Luedtke who made two touchdowns, "Mush" Eder who ran thirty yards for a touchdown through most of the Shawano team and who also tore loose for many big gains and Clifford Kemp who educated toe kicked three of the four goals.

The festivities started, much to the delight of the Kaws fans shortly after the referee's whistle started the game. With Kaukauna battling down the field Shawano finally got in possession of the ball within the shadows of its own goal posts. A punt was blocked by Captain Miller and Harvey Doering, Kaw end, fell on it behind the Red and Black goal posts for the first Kaw score. Kemp was rushed in to kick the extra point. The first score made so easily disheartened the northern squad quite a bit.

The first quarter ended 7 to 0 in favor of Kaukauna. Shawano tried a passing game with no effect. A series of plunges with the final effort by Luedtke gave Kaukauna another marker in the second quarter. An attempt to make the extra point by passing failed and the first half ended with the Kaws leading 13 to 0.

With the "Galloping Ghosts" working almost to perfection in the second half there was little doubt in the minds of the fans that Kaukauna would win by a large score. In the third quarter "Mush" Eder, one of the original "ghosts" ran thirty yards for a touchdown and Kemp added the extra point.

The Kawsmen's final marker came in the fourth quarter when Luedtke went over for his second touchdown of the game. Kemp made the try for goal. The game ended with the Kaws starting another rush with the subs in the lineup.

Kemp attempted two field goals early in the game but missed both attempts. Kaukauna's lineup included Doering and Ferguson at ends, Crevierre and W. Miller at tackles, Hilgenberg and Hallock at guards, Landreman at center, Hishon and Kemp at quarter, M. Miller at full and Derus and Luedtke at halves.

WHAT THE NEW YORK "TELEGRAPH" SAID FOLLOWING BROADWAY PREMIERE OF SYD CHAPLIN IN "THE MISSING LINK"

If Charlie Chaplin doesn't look out he will soon be known as "Syd's brother." In this extravaganza Syd settles his comedy crown even more securely upon his shapely head. In fact, in this case it is pounded well down over his ears by his co-comedian, "Akka," a chimpanzee with whom many alleged humans should be proud to claim kinship.

"The Missing Link" is a riot. A good old-fashioned slambang burlesque where trousers are lost, labels are accidentally pasted on prominent portions of the anatomy, paste buckets and brushes applied ad lib and stuffed clubs wielded with deadly effect to the humorous sensibilities of the audience. The picture has the distinction of being utterly devoid of any subtlety, nothing is suggested. Everything is shouted. Each laugh is pounded home with the same lusty, red blooded vehemence with which "Akka" slams the unprotected dome of his brother Dromed.

Plot? What does it matter when Syd Chaplin is busy every moment outdoing a human clown in monkey-business? But just to give you an idea—

Fate puts Syd in the power of Lord Dryden, explorer and hunter of "The Missing Link." Dryden, fearful of femininity, forces Syd, victim of a terrible animosity toward animals, to impersonate him. They arrive at the African domain of the Bradens, where dwell the blonde heroine—and, some of the wilds of the vicinity—the dread monster called "The Missing Link." Oh yes, the pet of the Braden household is a four-foot chimpanzee, "Akka." The ensuing footage is much given over to the antics of Syd Chaplin and the monkey, which he mistakes for the "Link." In one sequence Akka escapes after Syd believes him securely imprisoned. Having discovered a secret of success in subduing the monkey, Syd sallies forth unarmored to seek him in the jungle. He returns quickly, followed by a whole troupe of lions with which he plays hide-and-seek about the premises to the loud accompaniment of hilarity from Akka and from the audience.

In the end, naturally—or unnaturally, whichever you like—Syd the timid hunter, captures "The Missing Link" with no other aid than that supplied by his new-found friend, the chimp. And—He gets the girl.

Aside from the roaring farce of the production, the picture is notable for Chaplin's pantomime in several sequences, and for the uncanny and devilish intelligence of the sinister comedian, Akka. In watching the antics of the chimp I could not for the life of me prevent recurring memories of "The Murder in the Rue Morgue." I wondered how Chaplin felt as the great ape pawed and pummeled him. And whether he ever doubted for a moment that the huge, powerful beast, which might so easily become terrible, understood thoroughly that it was all in fun—not at all serious—only for the "movies." . . . Syd Chaplin is not only funny—he is brave. "The Missing Link" is a riot—A Roar of Rabelaisian Hilarity. —Herbert Cruikshank.

Chicago Orchestra Plays
For Johnston Post Frolic

"Zachie" Moore's recording orchestra of Chicago, Ill., will furnish the music for the Oney Johnston American Legion post No. 38, harvest frolic and industrial display, which is to open at the Armory on Tuesday, October 25. Moore's band is well known in the vicinity as it recently completed a week's engagement in Green Bay. Besides being composed of a group of excellent musicians, the Moore organization boasts a variety of entertainers all of whom will appear at the frolic during its five-day stay at Appleton.

The Moore orchestra will make its appearances both afternoons and evenings on a stage which is to be constructed on the main floor of the Armory. The band did recording work in the past for the Paramount record company, and is rated one of the best of its kind.

"Zachie" Moore, the leader of the orchestra, appears behind the drums when his band makes its public appearances, and his sensational manner of handling the sticks has attracted considerable attention. The band comes to Appleton well stocked with all the latest song hits, it has been announced.

With Moore's orchestra on the stage at the frolic and industrial display, dancing will be enjoyed by patrons of the show. In addition to turning out a fine variety of dance music, the band members will also take a hand in the general entertainment program, as several accomplished dancers and vocalists are included in the orchestral roll.

Legion officials have announced that a large number of entries have already been received for the "best baby" show, which will be held on the four afternoons of the frolic. As the contest is being run off along the elimination type, the finals have been set for Saturday afternoon, October 28. Entries are being taken over phone at number 3612. No entry fee is being charged, and the contest is open to all babies in Outagamie county.

CALL CONFERENCE FOR SUPPRESSION OF VICE

La Crosse—(P)—Suppression of vice in all its forms will be the keynote of the International Fair Conference opening Oct. 18 for three days.

Thirty speakers from various parts of the United States and Canada will appear on the program, carrying the battle against immorality and promoting educational methods in sex hygiene.

The conference will be under the direction of the World's Purity Federation, headquarters being in LaCrosse. B. B. Steadwell, president of the federation, in discussing the coming conference, declared that requests for calling the conference came from all sections of North America.

"Everywhere," he said, "there is recognized by unprejudiced and unbiased minds a great increase in licentiousness, in crimes, especially crimes of youth; in questionable dress, in questionable amusements and in divorce. There is an increase in general delinquency which comes through these modern evil activities and practices that lead only to almost universal temptation."

"Society is all morally today, so all that our leaders in the field of religion and social service are alarmed over

The Missing Link was given its New York premier at the Colony Theatre, one of the Broadway houses so commodious as to make a long run in it seem impossible. Despite its large seating capacity, however, Syd Chaplin and "The Missing Link" filled it for eight solid weeks, and during its run broke every record. During the first week "The Missing Link" was witnessed by over fifty thousand people. When a picture can attract over 300,000 people to see it within a period of two months it must be some picture. # BIG TEN GRID STARS BATTLE FOR PLACE IN HALL OF FAME

Expect Many New Heroes To Be Crowned As Result Of Conference Openers

Badgers Hopeful of Spilling Michigan Jinx; Purple, Ohio Battle Important

(Chicago—AP)—Old and new football idols of the Western conference battle for places in four Big Ten games, notable for their early season importance in the conference championship.

With Ralph Welch 6-4 against Harvard means little to Chicago rooters unless Purdue's star can do it against the Maroons too and Coach Stagg has developed a special defense against the Big Ten's new flash.

Four new coaches share the interest with their teams in the other three conflicts of the day. "Gloom" Glenn Thielert has raised the hopes of Wisconsin for an upset in the long string of tragedies against Michigan for he won a conference title at Northwestern before he came to the Badgers last spring. Captain Crofoot and Gene Rose are pair of backs to be reckoned with.

Michigan is under new leadership though shadow of Hurry Up Yost still hovers over the efforts of Tad Wetman. The Wolverines rank Louis Kibbert among the great backs in their history while Captain Benny Oosterbaan still stretches his long arms for passes out to the flank. If anyone can toss the ball to the flank, it is Kibbert.

Northwestern, one of the greatest fullbacks the conference ever saw, feared he might not get a chance to perform all his tricks Saturday against the Indiana team for coach Spears had a wealth of good backfield material without him and Joesting has not yet recovered from injuries.

Two of the four squads picked early in the season by the Big Ten championship were to meet at Columbus, Northwestern and Ohio State. It was the first Big Ten test of Dick Hanley's new methods and he had one of Northwestern's best teams to carry them out.

The strongest non-conference opposition, Illinois has had this season confronted them Saturday in Iowa State, which held Nebraska to a single touchdown two weeks ago. Inside the Big Ten camp it was rumored that Coach Zupke would be content with a victory by the margin of one touchdown. Garland Grange, Red's brother, had a chance to start again at end with the opportunity to play against Northwestern a week hence in the conference opener for the Illinois makes good. A trick shouldest have dogged Grange's efforts for two weeks.

Having a weight advantage of 16 pounds a man the Iowa team looked for a comparatively easy time against Webster Saturday.

YALE BULLDOG WORKS EXTRA HARD FOR ARMY

The Yale Bulldog has started intensive training for the Army game. When these two teams meet at New Haven on Oct. 22 a battle royal is certain to result. Yale's catch-can style with no holes barred.

Last fall, the Army team was in fine fettle when it took on the Yale Bulldog. The result was a one-sided victory for the Army, 33-0. It was one of the worst trimmings ever handed Yale by any old team and the Blue resents it.

While Yale suffered defeat in its first important game of the year with Georgia, the Bulldog showed plenty of power as well as tenacity of purpose. Only the rankiest sort of fumbling kept Yale from making the contest much closer. This evil will have been taken care of by the time Yale meets the Army.

This game promises to be one of the treats of the football menu for this fall as Yale is sure to try to avenge the walloping of last year.

Yank Batting Practice Scared Bucs From Title

BY BILLY EVANS

Two reasons, both logical, can be offered for the poor showing of the Pittsburgh Pirates in losing four straight games to the New York Yankees.

One relates to the power of psychology. The other may be an inferiority complex. Both are entirely reasonable.

It is my belief that the batting practice in which the Yankees indulged on the day prior to the opening of the series as well as the day on which the series opened, had much to do with the poor showing of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The first reason for the poor showing of the Pirates is the fact that they were in a batting mood, slugging the ball all over the lot, also out of it. The psychology of the Yankees' bats undoubtedly had a far-reaching effect on the Pirates' bats.

Throughout the series the Pirates seemed to be suffering from an inferiority complex.

After watching the New York club in action prior to the opening of the series, the players acted as if they believed all the complimentary things that had been written about the American League champions.

VALLEY LEAGUE HEAD FINALLY CALLS GAMES

According to word sent out to all baseball clubs in the Fox Valley by Pres. C. L. DeRoche, the remaining games in the Fox River Valley loop have been called off.

The Oshkosh club set the precedent of having no more games, and the action of the Oshkosh organization was followed by a similar decision by the Neenah club. All of the other teams of the loop were also ready to call "quits" even before the official edict came from the loop president.

It is common knowledge that the league moguls learned a lesson this fall, and that in 1928 the baseball schedule will probably be arranged so that the last games occur about Labor day.

CARD STUDENTS CRAVE VICTORY IN MICH GAME

Madison — Eager for a Wisconsin victory over Michigan in Saturday's important grid clash at Randall Stadium, the Badger student body broke loose last night and painted the town of Madison "Red." The pent-up spirit of many months broke forth following a huge mass meeting on the lower campus Friday night.

Building fronts and sidewalks bear such signs as "Break the Jinx," "Beat Michigan," "Varsity Out to Trim the Wolves" and "Tump on 'Em." This spirit emanated through the players who wore the Cardinal quarterbacks in going into this crucial battle to play the stellar ball against the Wolverines that he has played the past two games he will be well on the way to the cherished position of field general of the Big Ten, a Conference Team.

A good open sale of tickets Saturday will bring the crowd up to 35,000. Special trains arrived Friday night and Saturday morning from Ann Arbor and Detroit, carrying 5,000 Wolverine fans.

JOHNSON ENDS 27-YEAR REIGN AS A. L. LEADER

Chicago—(AP)—With the closing of his desk at American League headquarters Saturday, Ben Johnson came to the end of his 27 years as league president. His resignation was written, ready to hand to the league directors Monday.

The national pastime has been kind to the dean of the major leagues, for his investments in baseball have brought him a fortune estimated by some to be as much as a million dollars. He rejected the offer to continue his contract with an annual salary of $40,000 until its expiration in 1935, when he announced last summer he would "clean house and resign."

Of his future plans Johnson has said nothing except that he expects to take a long rest.

RICKARD SELLS HALF STOCK IN BIG ARENA

New York—(AP)—New York newspaper said Saturday that it has learned on good authority that Tex Rickard has sold more than $500,000 worth of stock in Madison Square garden within the last ten days, approximately one half of his holdings.

Behind the transaction, the paper says, is an effort to depose Rickard as general manager, although the promoter holds a contract for an annual salary of $30,000.

Rickard is said to welcome an opportunity to escape from his contract.

JUD TIMM MAY BE MAN TO REPLACE RED GRANGE

When Red Grange departed from the University of Illinois he left a record behind him that has made the going tough for ambitious fullbacks ever since. Recalling the deeds of Grange, Illinois supporters are inclined to expect to reach from the well carriers of Coach Bob Zupke.

Among the candidates for the backfield at Illinois this year is a young man by the name of Jud Timm, who has made quite an impression. Timm hails from Twin Falls, Idaho, where men are men, etc.

Coach Zupke was counting strongly on young Timm last fall, in the early training work he broke an arm and was out of school for the rest of the season.

When he looked over his squad a few weeks ago, Coach Zupke discovered the name of Timm in the long list of athletes anxious to make the varsity. He is known in every way as a strong and is suffering no ill effects from the injury of last fall. He is sure to make trouble in Big Ten circles.

BREWERS SIGN ROOKIE CATCHER FOR NEW YEAR

Milwaukee—(AP)—Dunham, 19, signed up Friday by the latter management as one of four new recruits to go south with the Milwaukee Braves on an annual training tour.

The new recruit is a limited left-handed pitcher, who was the best pitcher in the minor leagues last season in St. Louis, and played at a high level in the major league team on Saturday.

Dunham is six feet tall, weighs 175 pounds, and is a right-handed batsman.

ZWICK BIG DRAWING CARD IN OHIO RING

500 Fans Expected to Motor to Appleton for Big Card Next Friday

Since leaving the wilds of Wisconsin, Phil Zwick, Kaukauna mat star, who meets Joey Thomas in the wind-up of the first fall card of the Appleton Athletic club at Armory G next Friday night, has boxed all the good bantamweights around Florida, and was a consistent winner, coming to Cleveland almost a year ago, where he had a long string of kayos, knocking out the best two boys in Jimmy Dunn's stable, Mickey Dugan, in three rounds, and Eddie Bowen, who defeated the well known Willie Ames of Akron. Zwick sent him down and out in one round, and came back a week later and knocked out Danny Dunn's star featherweight, Steve Nugent in two rounds. He also boxed Kansas Joe Lynch, Al Corbett and knocked out Spacy Plug Russell.

Zwick is big card around the Ohio cities and has been on almost every show, and meeting with big success. He is one of the best boys in the country, and finds it hard to get opponents to box him. Datto, Jackie Nichols and all the rest giving him the go-by.

K. O. IN 5 ROUNDS

His last time out he defeated Art Warden, the hard punching featherweight of Buffalo, and when he goes against Joey Thomas he feels confident he will stop Thomas in five rounds.

Zwick will come to Chicago in a day or two and work out at Jim Mullen's gym, and go to Milwaukee and Appleton in plenty of time to finish up his training.

MANY AUTO PARTIES
The show will be staged at popular prices with $3 for ring-side seats. As usual a big block of the best pasted boards will be put aside for out of town fans, who can make reservations by sending money order or certified check direct to the Appleton Boxing Club.

Big automobile parties have already been formed in many cities of the state, and it is expected that fully 500 fans will motor here from Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Green Bay, Neenah, Menasha to see the scrap.

College Captains

ROEPKE OF PENN STATE
State College, Pa.—Already in the running for high honors in the east, Johnny B. Roepke, captain of Penn State's eleven this year, hopes to remain among the leaders until Thanksgiving day.

Roepke is one of several three-letter men at Penn State this year, but he is more prominent in football than in basketball and baseball.

This is his third season on the Lions' squad, and his work in early season games has already stamped him worthy of being included among the prominent backs of the east this year.

Roepke gave his brightest exhibition last season against Pittsburgh, the final game of the year. In that game, which was lost by the Lions, he hogged the limelight for Penn State, gaining practically all its yardage and scoring its sole touchdown.

Roepke, weighing 167 pounds, is the triple-threat man of the squad, being able to pass and punt and run with the ball in an efficient fashion.

JACK DELANEY WHIPS HEAVIER RING RIVAL

Delaney gave away almost 20 pounds Friday night and outpointed Jack Renault in ten rounds at Madison Square Garden. Renault suffered a broken nose in the fourth round when he met one of Delaney's uppercuts. He was an easy target for Delaney's left hook and jab.

JUD TIMM MAY BE MAN TO REPLACE RED GRANGE

When Red Grange departed from the University of Illinois he left a record behind him that has made the going tough for ambitious fullbacks ever since. Recalling the deeds of Grange, Illinois supporters are inclined to expect to reach from the well carriers of Coach Bob Zupke.

Among the candidates for the backfield at Illinois this year is a young man by the name of Jud Timm, who has made quite an impression. Timm hails from Twin Falls, Idaho, where men are men, etc.

Coach Zupke was counting strongly on young Timm last fall, in the early training work he broke an arm and was out of school for the rest of the season.

BREWERS SIGN ROOKIE CATCHER FOR NEW YEAR

Milwaukee—(AP)—Dunham, 19, signed up Friday by the latter management as one of four new recruits to go south with the Milwaukee Braves on an annual training tour.

The new recruit is a limited left-handed pitcher, who was the best pitcher in the minor leagues last season in St. Louis, and played at a high level in the major league team on Saturday.

INSPIRATION

"DOC" BOHLER

Dave's Dots And Dashes

It's funny how when a team comes through with an unexpected victory over a rival, known to be much better, aided by every break of the game, how that squad's confidence rises to a point where every rival is thought to be "easy" from then on. Manitowoc beat Oshkosh last week, 8-0, when the losers fumbled on their 6-yard line, and then two Oshkosh touchdowns were called back because of offense, or something or other, after the Sawdust city gang had easily shown their superiority.

Immediately Manitowoc pepped up and now it expects Appleton to be easy pickings, in fact Appleton gets the grand razz on its showing against Marinette last Saturday in a bunch of slams, part of which are outright lies. Manitowoc thinks that Appleton went unshaven to appear hard and scare Marinette and also "put on an air of an exceptional team." They even went so far as to say Appleton went stockless, when every man on the team wore socks, just making an extra hum bug because the Orange didn't wear 'em last year.

At the end of the column is mentioned in a soft, low voice that Johnston was out, which "meant much, of course, but nevertheless proved the Colleagues are not the team they were said to have been." Again Appleton is called a poor-passing team, "a bunch of little on and short." Again "Appleton came here last year with 12 air of bravado and escaped, most fortunately with a 13-7 win." And here's what hurts, "The Orange school is second to none in the conference for putting on airs and when it comes here a week from Saturday, it will be interesting to watch its stuff strutted. It gains them nothing, but according to Mr. Andrew Gump, there is no law against it." We're not saying a word, but all we hope is that Appleton is able to present its regular lineup against Manitowoc. In that case just watching the game will be ample revenge for us, for it'll be plenty tough to Manitowoc hopes, buoyed up by a "horseshoe" victory over Oshkosh.

But here's the trash, read it yourself and weep . . . for Manitowoc when Appleton plays there, if our lineup is intact, we'll be in for it.

Ho, Ho—the Appletonians—Their cloud-hung hopes of glory have been wrecked again, and just at a time when their dreams were sweetest. Last Saturday they went to Marinette, expecting to win easily over a team that was "not so good." They came back a much disillusioned out fit, beaten by 12 to 0. It was a hard, hard blow for a team which had its mind running wild in the conference.

Reports from Marinette carry a rather humorous story. It seems the Orange and Black team had gone unshaven for a week or more and were set to scare the very life out of the Lumberjacks. They played stockless, a la he-man, and put on an air of an exceptionally hard bunch. Marinette had little difficulty running over the visitors showing a 12-0 victory. What and little defense to speak of. Strutz, highly-touted quarterback attempted a comeback with his team by passing all over Lauer's field but he threw only to the winds, the throws going high and wide in no one at all. Playing without Johnston, star fullback, meant much, of course, but nevertheless the game proved the Colleagues are not the team they were said to have been.

Last season the Orange team came here with a great air of bravado, and escaped, most fortunately, with a 13 to 7 victory, the final whistle leaving Manitowoc within four yards of the tying or winning score. The Orange school is second to none in the conference for putting on airs and when they come here a week from Saturday it will be interesting to watch their stuff strutted. It gains them nothing, but according to Mr. Andrew Gump, there is no law against it.

Incidentally, the game here on that day should be a corker. Manitowoc's offense needs a polishing, as was evidenced in the Oshkosh game, and the ends must learn the defensive game. The line can be depended upon. Appleton, so the dope runs is a poor passing team and the back-skinning after they play a rolling football in Marinette. Johnston's back is not a problem, however.

ORGANIZE VALLEY ALLEY LOOP HERE

Appleton, Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly in 1927-28 League

Organization of the Fox River Valley Bowling league for the 1927-28 season was completed at a meeting of team representatives at the Arcade alleys here Friday evening. Two Kaukauna teams, two from Appleton and one from Kimberly and Little Chute, will complete the loop with no Neenah or Menasha squads in this year. The teams are the Hoppies Wieners and Arcades, Appleton; Electric City and Kaukauna Alleys, Kaukauna; the Blue Moons, Kimberly; and Dick's Five, Little Chute.

KAW MEN PREXY

New officers of the league elected at Friday evening's meeting are Frank Hiltgenberg, Kaukauna, president; E. Strutz, Appleton, vice president, and E. Sampson, Appleton, secretary-treasurer. The league will start bowling on Thursday, Oct. 20. The opening night will see the Blue Moons clashing with Dick's Five, the Arcades and Hoppies Wieners, battling to decide the Appleton title for the league for the time being and the two Kaukauna squads, the Electric City men and the Kaukauna Alleys, in another city honors fight.

CARROLL, COE FIGHT TO 12-12 TIE SCORE

Waukesha—Like two army tanks fighting, the Coe and Carroll college football eleven fought to a 12 to 12 deadlock here Friday afternoon in an encounter featured by breaks of the game. It was a rip-tearing struggle from start to finish, Coe holding the edge the first three quarters, but the Orangemen of Carroll coming back with a vengeance in the last period to carry the fight and stem the tide of defeat.

Largely it was a defensive battle. Carroll's husky forward wall played valiantly on defense, but, except during the final period drive, was out-charged and out-fought by the Coe line when in possession of the ball. Carroll could not get the desired coordination between the backs and line, while Coe, carrying the fight for three quarters, was unable to carry through a good midfield attack to advantage when within scoring territory.

Breaks played an important part in the struggle—a struggle that saw Carroll's great record of no defeats on frame field in four years to be all but broken. Some were out and out breaks; others were manufactured breaks—manufactured because the defending team was following the ball closely and was playing the game according to Hoyle, Camp or Eckersall.

Duluth vs. Milwaukee at Madison, (non-league).

Green Bay—Sunday afternoon at the City stadium, two of the leading teams in the National Football league, the Green Bay Packers and Chicago Cardinals, will battle in a gridiron skumish that promises to be one of the greatest games staged here.

The Chicagoans are coming here determined to win at any costs. After an uneasy start, Guy Chamberlin pulled his club together and in the last two starts snatched down the fast-going Pottsville Maroons and then romped home to a victory over the Dayton Triangles. According to reports from Chicago, the South Siders are now showing a dazzling offensive, backed by a stone wall defense.

STRESS IMPORTANCE
FOR ALL CHILDREN

Mothers and Fathers Are Told to Give Their Children Opportunity

The National Association of Music Merchants has been putting on a nation-wide advertising and promotional campaign for the purpose of bringing home to the father and mothers of the country the importance of giving their boys and girls a chance to develop their latent musical talents. They have brought to light many interesting facts regarding the childhood beginnings of the musical careers of many of the world's greatest artists.

To you fathers and mothers who wish the best that life can give that young son or daughter, the Meyer-Seeger Music company, members of the association, direct attention to the following editorial "Who Sold Gershwin's Mother That Piano?" from Piano Trade magazine of December, 1926.

"About 16 years ago some New York piano salesman—probably a Jew working for one of the lower East Side dealers—sold George Gershwin's mother a piano. The Gershwins lived at Second- and Seventh-st. at the time. George was 12 years old and gave not the slightest indication that he would ever accomplish anything musically. No Gershwin had ever played anything—except phochee. George was just the usual kid playing in the streets and his heroes were real virtuosi of the piano rather than of the concert stage.

George was caught in the nick of time. He was 12 years of age and maturing rapidly, as is the habit of his race, and who knows but that he might have been a pants maker or a clerk in a delicatessen shop? But before his habits were well grooved the piano was brought into the home and the boy began to play with the new toy.

A music teacher was employed at 50 cents a lesson and after the first period of reluctance, natural to a street loving boy, George began to show a real interest in music. When he was 17 years old he was getting $15 a week playing the piano for Remick, the publisher. In a couple of years he was getting $35 a week, playing for rehearsals for the musical show, "Miss 1917," written by Victor Herbert and Jerome Kern. At 20 he was commissioned to write the music for "La, La, Lucille," and his career to wealth and fame was launched.

He has written the music for five editions of the George White "Schaudals" and is responsible himself or as collaborator for the music for a score of musical shows, including "Oh, Kay!" which opened in New York recently. In addition, he has written the music for numerous interpolated songs.

Who sold that first piano to the Gershwin family? Probably he little knew what a boon he was conferring upon the purchaser. Perhaps he doesn't know it yet. He may be selling automobiles in which other potential George Gershwins may race about at night with their girls and their gin, to wind up with their identity lost in the vale of Arab mediocrity—if they don't wind up in a ditch!

$50,000 CONTEST
OWNER OF LAUNDRY

Offer Prizes for Best Reasons
Laundries Should Do Family Wash

More than $10,000 in cash awaits some woman in this city, according to an announcement made here Saturday by I. Berg, owner of Peerless National and Uneeda Damp Wash laundries. This is the first national prize in a great prize essay competition being staged by the laundries of the United States and Canada.

Five thousand dollars is the second national award, Mr. Berg said. Other national prizes are: Third, $2,000; fourth, $1,250; fifth, $1,000; sixth, $700; seventh, $500; eighth, $400; ninth, $250; tenth, $100.

In addition, there will be ten cash prizes for winners in this state. These are: First prize, $250; second, $125; third, $100; fourth, $50; fifth, $35; sixth, $25; seventh, $20; eighth, $10; ninth, $5; tenth, $3—a grand total of $2,940 for the 49 state groups.

Twelve thousand persons will receive honorable mention awards entitling them to a $2.00 credit for work at a modern power laundry.

"Any woman in this city and surrounding territory is eligible to enter this contest," said Mr. Berg. "I hope that one of our fine women here will win the $10,000. We will do all we can to help her."

"All that is necessary is to write a 500-word letter giving the best reasons the writer can think of on the subject, 'Why the Laundry Should Do My Washing,' and mail it to the $50,000 Competition Judges, Century Building, Indianapolis, Indiana, not later than midnight of December 1."

The bungalow got its name in India. Early British residents built one-room, partitioned dwellings, calling them "bungalows" from the Hindi word "banga," meaning thatched hut. Some hair is naturally more curly than others because, generally speaking, hair curls in proportion to its flatness. The rounder it is, the straighter.

Foreign Trade Helping To Boost Stock Prices

Babson Park, Mass.—In his weekly interview Saturday, Roger W. Babson was questioned as to why, in his opinion, the stock market remains so high. Mr. Babson has heretofore stated that he believes many stocks are selling above their intrinsic value.

"The general impression is that the stock market has had a great rise during the past year and a half," he said. "However, people are justified in assuming this because the newspapers have constantly featured the advancing rather than the declining stocks. Furthermore, the Dow-Jones Averages, made up of 20 industrial and 20 rails, show a distinct increase in price during the past year and a half. Therefore, it is only natural to believe that the stock market has had a great advance."

"An analysis of the situation, however, shows that the advances have been in comparatively few stocks. While certain stocks, like General Motors and United States Steel, have been going up, others, like United States Rubber, have been going down. In fact, the number which have declined about equals the number which have advanced. This was brought out very clearly in this year's annual report of the New York Stock exchange; in which the president showed that the stock market reached its high point in November 1926."

"Of course the great impetus to the stock market has been the prevailing easy money rates. As long as speculators can buy stocks on margin and make a profit on their interest account, it is a great temptation to buy and hold securities. Then too, the more or less permanent holdings of many of the investment trusts are a factor in taking stocks off the market."

Easy money usually results in more buyers than sellers. Even if only a few wish to buy, the market is kept up because no one wishes to sell when money rates are low. People argue, what's the use of selling when there is nothing better in which one can invest his funds? This argument is especially potent in connection with the stocks of the big corporations which are now making money. Although the net earnings of small corporations are falling off, many of the large ones are making more money today than ever.

"The fact that heavy income taxes must be paid on stock market profits tends to prevent selling. Although the transactions are heavy, I think analysts will show that all these transactions are in a small minority of the stock, not exceeding 10 per cent. The smaller the amount available for trading purposes, the easier it is to push up quotations."

"Another important reason why the stock market has continued to remain at high levels is the buying by European investors. Engaged by European investors to have for the past five years been selling their own securities and investing in United States securities. Some bankers estimate that as much money is now coming westward across the Atlantic for investment here, as is going eastward for the purchase of foreign bonds. These English and European investors, naturally by the securities of our large corporations, especially as they are the money markets."

BUSINESS FROM ABROAD
Moreover, these Europeans are acquainted with the profits of these large corporations and in many instances are doing business with them. Even today with the high stock market prices, there is no let-up in this foreign investing in American securities. I believe that more money has come from Europe during the past month than in any month since the war.

"In addition to the financial significance of such investing by Europeans in American securities, it has a political and Christian significance. As Jesus stated nearly 2000 years ago, 'Where your treasure is, there your heart will be also.' Probably no factor will be so potent in making the League of Nations a real force in world peace as the interdependence of international investors. With Europe heavily interested in the securities of the United States and Canada and with citizens of the United States and Canada large investors in European securities, there is a great incentive to world peace and the elimination of the economic causes of war."

"This new international spirit has become a factor in the development of foreign trade. Few realize the extent to which our foreign trade has increased during the past ten years. At first this was due to war purchases, but since 1920 a great legitimate foreign trade has developed. I believe this is a healthy sign and a force for good."

For the United States to continue prosperous other nations also must be prosperous. Neither Christianity nor economic laws recognize trade barriers. In the eyes of the Creator all men are brothers and must eventually prosper or suffer as a whole.

FLUCTUATIONS MUST COME
There will continue to be ups and downs in the stock market. As man lives only a certain number of years and trees grow only to a certain height, so there is a limit to the price of securities. When this limit is reached a decline takes place and this decline usually goes as much below normal as the increase went above normal. This applies to general business as well as to the stock market. The Babson chart now stands around normal, compared with 8 per cent above normal a year ago.

This is nothing to be pessimistic about. If people lived on this earth forever, it would be unnecessary to have business cycles; but as long as new generations are continually coming into the control of business, it is only natural that the same cycles take place in business itself. Yet, notwithstanding these ups and downs, business, as a whole is getting better and more stable with each generation. Surely if statistics have taught me anything, it is that the world is constantly improving and that in the long run the 'buds' always make more money than the 'bears.' I say, however, 'in the long run.' This may not be true during the next year or two."

DEALER DECLARES

Atwater-Kent

"Compactness with simplicity of operation is the biggest feature of the Atwater-Kent radio set," says Harwood Finkle of the Finkle Electric shop, 216 E. College-ave. "and that feature probably has been one of the reason's one million sets have been sold in the last few months."

The single dial receivers which are being manufactured by the Atwater-Kent company are the latest feature of the sets. The operation of one of these machines is of the utmost simplicity. All that is necessary, in order to receive broadcasting signals, is to pull out the plug marked power switch and turn the station dial to right or left, when all broadcasting stations on the air within range will come in, one after the other.

The use of the volume control rheostat is only necessary in order to reduce or increase the volume; that is, loudness of music or voices. The complete operation of the set is instantly stopped or started by the power switch without touching either of the other controls.

The dial setting of any station can be written down, and by moving the dial to this reading a station can easily be secured. The ease and speed with which all stations within range can be sampled, and any one of them selected for a few moments or a whole evening's entertainment makes a station "user" of little use except as a means of identification.

An important feature of all Atwater-Kent receiving sets is that they do not howl or squeal when being operated, nor does their operation affect the reception of other receiving sets in their immediate neighborhood.

The Finkle Electric shop also conducts one of the most complete service departments in the city. Henry Wiemar has charge of the department.

Arbor Day was started by ex-Governor J. Sterling Morton of Nebraska. At his suggestion, it is explained, the State Agricultural Society appointed April 20 as the day, and the first one was celebrated in 1872.

TOOTHPICKS ARE PASSE
BUT INDUSTRY THRIVES

Chicago—(AP)—Toothpicks may be social outlaws every year their production increases by millions, says a Chicago manufacturer of the wood-on-silvers.

However, the wheels of the toothpicks industry are not kept running to supply the use for which they were originally intended. It's such things as using them to teach the baby to count, sticking three-decker sandwiches together and resorting to toothpicks when the poker chips run out that boost production.

WENZEL BROTHERS
BIG HEATING JOBS

Proud of Work in Installation
Plumbing Job

"Within the next few days this company will finish three large jobs in Appleton and Menasha of which we are more than proud," says William Wenzel of Wenzel Brothers, plumbers and heating engineers at 406 W. College-ave. "Not only were the jobs done at reasonable prices, having been let on the competitive bid basis, but they were done with pride in the object that was to be accomplished."

The jobs about to which Mr. Wenzel referred were the plumbing for the Second ward school at Menasha, and the heating plants at the St. Theresa church and school at Appleton and the St. Paul school, also at Appleton.

The Menasha school recently was constructed at an estimated cost of $125,000 and necessarily had to have the latest in modern plumbing equipment. Among other things there are shower baths, a comparatively new feature for grade schools, and a special system of pipes to carry drinking water. In the latter case a special well is to be dug to supply drinking water and for that reason the special piping system was necessary. The closets to be installed are far removed from the old tank idea and are flushed by the valve method.

The heating system at the St. Theresa church and school in Appleton is the most modern system of heating and ventilating known today according to Mr. Wenzel. This is accomplished by the uni-vent system which permits the incoming air to pass through radiators and be warmed before entering into the rooms. The radiators are the most recent creation of the American Radiator company and are set into the wall and are out of the way. Two large new boilers also manufactured by the American Radiator company supply the heat for the system. The St. Theresa school and church cost $100,000.

DISTRICT MEET OF LEGIONAIRES TO BE HELD IN NOVEMBER

Convention City Changed: Seymour Will Be Host on Nov. 12 and 13

Plans are being made for the annual convention of the Ninth district of the American Legion which will be held Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 12 and 13, at Seymour, according to a report of Fred M. Smith, De Pere, district commander. A large representation from Oney Johnston post is planning to attend. The convention was transferred from Kaukauna, the original choice, to Seymour because of the closing of the Congress hotel, where it was to have been held.

The convention will open with a banquet at 6 o'clock Saturday evening at Hotel Falk, at which Frank Schneider, Neenah, the new state commander, Austin Peterson, Milwaukee, state adjutant, James F. Buins, Milwaukee, state service officer, and several other state Legion leaders will be the speakers. A program of music and entertainment also will be provided at the banquet. After the banquet and program the veterans will be given time for an informal get together with old buddies and pals.

The opening session on Saturday will begin at 9 o'clock in the morning. The programs for the banquet and business session will be completed by Commander Smith about Nov. 6 and will be sent to all legionnaires. Legionnaires have been asked to place reservations for banquet and rooms with Commander Smith not later than Nov. 5. Space is limited and places not reserved by the time of the banquet will be sold to residents of Seymour, he said.

Suggestions of Legionnaires will be discussed as an important part of Sunday's session. The veterans have been requested to make suggestions on important problems for the meeting. At the banquet Saturday night a question box will be installed and the questions dropped in it will be answered Sunday. Membership plans and drives also will be given considerable attention Sunday.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES MAY NOT GIVE ADDRESSES

Post office employees are not permitted to give the forwarding address of former Appleton residents according to Fred Felix Wettengel, acting postmaster. To do so would be contrary to government regulations and would make an employee liable to disciplinary action.

People come to the post office daily and ask for addresses, which cannot be given. When they are refused the individuals become indignant and often complain about postal service, it was said. According to federal regulations addresses can be given only when asked for by proper authorities. This does not include policemen, unless they are serving legal papers.

MILWAUKEE LAWRENCE CLUB SETS BANQUET DATE

The annual banquet of Milwaukee-Lawrence Alumni club will be held in connection with the annual state teachers convention Thursday, Nov. 3 in the Banquet room at Hotel Republican, Milwaukee, according to word received here Friday.

Chris Isely, '12, president of the Milwaukee club, is in charge of the arrangements for the banquet. Meets of the coterminous law school place were Lawrence college conferred the honorary degree of doctor of music upon Madame Schumann-Heink will be shown. Dr. Henry Wriston, president of Lawrence college and Dan Hardt, president's assistant will be the speakers, and artists on the faculty of Lawrence Conservatory of Music will furnish the musical numbers.

INSURANCE DEPARTMENT WARNS STATE AGENTS

Madison—(P)—The state insurance department has been informed that insurance agents of Wisconsin have been circularized by a group of insurance companies which are not licensed in Wisconsin and possibly not in any other state. Warning was issued Saturday against business with these firms, which are listed in the records of the department.

The law, as explained in the department, provides a heavy penalty for such operation. "From these provisions," it was said in the department, "agents can readily see the liability which they are assuming. If these companies are not licensed in any state it would be difficult to bring action against them to recover in case of a loss as it would be necessary to bring such action in the place where the company is located."

REALTORS ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

Prominent Speakers on Program at Manitowoc Early Next Week

Appleton realtors are making preparations to attend the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers at Manitowoc Oct. 18 to 20. The first day will be devoted to registration. A dance will be held that evening at the Manitowoc hotel.

Sessions of the convention will open Wednesday morning with Charles Rosa, chairman of the Wisconsin tax commission, as principal speaker. His topic will be the Taxation Burdens of Real Estate. Other prominent speakers on the first day are John Eber, speaker of the assembly of the Wisconsin legislature who will talk on the Responsibilities of the Legislature to the Taxpayer, and Peter A. Cleary, member of the legislative committee of the Wisconsin League of Building and Loan Associations, who will speak on the Relation of Building and Loan to the Realtor.

Prominent speakers on the second day's program are Arthur J. Mertze, director of education and research, national association of real estate boards, who will speak on Junior Financing as Applied to Home Buying, and Prof. George S. Wehrwein, agricultural department of Northwestern university, whose topic will be the Present Situation in Agricultural and Farm Land Values.

The program Thursday also calls for the appraisal contest at which time data sheets are given out and the realtors appraise certain properties. A trophy is awarded the winner of this event. Social entertainment in the way of card parties, teas, bowling, luncheons and shopping tours and a trip through the aluminum plant at Manitowoc have been arranged for women attending the meeting.

WRECK TANKS, STACK OF MALT AND GRAIN FIRM

When workmen complete tearing down the steel superstructure atop the large tile tanks of the old Wisconsin Malt and Grain company on N. Superior-st they will start to undermine the tanks preparatory to wrecking them. By undermining one side the structures will topple over and then will be salvaged. There are nine of the tanks and wrecking operations will be started next week, according to officials of the Russian Wrecking company.

The huge brick smoke stack also will be wrecked by undermining so it will topple over. Several of the tile tanks first must be removed to permit the stack to fall toward the corner of N. Superior and W. Harris-sts.

Salvaging of the old grain house has practically been completed and several cars of lumber have been shipped out of Appleton. Brick and tile also are being salvaged whenever possible.

REPORT COUNTERFEIT $20 NOTE IN TEXAS

Warning to watch for a counterfeit $20 note has been received at the Appleton post office according to Fred Felix Wettengel, acting postmaster. The note is dated from the federal reserve bank of Dallas, Tex., is of the 1914 series and bears the check letters A while the front plate number is 37 and the back plate $96. The names of Frank White, treasurer of the United States, and A. W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, appear on the bill together with a portrait of former president Cleveland.

The note is not easily detected, it is said, having been made by the photo-mechanical process. Photos were reproduced on separate sheets of thin paper and these were pasted together after fine threads had been distributed between them. Among the flaws to be noted are the face that the portrait of Cleveland does not stand out in relief and that numerous white lines on the border are irregular and not clear. The general appearance of the note is darker than others. The note eventually will be detected, government officials claim, for it will split open where pasted together. It also is an eighth of an inch longer than bona fide notes and bears the serial number K5,463,933A.

100 WAR VETERANS BORROW FROM U. S.

All Loans Made on Adjusted Service Certificates Issued Few Months Ago

More than 100 Appleton and Outagamie co. world war veterans have borrowed money from the United States Veterans Bureau in the past few weeks, according to Fred Felix Wettengel, acting post master. Most of the loans have been handled through Mr. Wettengel's office.

All loans are made on adjusted service certificates issued to veterans a few months ago. A former soldier can compute the loan value of his certificate by multiplying the face value of the certificate, which appears on the second line, by the figure representing the proper loan basis per dollar as found on the reference table of loan values which appears on the face of the certificate.

When the amount of the outstanding loan is less than the loan value it will be possible for veterans to negotiate a new loan up to the amount of the loan value, the proceeds of the new loan to be applied first to repay the amount of the former loan with accrued interest thereon, the balance going to the veteran making application.

All transactions with reference to outstanding loans must be conducted through the regional office at Milwaukee.

APPLETON LIONS PLAN TO VISIT FOND DU LAC

A number of Appleton Lions and their wives expect to accept the invitation of the Fond du Lac chapter of the club to be present at a dinner dance to be given by that organization at Fond du Lac on Oct. 25. The dinner dance is one of the series of get-togethers being given by the Lions clubs in the valley. Oshkosh gave a joint picnic several weeks ago and Appleton probably will entertain within the next few weeks.

Like, veterans hospitals or sub offices as the local post office, Mr. Wettengel said.

INDIANS TO CONFER ON GRIEVANCES AT RESERVATION HALL

Newly Elected Chairman Declares He Will Show Oneidas Are Being Defrauded

A general conference of Indians of the Oneida tribe has been called by William Skenandore, newly elected chairman, for 10 o'clock Saturday morning, Oct. 22, at the parish hall at Oneida reservation at which time grievances and complaints against treatment accorded the redmen by the United States government will be aired. Congressman George J. Schneider has been invited to attend the meeting and the Indians also are making an effort to have other public officials present.

Mr. Skenandore, in his letter to Congressman Schneider, requests that he secure protection for him so that he will not be interfered with during his delivery of the statement of facts and remarks. Mr. Skenandore implies that he fears he may be stopped because of the recent forceful ejection of an Oneida Indian from his home, when his taxes had not been paid.

"I am confident that there is a 'nigger in the fence' somewhere and we hope to find it," Mr. Skenandore said. He declares he has been investigating conditions for the past seven years and has found grounds for complaint.

The Oneida Indians are convinced that the National Bureau of Indian Affairs is seeking to release their guardianship of the Indians, in direct disregard of early treaties made with the Indians. Mr. Skenandore alleges that fraud was used in the issuance of fee simple patents to the Indians of government lands. These lands later were taken from the Indians because they failed to pay taxes.

Mr. Skenandore declares that members of the tribe from all over the United States will be present, that the history of the Oneidas for many years back will be traced, and terms of treaties with the United States will be brought out to show that the Indians are being defrauded.

REALTORS PLAN TO DISCUSS TAXATION

Wisconsin Association Meeting Will Be Held at Manitowoc Oct. 18-20

Manitowoc—(P)—Divisional conferences dealing with agricultural land, lake land and the work of brokers builders and subdividers, will play an important part in the annual convention of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Brokers, Oct. 18 to 20. Taxation of real estate and uniform forms for Wisconsin realtors will also be discussed. Officials in charge of the convention hope to bring about uniform form for all real estate transactions in the state.

Lake land development, which has been increasing rapidly during the last two years, will be discussed with a view to further expansion of the work and to make it a more permanent, year-around basis rather than a seasonal project, reaching its peak in the summer time.

Opening Tuesday night with a dance, with representations from all of the 18 boards in the state and other visitors, the convention will continue until Thursday evening. Social features will supplement the regular business of the convention and entertainment has been provided for women guests during the three days.

A. J. Berke, general manager of the American Real Estate Institute, Chicago, will deliver the opening address Wednesday morning. Charles D. Rosa, Madison, member of the state tax commission, will speak on the taxation burdens of real estate.

John W. Eber, speaker of the assembly, will discuss the responsibilities of the legislature to the tax-payer, and Peter A. Cleary, member of the legislative committee of the Wisconsin League of Building and Loan Associations, will review the relation of building and loan to the real estate business.

Opportunities for lake land development, exemplified by the work carried on in Michigan during the recent years, will be sent out by John Dosile, executive secretary of the Michigan Real Estate Association. The closing of the day's session will be featured by the lake land conference, open to general discussion of problems affecting Wisconsin owners.

Feel Stiff and Achy?

To Be Well the Kidneys Must Thoroughly Eliminate Waste Poisons From the Blood.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired, and drowsy—suffering nagging headache, headache and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions scanty and burning in passage? Do you wonder what is wrong?

Know, then, that these are often signs of improper kidney action. Active kidneys free the blood of poisonous waste. Sluggish kidneys allow acid poisons to remain in the blood and upset the whole system.

If you have reason to believe your kidneys are acting sluggishly, assist them by using a tested diuretic. Doan's Pills have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have established a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Drive A PAIGE

Only by a demonstration can you know how restful and satisfying it is to drive one of the improved Paige sixes or eights.

Smooth and powerful motors insure quick acceleration, and sustained high speeds. Unusually long springs, and snubbing devices, contribute to riding ease and roadability. Wide seats with deep cushions, ample leg room and convenient appointments further add to your comfort.

The steering gear specially designed for balloon tires, clutch, and gear-shift lever respond easily. Four-wheel brakes bring you to cushioned rest.

The sturdy chassis is built for long life and reliability by veteran craftsmen in modern factories equipped for economical production. Until you drive a Paige, you cannot fully appreciate either its satisfying performance or substantial value. Prices range from $995 to $2665, f. o. b. Detroit.

PRODUCTION RECORDS ASSAILED BY O'NEIL

Says Increase in Speed of Manufacture Means Decrease in Care

"There seems to be a fever among tire factories for 'record production,'" declares William O'Neil, President of the General Tire and Rubber Co. "Announcements are being made from various factory sources that on such and such a day 'we made fifty per cent more or twice as many tires as we ever made before, and the fever for record production periods seems to be epidemic in the Akron tire-making region."

"We are grateful that thus far we have escaped the contagion and unless our intentions and policy are vitally changed we will never have any such announcement to make."

"For we have drawn certain conclusions about record production. It means a great increase in speed in operations and a great decrease in care. Most of the labor in Akron rubber plants is employed on a piece-work basis, so much per item. Just one example: On a recent record production day in one of the local factories one operative earned exactly twice as much as he ordinarily earns in a full working day. In other words, on the special day he performed just twice as many operations as he would in a regular day's work. Speed-volume were the spur behind such workers and they responded, as the records show. What became of carefulness, exactness and precision in the matter of making tires just right, is not mentioned in the announcement of the record production figures."

"Record production such as is now being announced means letting go of every standard of care and setting up a new standard, speed—which must be obtained at the expense of the quality. We have in proportion, as great a demand for General tires and tubes as we demand for other makes and have been, proportionately, just as far behind our orders in the present buying rush. But we have insisted on using more men instead of more speed and demand just as much care in every operation as when production is at its lowest ebb. We want every General Tire to be just as good as every other General Tire and demand exact, careful work, uninterrupted by any demands for a speedier production per man. It is by a careful maintenance of the General standard that we maintain the high quality of General products. We believe that those who attempt to produce more than a normal supply of merchandise without adequately adding to their man power at the same time, suffer from their record production when the rush merchandise has to show its merits in road work. So there will never be production contests at General. For a day or a week or any period. We are working 24 hours a day, with three shifts of careful workers and believe that is a safer way to build up production quantity."

ENGINEER SUGGESTS "MECHANICAL EAR"

Would Do Away With Human Element in Testing of Automobile Engines

A suggestion that the "mechanical ear" should be the next development in eliminating the human element from the marvelous precision methods which constantly are building better performance and longer life into modern automobiles, is contained in an article which appears in a recent issue of the Journal of the Society of Automotive Engineers under the signature of R. R. Todd, chief inspector of the Oakland Motor Car Company.

Under present procedure, the final "inspection" of a confidential assembly before being placed in the car is by the keen ear of a man specially trained to listen to the sound of the gears as they are revolved by an electric motor.

If the assembly "sounds good" he passes it. But no two men hear exactly alike and man never has been and never will be infallible. In other words the human element is variable. It is the replacement of this human element by a "mechanical ear" of unchanging accuracy that is advocated by Mr. Todd.

"In spite of the care taken in many cases to establish a standard to follow, considerable difficulty is experienced in obtaining a practical, uniform standard on noises," writes Mr. Todd. "It is extremely difficult to secure men whose sense of hearing is keen enough to enable them to 'standardize' to a point insuring uniformity of product that will satisfy the buying public. According to our experience, about one man in 500 has a sense of hearing that will enable him to pass satisfactory judgment day after day; and even the best men have their 'off' days. Their hearing is affected by their physical condition and frequently by outside causes to the extent that they will pass unacceptable units which are not discovered until the final car assembly has been completed. This is costly. It reveals clearly the weakness of the human element."

The invention of an instrument or process that will indicate or register noise in a practical way would be one of the greatest possible assets in modern mass production.

"There is another difficult problem in standardizing inspection in matters where personal judgment is required, such as body finish and enameled parts. In visual inspection involving personal judgment, diligent effort must be made to pick men who are above the average in ability and have 'even' dispositions."

"A temperamental or indifferent inspector cannot be expected to maintain a standard where his personal judgment, uniform from day to day will avoid the handicapping of production."

STUDEBAKER RECORD REVIVES OLD MEMORY

J. M. Studebaker Rode to Gold Fields in Wagon He Made in 1859

Recent happenings have the habit of calling up past events.

On Sept. 2, 1927, a Studebaker Commander Sedan, piloted by Ab Jenkins, drew up to the Carquinez Bridge on San Francisco Bay at the end of a record breaking dash from the Atlantic to the Pacific—3302 miles in 77 hours and 40 minutes—2 hours and 15 minutes under the previous record.

Out in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, N. M. Molsied read of the victory of The Commander, sat down, wrote Ab Jenkins a letter. He said, in part:

"I have read with interest the account of your victory in The Commander. The first Studebaker that crossed the plains owned by my father. It made the trip in 1859. It was not an automobile of course, but a hickory wagon. It carried the name of Studebaker from South Bend (where the families were neighbors) to the gold fields of California."

"When relating the incidents of the trip my father would invariably say, 'We calculated on starting earlier, but Mr. Studebaker was making the wagon and it wasn't ready yet. I allow I made time by waiting for the wagon though, for it was right smart. There were 20 covered wagons in our train and the rest of the boys were always fixing theirs, but I never had to do any fixing on our Studebaker and the roads were right rough too.'"

Mr. Molsied's father, in all probability, was on the same wagon train that carried J. M. Studebaker to the California gold diggings. The records say that the latter purchased his passage west by building the wagon and giving it to the train.

Although the old accounts do not record it, there was undoubtedly much surprise registered by the settlers as the Studebaker wagon pulled up to its San Francisco destination in perfect condition after such a hard trip. And too, in all probability, the occupants of the wagon, when asked how they did it, replied, "that's nothing—for a Studebaker."

And Ab Jenkins, when he cut off his ignition at the Carquinez Bridge on San Francisco Bay, also remarked in a quiet voice to those who pressed about him, "that's nothing—for a Studebaker."

HUDSON NOW WORKING ON SECOND MILLION

Production for Year Already Nears 250,000 Mark for 6-cylinder Cars

With its production for the year near the quarter-million mark, Hudson Motor Car Company already has manufactured more Hudson and Essex cars in 1927 than in the entire 1926 season. The 250,000th six cylinder car for the year will be turned out within the next few days.

Hudson became, earlier this year, one of the small circle of companies working on its second million total of cars. By far the greater part of this total has come since Hudson-Exsco entered the volume field a few years ago; the years 1925, 1926 and 1927 will alone count for more than three-quarters of a million cars.

"The record for this year and the seasons immediately preceding it," said John Adams, Hudson-Exsco dealer, "prove that the motor car industry is entering its period of great strength and popularity. Cars which deserve the public's favor are enjoying their greatest successes, and can look to the future with entire confidence. These cars are designed with attractiveness, performance and reliability combined are winning the market."

SERVICE MAN GIVES HINTS ON AUTO CARE

Recommends Changing of Oil to Heavy Grade and Use of Anti-freeze Solution

The vacation and touring season is ended and all that remains are memories of the good times enjoyed. There is one thing, however, that should not be forgotten and that is the good automobile that made the good times possible. A little attention at this season will insure a continuance of automobile satisfaction during the coming winter.

A list of suggestions for preparing the automobile for the cold weather season following the summer driving period has been prepared by T. H. Stambaugh, general service manager of Oldsmobile. Mr. Stambaugh classes these suggestions under "preventative maintenance," inasmuch as the items tend to prevent unnecessary maintenance charges.

"During the past six months," says Mr. Stambaugh, "privately owned automobiles, practically without exception, have traveled long and fast over all types of roads and under varying conditions. Preventative maintenance attention to the car at this time will result in longer life and continued satisfactory performance in the future."

"We recommend that the following suggestions be carried out: 'Have the water in your cooling system replaced with a good anti-freeze solution as soon as climatic conditions require its use.' 'Have the oil in the crankcase changed to winter grade.' 'Lubricants in axle and transmission should be diluted or changed to cold weather grade.' 'Body bolts and nuts should be tightened.' 'The chassis should be given thorough lubrication.'"

HIGH SPEED TESTS MADE BY LA SALLE

Every Type of Driving Is Tried on 12 Stock Cars at Proving Grounds

Mileage equal to a trip around the world twice every month is being piled up by Cadillac and LaSalle cars at the General Motors Proving Ground, Milford, Mich. Nearly a million and a quarter miles for experimental and test runs have been conducted on these two cars by the Cadillac Motor Car company during the past two years.

The mileage from July 1, 1925, to July 1, 1927, was 1,215,276. This is equal to 48.5 trips around the world, more than five times the distance to the moon, and is also equal to the average annual mileage of 1215 cars.

These figures were revealed by H. M. Stephens, general sales manager of the Cadillac Motor Car company, following the recent test run in which a LaSalle car made 951 miles in 599 minutes.

"The purpose of these high-speed tests is not primarily to develop speed but to make a supreme test of durability," Mr. Stephens states. "At the General Motors Proving Ground there are ideal conditions for high-speed work with every possible factor of chance and hazard eliminated and we know of no better method to test the engineering perfection of a car than by the use of high speed."

"When a car is going at a hundred miles an hour the engine is turning over at approximately 4,200 revolutions a minute and many of the parts are moving at almost lightning speed. For instance, the actual travel of a piston is almost unbelievable. In a distance of less than five inches, it starts, attains a speed of 60 miles per hour and stops in a 140th part of a second—3400 times in a minute. At that speed a valve opens, takes a full charge of gasoline vapor and closes in less than 1/100 part of a second."

"The fastest moving part on the car is the circumference of the flywheel, which revolves at 171 miles an hour."

"In addition to the twelve LaSalle stock cars which have been continually undergoing tests since they first came from the production line January 14, another six experimental LaSalle produced earlier piled up heavy mileage. Five Cadillac cars were each driven distances ranging from 105 to 138 thousand miles and the sixth has traveled more than 80 thousand miles."

"The tests at the Proving Ground included every type of driving. Every part must be proved beyond peradventure and the right answer obtained as rapidly as possible. For an average owner to give his cars the same tests as we have completed during the past two years, he would have to drive for more than 100 years."

THREE NEW MODELS ANNOUNCED BY NASH

Special Six Coupe and Victoria and Standard Six Cabriolet on Market

Three new models, each designed to meet a popular demand, are announced by The Nash Motors Company. The new cars are a Special Six 4-door Coupe at $1445, f. o. b. factory, a Special Six 4-passenger Victoria at $1295, f. o. b. factory and a Standard Six convertible Cabriolet at $995, f. o. b. factory.

"With addition of these new cars, the Nash line now embraces twenty-four distinctive models, all sixes and ranging in price from $865 to $1990, f. o. b. factory," says E. H. McCarty, general sales manager of The Nash Motors Company. "Each of the three new cars was designed especially to meet a demand for a car of its type and as with all other Nash models, these new cars are equipped with the Nash 7-bearing crankshaft motor."

In the Special Six 4-door Coupe Nash presents a model of exceptional charm and utility. It is built for five passengers and is distinguished at first glance by its smart leather-trimmed back, its rakish front end and its handsome in-built, mickle-strapped custom trunk at the rear.

Upholstery is taupe mohair, deeply tufted with, together with the panelings of genuine walnut and fine hardware, add an air of luxury to the interior, a handsome vanity case and smoking set adding further to the convenience of the occupants and to the general atmosphere of the car.

The Victoria on the Special Six chassis is designed in that good taste which distinguishes Nash body craftsmanship. The color harmony is rich and harmonious below the moulding, with black hood, black belt, black rear deck and black top. Added charm is given this color combination by the nickel-plated headlamps, cowl lamps and radiator shell.

In keeping with its striking outward appearance, the interior of the car is fitted and trimmed in good taste. The steering wheel is genuine walnut; the instrument board and panels are walnut finish and the upholstery is genuine mohair. In hard-wood paneling, seating arrangements are provided to comfortably accommodate four passengers, and when not in use, the folding seat may be set forward out of the way. A large compartment in the rear deck has been provided for packages and parcels.

In the Standard Six Cabriolet, Nash has made a decided advance in the design and construction of cars of this type, the new Cabriolet being not only modern in appearance but a utility car as well. It is a closed car with top up and an open car with top back down windows lowered. In reality two cars in one.

Bumpers and bumpers on the Standard Six Cabriolet are standard equipment. The body combination is striking. The hood and rear deck are deep Burgundy as are also the wheels. Below the moulding the body is beige while the fenders and running gear are black. Contrasting with the color harmony is the Burbank top with nickel trimmings.

Upholstery of the broad front seat and the comfortable rumble seat is of gray leather, rugged, practical and good looking.

DODGE BROTHERS HAS BROADCASTING HOUR

Dance Orchestra and Male Quartet Present Varied Programs

The program for "Dodge Brothers Dependable Hour," which has in the past been broadcast over the Columbia Broadcasting system every Monday evening will hereafter be on the air from the same stations each Friday evening, it was announced Saturday.

The first program under the new schedule will be broadcast Friday, October 14 and will take the place of the program that would ordinarily be on the air Monday, October 16th. It will mark the completion of Dodge Brothers' first month of broadcasting and is to be featured by many presentations of unusually high character in comparison even with the previous Dodge programs. These have been claimed by thousands of listeners to have established new high standards in radio broadcasting as no effort or expense have been spared to obtain artists whose abilities are outstanding.

The Friday night program will consist of selections by "Dodge Brothers Dance Orchestra," the male quartet which has proven so popular since it made its debut September 13; "Dodge Brothers Concert Orchestra," an all-soloist combination of the finest musicians available and "Dodge Brothers Dance Orchestra," which will present the latest in dance music with all the variations that go to make modern jazz. Soprano and baritone solos by two outstanding artists will be interspersed throughout the hour.

The "Dodge Brothers Dependable Hour" will hereafter be a regular feature of the Friday programs broadcast over the Columbia system of radio stations and is on the air from 9 to 10 P. M. Eastern Standard time, 8 to 9 Central Standard time, 7 to 8 Rocky Mountain time and 6 to 7 Pacific Coast time. The stations comprising the Columbia system cover the eastern part of the Mississippi River. They are: WOR, Newark; WMAQ, Chicago; WCAO, Philadelphia; KMOX, St. Louis; WGHP, Detroit; WJAZ, Boston; WCAO, Baltimore; WJAS, Pittsburgh; WKRC, Cincinnati; WAIU, Columbus; WMAK, Buffalo; WEAN, Providence; WADC, Akron; WPBL, Syracuse and WOWO, Ft. Wayne.

USE HYDRAULIC PRESS IN TIRE MANUFACTURE

Vulcanize Tires in Steel Molds Placed in Heaters That Resemble Boilers

Huge hydraulic presses, capable of 1,131,200 pounds pressure, used to close the molds in which tires are vulcanized, are one of the most interesting divisions of equipment in the factory at Akron, where Miller tires are made. By the movement of a lever that a child can operate, great hydraulic rams 30 inches in diameter exert a pressure of 1,600 pounds to the square inch.

Tires are vulcanized in heavy steel molds placed in large heaters that resemble upright boilers. As fast as the heaters are emptied of molds, in which tires have been vulcanized, they are filled again. Molds are transported to and from the heaters by conveyors, and the tires are taken from the molds and new ones put into them for vulcanizing while they are in motion.

Molds are filled with tires, pressed in the huge presses, vulcanized and emptied in a never ending circle. Only slight pauses are made along the line. Correct vulcanization is assured by a variation of less than two degrees in any part of the heaters.

Tire filled molds are raised and lowered in the heaters by an operation similar to the working of the huge presses. The mere raising and lowering of the molds in the heaters to any distance. As molds are stacked in the heaters they are lowered so that the top of the stack is level with the mouth of the heater. When the vulcanizing process has been completed, the molds are raised from the heaters in the same manner.

NEW SALES MARK SET BY GRAHAM BROTHERS

Continue to Lead Truck Field in 1 1/2 and 2 Ton Classes

September sales shipments of Graham Brothers' 1 1/2 and 2-ton trucks established a new high record for the year, according to an official statement from the company today. For the first time in 1927 the total shipments of these two capacities exceeded the 2,000 mark for a single month, continuing Graham Brothers' leadership over all other manufacturers in the 1 1/2 and 2-ton field. Compared with the August sales shipments of these capacities the September record represents 33 per cent gain.

Sales shipments of all Graham Brothers vehicles totaled 5,107 in September, an increase of 17 per cent over August and export shipments of 1,066 trucks exceeded August figures by 17 per cent.

Orders for the complete new line of Graham Brothers trucks are steadily growing in volume, the statement said, and since their introduction in August, the company's plants at Detroit, Evansville, Stockton and Toronto have been working at capacity.

Backchisarai, Crimea. (P) —Backchisarai, the city of 65 fountains and innumerable gardens, once the Mohammedan capital of the Crimean Horde and the seat of the Crimean sultans, is rapidly losing its ancient Eastern aspect.

Of 2,000 women living in the city, only two, it is said, are wearing the veil and carefully avoiding strangers. A hundred Mullahs, or Moslem priests, are reported to be without occupation and from only two of the 40 mosques may be heard the voice of the Mullah summoning his followers to evening prayer.

The population of the city is rapidly decreasing. From 25,000 in 1914 it has dropped to 9,000 in 1927. The Mohammedan school built by the sultan in Crimean sultan Mengli-Girei-Khan in 1500 still remains, and to penetrate it the visitor, after leaving his shoes at the threshold, must bend his head low, for the heavy chain placed there by the oriental despot 427 years ago still hangs across the portal.

The influence of modern civilization is apparent. Electricity is in use everywhere in the small flat-roofed houses built of white Crimean stone, and movie posters often embellish the walls of old Mohammedan homes.

LOCAL BUICK DEALER VISITS FLINT PLANT

Enthusiastic Over Precision and Capacity of Huge Manufacturing Concern

A. C. Radtke of the Central Motor Car Company, authorized Buick dealer here, is enthusiastic over a tour of the Buick Motor Company's vast factories at Flint, Mich., which he has just completed.

"My visit to the Buick plant," said Mr. Radtke, "explained something I have always wondered about, namely, how so much value can be bought for the price of a Buick. Making every motion count is the answer. In the whole immense factory, covering an area 1 1/2 miles long and two to five blocks wide, men and machines move with just one purpose: the production of fine motor cars."

"One of the most marvelous industrial sights in the world, I believe, is the unified assembly line in the Buick factory. Here, in three parallel lines under the same roof, frames for Buick Motor cars are transformed from bare steel skeletons into living things of steel, glass, wood and rubber, resplendent in luxurious trim and bright Duco, ready to fare forth into the highways of the world."

"The frame moves slowly but steadily down the line, on its endless mechanical conveyor, receiving one assembly unit after another—engine, steering gear, wheels, and finally body—and then rolls away under its own power for final inspections. Large cumbersome parts are stored on mezzanines above, and are lowered by power hoists as needed. The piece with which the arrival of each item is timed, and the precision with which the hoists or automatic conveyors deposit it just where it is needed, are revelations in modern industrial practice."

"It was especially interesting to me to realize that each individual unit arriving at these main assembly lines had been assembled in the same manner on an assembly line of its own. The six-cylinder valve-in-head engine, for instance, started out as a bare cylinder block, and received crankshaft, camshaft, pistons, rods, valve mechanism, and other parts in their proper order. Then it graduated to the block test, where it was 'run in' for hours to insure smooth operation and long life. An endless conveyor, almost half a mile long, brought it to the main assembly line where it joined the chassis."

"Among the most gripping sights of the trip were the foundry, where 1,000 tons of molten iron are poured into Buick parts each day, and the drop forge plant, where the earth trembles under the impact of the huge steam hammers, beating out Buick crankshafts, camshafts, and other high grade steel parts. There is something elemental about these operations, and they are vaguely terrifying. And there is much that is suggestive of the sturdy strength and capacity for long service in the chassis beneath your Buick's glossy Duco exterior."

BATTERIES ALWAYS NEED BEST OF CARE

Service Stations Willing to Do Work of Cleaning Delicate System

Every first-class housewife demands that her house be cleaned at specific intervals during the year. She insists that she is not able to live and do efficient work in a dirty house. Your battery is a precise little housewife even though its existence is quietly concealed under the floor boards of your car. In direct contrast with the ordinary housewife it requires house cleaning oftener than once or twice a year. It must be cleaned from time to time and in return will go about its tasks efficiently and well.

Battery service stations are ever ready to take care of these house cleaning duties for the automobile driver as well as give his battery every service to enable him to get the best results as well as the longest life from it.

CIRCUS CARRIED BY CHEVROLET TRUCKS

Chief Mechanic Says He Had No Trouble With Any Part of Light Trucks

When the circus comes to town—if it happens to be Downie Brothers Wild Animal Circus—it comes by Chevrolet. Seventy-five of them—sturdy one-ton trucks—make up the train that transports this entire show, wild animals and all, from the time in early spring it leaves its winter quarters at Harve de Grace, Md., until it returns there late in autumn.

Andrew Downie, head of the show, fixed on Chevrolets after trying other methods of transportation during his 42 years in the show business. He experimented with horse and wagon, canal barges, steam tractors and trailers, motor trucks and railway circus trains.

Now the 75 Chevrolets carry the entire show, consisting of 200 clowns, musicians, tight-rope walkers and other employees, as well as lions, tigers, the "big top," side shows and complete equipment everywhere on the circuit from almost inaccessible mountain hamlets to seaside towns. One truck used by General Manager Harrison as a summer home provides him with a residence enroute. Another carries a complete electric lighting plant.

Last year the circus caravan traveled 7,000 miles over roads of every sort, up mountain trails and dragging in and out of muddy circus lots.

Not one spring was broken and no trouble was experienced with rear ends, or gears, or clutches, according to statements by the chief mechanic, despite the grueling test that each truck underwent and despite the fact that each truck carried an average load of more than 4,000 pounds.

Dependability, Mr. Downie explained, was the big thing that decided him in favor of Chevrolets. His advance guard draws up a traveling schedule which he must adhere rigidly to. His trucks may not break down en route lest he disappoint the youngsters in the next town keyed up for the big parade. Another factor favoring Chevrolets, he says, is the ease and convenience with which new parts or service may be obtained even in remote country districts.

production of Falcon-Knight

Six has struck an unusual accomplishment for a motor car in its initial year, according to Falcon Motors officials who are gratified with the unexpected sales volume being registered by this new product—the first Knight engine in America to sell in the $1,000 price class.

Despite the fact that many automobile manufacturers report a lull in fall business, Falcon Motors officials declare that the sales volume of their product is highly satisfactory with no indications that there will be a lessening in the demand.

Since its initial introduction on the American automobile market about eight months ago, the Falcon-Knight Six has achieved a remarkable success. This is attributed by company officials to the high standard of performance of the car which has set a new high mark for cars selling in the Falcon-Knight price class.

The ability of the Falcon-Knight Six to maintain a steady high rate of speed, hour after hour, its unusual power development which permits it to climb the steepest grades in high gear, unequalled fuel economy for a six-cylinder car in its class, and the general knowledge of the Knight engine's freedom from the usual ills that beset other types of motors, also have played a leading part in this car's rapid popularity.

The company behind the Brambach is the largest in the world devoted exclusively to the manufacture of Grand Pianos. That is why it is possible to produce this quality instrument at such a surprisingly low price. The Brambach will outplay and outlast any comparable piano. See the new 1928 models now on display in our show rooms.

JACK LOCKWILL, THE LION TAMER

"He can do anything he tries to do!" groaned Wattles. "There's nothing can stop him! Here we've run away to join this circus, and he's beat us to it! We've got to give up." "I see myself giving up!" growled Saunders. "We're going to find my uncle right away. He'll look out for us." Red Saunders, standing close behind them, put a hand on Buke's shoulder.

The grip of that heavy hand sent a chill through the big boy, who thought he had been nabbed for stealing the auto. "How'd you get here, Buchanan?" asked the man.

"Holy smoke!" exclaimed the startled boy. "It's my Uncle Redmond! Now we're all right, Lizard!" "Come on out of this crowd where we can talk," suggested Red.

Wattles let his companion do the explaining, and Buke took care not to mention that they had fled from the vicinity of Indian Lake in a misappropriated motor car. The boys were dismayed when they learned that Red Saunders had been discharged by the owner of the circus. "But I'm going back there and fix that boy for meddling!" Red vowed. "I've got friends with the show."

HOSPITAL BOARD WILL HOLD PUBLIC MEETING

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—A meeting of the hospital board will be held at the city hall at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, to which the public is invited. The annual election of officers will take place and a nine months report will be read. The New London Community hospital will on that date have finished its ninth month of operation.

Donation week will be continued, stated the secretary of the hospital board, Mrs. F. E. Lowell. Contributions of vegetables in any quantity will be gladly received, as will also single cans of canned fruit or other food product. The idea which has been entertained by many that the hospital will only receive goods in large numbers or quantities is entirely wrong, Mrs. Lowell said. A part of the porch at the hospital is being enclosed and glazed and will be used as a sleeping apartment for the nurses.

BEFORE GRID GAME

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—New London's traffic came to a halt on Friday evening to give full sway to the parade, snake dance and bonfire which marked the pep preparations of the high school for its first home game which is being played Saturday afternoon with West De Pere high school. Led by the band in full uniform, the long line of snake dancers wound about the city streets finally bringing up at the new high school grounds where a huge bonfire was lighted. A great part of the Fourth ward's population turned out to watch the work out of the team in the glow of the fire, and to listen to the cheering led by Lowell Seims. The fire department arrived in the midst of the event, having been called by a telephoned alarm from some resident of the ward. Chemicals were used in extinguishing the flames for the night.

The open air mass meeting adjourned to the high school where the high school girls and women members of the faculty had arranged an informal reception and lunch.

35-POUND "MUSKIE" IS CAUGHT IN PELICAN LAKE

Special to Post-Crescent.
Wauwauca—A 35-pound "muskie," the largest one caught in the state this year, was landed at Pelican lake, Wednesday afternoon by J. E. Campbell of Wauwauca. Mr. Campbell, in company with Henry Budding and Ted Connor of this city spent three days at Pelican, but on account of bad weather they were unable to fish only about two hours of that time. Mr. Campbell says the Wauwauca fishermen catch more muskies than any one else at Pelican lake. A local resident broke the record two years ago by catching 11, one of which was a fine specimen of the tiger muskie and which weighed 35 pounds. Mr. Campbell stated that this is a finer specimen of the tiger muskie than the one in Field's museum.

NEW LONDON CHIEF BACK FROM ANNUAL MEETING

Special to Post-Crescent.
New London—Chief Andrew Lueck of the local police department, arrived home on Thursday evening following a two days convention of state Wisconsin Police Chiefs association which was held in Racine. Chief Lueck said the convention was the seventeenth he has attended during his 22 years of active service on the force. He stated that the work of the convention was chiefly administrative. Meetings of this kind promote better understanding and more harmonious feelings between officers of the various cities, Mr. Lueck said. In learning to know one another officers are in position to aid one another in times of emergency in caring for the welfare of the cities they represent.

They went home. It was Sunday. The silo began to crack. Before the men who had filled the silo could get to it to reinforce it it burst and showered slage and wreckage into the barn lot. A meeting of the faithful was held. A new silo was decided upon and by four o'clock Monday the friends started construction work.

Friendly Farmers Twice
Save Neighbor's Silage

Wauwauca—(AP)—Applied friendship saved Sam's silage.

A few weeks ago Sam B. Lowry, Wauwauca-co farmer, suffered acute appendicitis just as silage filling time came. He was rushed to a hospital. Fifteen of his neighbors came to the rescue and under cooperative arrangement filled his silo with the ensilage that would have made winter feed for Lowry's animals.

They went home. It was Sunday. The silo began to crack. Before the men who had filled the silo could get to it to reinforce it it burst and showered slage and wreckage into the barn lot. A meeting of the faithful was held. A new silo was decided upon and by four o'clock Monday the friends started construction work.

Working until 9:30 at night, with "the women folks" helping by adding with meal service, lights and hot coffee, the neighbors soon had the tube ready for the first replacement of silage. By Wednesday noon Sam's silage had been saved.

The story of the neighborliness is told in the current issue of the Wisconsin Agriculturist.

NOTICE OF SALE IN FORECLOSURE
STATE OF WISCONSIN, COUNTY COURT FOR OUTAGAMIE COUNTY.
Notice is hereby given that at a regular term of the county court to be held in and for said county, at the court house in the city of Appleton, on said county on the first Tuesday, being the 1st day of November, A. D. 1927, at 10 o'clock A. M., the following matter will be heard and considered:
In application of Alexander J. May, executor of the estate of Elizabeth May late of said county, deceased, for the cancellation and allowance of his final account, the executor of said estate, and all persons in interest, and all persons whom this action may concern, Defendants.
The State of Wisconsin, TO SAID DEFENDANTS, AND EACH OF THEM:
You are hereby summoned to appear within twenty (20) days after service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service, and defend the above entitled action in the court aforesaid; and in case of your failure so to do, judgment will be rendered against you according to the demand of the complaint, of which a copy is herewith served upon you.
The above entitled action is brought by said plaintiffs to establish and quiet their title and claim to and forever bar said defendants, known and unknown, against having or claiming any right or title adverse to plaintiffs in and to the following described real estate and premises affected by this action, to-wit:
The North Forty-six (46) feet of the South Ninety-three (93) feet of Lot Four (4), and the North Forty-six (46) feet of the South Eighty-seven (87) feet of the East Sixty (60) feet of Lot Five (5), all in Block Two (2), of A. B. Randall's Plat, Second Ward, city of Appleton, Outagamie County, Wisconsin, according to John Stephens' Recorded Map of said city published, adopted and recorded in the year 1872.
The original summons and original verified complaint in this action are now on file in the office of the Clerk of the Municipal Court of Outagamie County, Wisconsin, subject to examination.

Acres - Acres - Acres

55 Acres of the Lynch Farm, So. Cherry Street, Just Outside the City of Appleton on Concrete Highway 41 leading to Menasha.

This land will be cut into parcels of about one acre each. The farm lies entirely in the Town of Menasha, Winnebago County, where taxes are CHEAP. It is good soil for any purpose, fifteen acres, heavily timbered, can be made into wonderful HOMESITES. Good location for small truck, berry, chicken, fur farms, etc. Sixteen lots 60x240 ft. each facing the highway, will be sold for business and residence purposes. One lot about 225x225 ft. for a filling station site. So. Cherry Street and No. Richmond Streets inside of the City of Appleton is restricted by the Zoning Law to the effect that no business can be established on these streets except that which is already there, or which has been set aside for that purpose. There is as much traffic on this highway as there is anywhere in the state, and we believe that a restaurant, Summer Hotel, Tire Shop, Garage, small grocery and meat market, Wrecking Service, Battery Service, Ice Cream and Candy Shop, in fact any business which caters to the automobile trade would do well to establish a branch on this beautiful entrance to the city. The business lots will be restricted to set back 25 feet from the lot line on highway 41 and Lynch Ave. This to allow free passage of traffic and plenty of parking space on your own ground.

All lots are further restricted not to be used for filling station purposes except lot 1 Block 3 and excepting that in case a public garage or garages to be erected, one gasoline pump may be operated in connection therewith. All lots in the entire plat are further restricted prohibiting junk yards unless operated entirely in a closed building and set back fifty ft. from any street.

GOOD SOIL

Just outside of the city of Appleton and not far from the City of Menasha. Taxes in the Town of Menasha are less than one-third the rate paid in the city. You can raise enough on any of these acres to feed your family. If you wish we will plow the land for you this fall or in the spring FREE OF CHARGE.

All Streets in this Plat will be graded as soon as weather conditions permit and not later than next spring.

SALE NOW ON

TAXES
Present owners will pay taxes for the year 1927. Compare these prices with any other small acreage near the city and you will find they are asking around $1000.00 per acre. This is bound to be a good investment and a safe place to put your money.

PRICES
We will sell you an acre at the price of or less than a City lot and you can take as many acres as you want. Prices ranging from $450.00 to $1100.00 per lot. Those lots which are higher than $450.00 contain more than an acre or have other advantages. There are only a few of the higher priced lots most of them around $500.00.

TERMS
For cash at the time of the sale or within thirty days a discount of 5% will be allowed. Lots bought on time payments require a down payment of 10% of the purchase price of the lot, balance payable $10.00 per month or more with interest at 6% payable semi-annually.

TITLE
This property is free and clear and you will receive an abstract with each lot when paid in full. If sold on time payments you will receive a Contract specifying terms, etc. and when contract is fulfilled you will receive a deed and abstract.

PAYMENTS
All payments except the first will be made at Appleton State Bank. The man with the hoe and an acre of land cannot starve. If properly worked, an acre will produce enough to feed the average family. Wouldn't you enjoy working a little land summer evenings after leaving your office or your work?

ALSO 13 ACRES OF THE LOEV PLAT

In connection with the Lynch Plat we also offer 13 acres of the Loev Plat the same being a subdivision of Block 8, which is entirely in the City limits and adjoins the Lynch Plat containing 10 pieces of one acre and more. These ten lots all have Ravine Backyards very desirable for small truck farms with Vineyards or Fruit trees on the slopes of the Ravines.

These Acres will make beautiful homesites, secluded and yet in the city and close to concrete highway. They all join onto the lots which are on River Drive, Ravinia Place and Cherry Court. A fifty foot street has been provided from Cherry Court to this Block of lots for the purpose of light, gas, water and sewer. There is no city improvements of any kind in the Lynch nor Loev Plats, except the concrete highway and gas on So. Cherry Street and along highway 41.

Assorted Specialties Draw Most Speculative Interest on Wall Street

New York—(AP)—Speculative interests in Saturday's stock market were confined to a select assortment of specialties. The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 300,000 shares. Prices continued to point upward at the opening. Midwest Steel Products, Pfd. showed an initial gain of 2 1/2 points, and May Department stores opened a point higher at $8. A new high record, American Linseed Common and Union Carbide also showed initial gains of a point each. Operations in the advance were resumed on the theory that the technical position of the market had been strengthened by the recent reaction that the 4 1/2 per cent call money rates established Friday was only temporary and that the distribution of more than $300,000,000 in dividend and interest payments Saturday would create a new investment demand. Pools were again active in a number of specialties. Foreign exchange opened steady, demand sterling ruling around $4.36 11-16 while Spanish pesetas made further recovery to 17.20 cents.

ELECTRICITY BASIS FOR EXPANSION OF WORLD COMMUNISM

Leaders in Soviet Plan Scientifically for Nation's Economic Life

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fourth of a series of articles on conditions in present-day Russia by Jerome Davis, a member of the faculty of the Yale University Divinity School and a special correspondent in Russia for the Post-Crescent and NEA Service.

BY JEROME DAVIS

Moscow—One of the most striking facts in all Russia is the daring attempt to plan scientifically for the economic life of the nation.

The ideal towards which the Communists are aiming is the nationalization and socialization of the basic forces of production and distribution. This includes the land, the mines, the railroads and the factories.

In the words of their constitution this means, "The abolition of exploitation of man by men, the entire abolition of the division of the people into classes, the suppression of exploiters, the establishment of a socialist society and the victory of socialism in all lands."

It is one thing to plan but another thing to do, and the Russians are a long way from fulfilling their economic dreams. In Moscow, for instance, a huge sign over an office building reads: "Society for the Electrification of All Russia." On the inside door one is confronted by a small sign over the electric bell reading: "Out of Order—Please Use the Push Bell."

MAKING PROGRESS
Nevertheless, in a few fields they are making progress.

Let us illustrate by what is happening in the electrical industry. As far back as 1921 Lenin declared, "Communism is the Soviet power plus electrification."

Electricity as typifying the key to the Twentieth Century has caught the imagination of the Bolsheviks. To their minds, if Russia can become the dominant nation electrically, it will have established its superiority over all the rest of us. Actually, in their development of electrical power, they are but using the achievements of capital.

With the dynamo, Russia can not only remake her industrial and transport systems, but the Communists believe that they can also revolutionize the village. Besides displacing the kerosene lamp in every hut, electricity, like a powerful mystic genie, can lighten the burdens of the peasant all along the line.

In planning her electrical system, the Russians have charted all potential sources of power. The country is divided into twelve great districts so that each will eventually have an adequate supply.

WON'T BURN THEIR OIL

Russia refuses to divert certain natural resources into electricity. Thus she considers her tremendous oil deposits as "flowing gold" to be used only for export. Similarly her high-grade coal must be saved for manufacturing. Water power constitutes the chief basis of the electrical system but this is not available every where.

On the other hand, Russia has large peat beds. Elsewhere peat has never proved practicable as a fuel for creating electric current. The Russians, however, have learned how to dry it and use it in the production of electricity. The Shatura electric station, near Moscow, is the largest peat fuel station in the world and has a capacity of 48,000 kilowatts.

Under the Tsar in 1913 all the power plants combined produced only about 1,345,000,000 kilowatt hours. Today the total is already over 3,000,000,000, an increase of over one-third. Ten new stations have been opened in the past year alone.

AN EXTENSIVE PROGRAM

The Soviet government has laid down a five-year program which calls for the expenditure of 550 million rubles ($125,000,000) the first year and increases to 500,000,000 by the last year. During this period they plan to erect 30 regional stations having a total capacity of 1,500,000 kilowatts.

It is interesting that the Russian engineers, many of whom are not Bolsheviks, are working 17 and 18 hours a day at a wage less than $300 a month. I asked one of these experts,

"What can possibly induce you to work this way?"

He answered, "During the Civil War and after, we were not trusted with important work. It was awful. Now it seems so fine to be actually doing again that we just throw ourselves into it for the pure fun of seeing something done."

Perhaps the most ambitious project which the Russians are attempting is that of the Dnieper river dam. They plan to construct the largest hydro-electric plant in the world. It would have a capacity of 600,000,000 horse power and its ultimate production would be about one-third larger than Muscle Shoals because it has a larger flow of water. As a result of the dam, the river commerce would be capable of development to 20,000,000 tons annually.

The story of this project, which I got at first hand from Russian government officials and also from the famous American engineer, Col. Hugh L. Cooper, builder of the Muscle Shoals dam, will illustrate how Russian technical plans are gradually emerging.

CAME TO AMERICAN EXPERT

Russian engineers have given a free hand in planning the project but when they laid their ideas before Rykoff and Stalin the latter said, "You may be right but we are not competent to pass on your plans. You must secure the approval of a man with a record which can be photographed."

With these instructions a committee of four engineers and a secretary were sent out from Russia to travel over the world and find a man who could supervise the project. After six months of search in Europe they finally came to America and found their man in Col. Cooper, the foremost expert in this line in the world.

Col. Cooper sent over three engineers who stayed in Russia for five months. He then went himself and was able to advise the government that the project was sound. The proposed dam is situated near great iron and coal deposits which promise great industrial expansion. Its power will be used by the entire Ukraine.

The dam will be 2300 feet wide and 120 feet high. With its related auxiliary structures it will require 1,400,000 yards of masonry, or 15 per cent more

2 YEARS TO BUILD

In order to comprehend even faintly some of the construction difficulties, Col. Cooper explained to me that one million cubic feet of water each second (three times the entire volume of the St. Lawrence river) will have to be carried over a structure 120 feet high. It must be brought down again so gently that it will not tear out the river bottom.

Underneath this mammoth structure the real dam will be built. It will take at least six years to construct and will cost at least $75,000,000.

Col. Cooper admitted that construction would be somewhat slower on account of Soviet labor laws.

"Today Russian labor is being babied," he said. "It takes a month and three separate formal complaints to discharge a man. If a worker gets hurt the foreman has to go to court to prove he was not responsible. This increases costs and time, but the Russians will sooner or later change such nonsensical laws."

"Russia 50 years from now will be the most powerful country in Europe. Her people have the brains and all they need is the ambition. The heads of the Soviet government are honest. They have purchased over one billion dollars from abroad and there has not been one dollar of graft." (Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

Two Write Exams
Two civil service examinations were held at the Appleton postoffice Saturday morning. One was to fill a vacancy as postmaster at Combined Locks, the other a vacancy in the civil service department as an examiner. T. C. Franck, secretary of the civil service board of examiners for this district had charge of the examinations. There was one applicant for each position.

Rush Hospital Job
Edward P. Johnson, representative of Smith and Brandt, local architects, in charge of work on a new hospital at Beloit, is spending the weekend in Appleton. Construction work on the project is being pushed as rapidly as possible. Concrete for the second floor will be poured next week.
